Friends ridicule the report that Gen. Smelly Butler will retire, as he is not of a retiring disposition.

The suggestion that Gen. Butler be put in charge of the Washington crime wave somehow seems to promote the National Capital to the Nicaraguan class.

Why doesn't the Senate preserve its traditional right to discuss the eligibility of candidates for public office behind closed doors by merely amending the rules to provide that after the secret session the votes for and against confirmation be made public? The tariff reform movement that ended in the Underwood revision was ushered in by a plea by the shoe manufacturers that they would agree to free shoes if they could get free hides, and now the shoe manufacturers are consenting to a tax on hides if they can get a tax on shoes. CRUISER BILL'S TIME CLAUSE IS CRUX IN DEBATE

Harrison, Nye Stressing Point in an Effort to Defeat Measure.

EACH SIDE HAS EYES HARD SET ON VICTORY

Senator Barkley, of Kentucky, Wages Spirited Defensive Onslaught.

By ALBERT W. FOX.

The crux of the cruiser bill battle in the Senate now revolves around the time clause, with two more days of debate before the final vote. As a result of yesterday's developments the issue has been defined as sharply and definitely as any senator could have expected.

Senators voting to strike out the time clause and thereby provide no definite date for construction of the cruisers are frankly admitting that they hope by this method to kill the bill. Senators Harrison and Nye stressed this point in yesterday's debate, the former expressing his sincere hope that no cruisers would ever be built if the time clause was eliminated.

Senators voting to maintain the time clause will be guided, according to their own statements, by their determination to see actual ships built, according to a definite schedule, and adequate naval defense thereby promoted in the face of opposition elements, many of which conflict with each other, but all of which are viewed as designed to realize the internationalists' cherished dream of "no American cruisers."

Barkley Answers Opponents.

Senator Barkley, of Kentucky, summarized the situation in a few crisp sentences when he replied to speeches made earlier in the day by anti-Navy advocates. He expressed his hope that the Kellogg antiwar treaty might be productive of good; that naval limitation conferences might result in agreement; that the conference for new rules to protect neutrals in the next war might conceivably achieve the desired ideal. But Barkley offered the following thought in conjunction with the above admissions.

"The question is," he said, "whether it is safe for us to leave ourselves unprotected while praying for the realization of these ideals."

For his part, he was not willing to risk the security of the American people while the dreams of century-old hopes well still being indulged in. He announced his intention to vote for the cruisers and to vote for the retention of the time clause.

Comparative Data Given.

Announcing at the outset a desire to get down to facts and escape the confusing maze which had been injected into the discussion, Barkley gave a few pertinent figures relative to the naval strength of America, Great Britain and Japan.

Great Britain, he said, has now 56 modern cruisers, with an aggregate tonnage of 316,776; Japan has 26, with an aggregate tonnage of 136,000, and the United States has 10, with an aggregate tonnage of 66,000.

Taking into account ships now in the process of construction, Barkley pointed out that the total American tonnage, after the eight new cruisers are completed, will be 146,000, as against 206,000 tons for Japan and 409,000 for Great Britain. In gun power, the ratio will be Great Britain, 339; Japan, 169, and United States 120.

Senator Robinson, the Democratic leader, called attention to the fact that the great British and Japanese increases had come after the Washington Arms Limitation Conference, while the United States had desisted from ship building in keeping with the spirit of that pact.

"Great Britain has more than five times the cruiser tonnage of the United

WIDOW AND DOCTOR HANGED FOR KILLING

Mrs. LeBouef First Woman Executed in Louisiana and 25th in This Country.

DIE BEGGING FOR MERCY

Franklin, La., Feb. 1 (A.P.).—The first white woman to be executed in Louisiana, and a physician went to their deaths on the gallows here just after noon today for the murder 18 months ago of the woman's husband, James LeBouef, Morgan City electrician.

Mrs. Ada Bonner LeBouef, 38, and Dr. Thomas E. Dreher, 56, died protesting they were innocent, and with whispered prayers. Dreher seemed calm but Mrs. LeBouef called "mother" several times and exclaimed "Isn't this a terrible thing!" She struggled as the black cloth was fitted over her head.

Each talked from the steel gallows trap to the small group of male witnesses seven feet below. Each requested the hangman, a man with his lower face shielded by a red bandana handkerchief, not to let them strangle to death. Their wishes were complied with as the neck of each was broken as the metal trap swung open.

The grim ceremony was performed in the small, brick towered village jail in a 12 by 12 foot corridor. Jailers went about their work quietly but their nerves gave way after it was over.

Mrs. LeBouef was the twenty-fifth woman to be executed in the United States. Desperate efforts were made to save her and Dr. Dreher but Gov. Huey P. Long declined to intervene after the State and Federal courts and the United States Supreme Court had refused to act.

Sheriff Charles Pecot went to Mrs Lebouef's cell at noon and told her to come with him.

She was sitting on the edge of her cot, dressed in a plain pink linen slip dress and white silk stockings.

"Sheriff, you know I am innocent;

Senator James Couzens Pledges $12,000 to Charity Drive.

MRS. EDWARD CAFRITZ LEADS DAY'S TOTALS

Unwilling Gifts Not Wanted, Official Says; Campaign Is for Good Will.

Community Chest totals mounted to $770,551 yesterday.

This included the officially audited total of the special gifts committee, the unoffocial total announced at yesterday's report meeting of the Metropolitan unit, which amounted to $74,243.01, and a pledge from Senator James Couzens, of Detroit, for $12,000, obtained by Mrs. Sidney P. Tallaferro and which will be officially reported at the next report meeting of the special gifts committee Monday.

Mrs. Edward Cafritz headed the winning team yesterday, turning in both the largest number of pledges and the largest amount of money. Mrs. Cafritz reported 125 pledges for $3,415 and her team rode in the patrol wagon to the thermometer in front of the District Building, where she painted in the rise of the "mercury" for the day.

Chest Seeks Good Will.

Denial of any desire to tell any donor what that donor should give was voiced by Clarence A. Aspinwall, secretary of the Community Chest, at yesterday's meeting. "The Community Chest is working for good will," Mr. Aspinwall said. "We are building for a permanent future for the Chest and not merely working for contributions this year. No gift of whatever size should be refused. The Community Chest wants no unwilling gifts as it believes that 'the gift without the giver is bare.' It wants no gifts larger than the giver believes is his share in the work of the 57 welfare and charitable organizations which are associated with the Chest.

"Officials of the Chest have been distressed because some gifts were smaller than the donor apparently realized would be necessary if we are to reach our goal of $1,343,348.93, but it is not the policy of the Community Chest to speak slightingly of any gift or the failure of any person to give. That is a matter for that person's own conscience. As I said before, the chief asset of the Community Chest is good will, and if any giver feels that he has been in any sense coerced into giving unwillingly the Chest will gladly return his money."

Gifts Called Investments.

Linn C. Drake, local Boy Scout executive, likened the Community Chest to an investment rather than a gift in a talk made at yesterday's meeting. Mr. Drake said that too much stress is being placed upon the charity portion of the drive and not enough on what the Chest is helping to build for the future in the shape of splendid manhood and womanhood. Miss Gertrude Bowling, director of the Instructive Visiting Nurses Society, explained the work of her organization.

Reports of the group solicitation unit, which were included in the day's total, showed marked enthusiasm among the employes of the various or-

Dr. Noyes Selected As Hospital Head

Rhode Island Post Reported Accepted by Psychiatrist at St. Elizabeths.

Dr. Arthur P. Noyes, widely known psychiatrist, head of the medical staff at St. Elizabeths Hospital, was in Providence, R. I., yesterday conferring with officials of the Rhode Island State Hospital relative to the superintendency of that institution.

Dr. Noyes was offered the position several days ago following the death of the former superintendent, who is alleged to have been murdered.

Dispatches from Providence last night were to the effect that Dr. Noyes had accepted the post, but officials at St. Elizabeths had not been notified.

HUSBAND IS HIT BY SHOTS, WIFE FIRED AT RIVAL

TERRORIZED CROWD RUSHES FOR SAFETY

Shot down by his estranged wife in a fourth-floor corridor of the Police Court building shortly after noon yesterday, Charles Albert Brown, 40 years old, of 23 H street northwest, was in a serious condition last night at Emergency Hospital. He is suffering from three .32 caliber bullet wounds, one in the chest and one in each arm.

Mrs. May C. Brown, 40 years old, of 815 C street northeast, the estranged wife, was disarmed after she had fired five shots from a revolver she carried in a pocketbook. She admitted the shooting and was lodged in the House of Detention pending the outcome of her husband's injuries.

The bullets were intended for Lillian Johnson, also of 23 H street northwest, Mrs. Brown told police. Brown and Miss Johnson were arraigned before Judge Ralph Given on a statutory charge and Mrs. Brown became furious when trial of the charge was postponed.

Shoots Without Warning.

As the defendants emerged from the court through one door, Mrs. Brown, accompanied by her cousin, Mrs. Pauline L. Boyce, of 5320 Forty-first street, Chevy Chase, entered the corridor from a witness room. The wife then drew the revolver from her pocketbook and, without a word, fired.

The bullet passed over the shoulder of the Johnson woman and struck Brown in the chest. He slumped to the floor while the "other woman" ran screaming down the hallway. While lying on the floor, according to witnesses, Mrs. Brown fired four more shots, two of which took effect in her husband's arms.

Patrolman R. F. McCarthy, of the Third Precinct, an eyewitness of the shooting, rushed down the corridor and took the revolver from the infuriated wife. She made no resistance. McCarthy was followed by Detectives Michael J. Dowd, of the Sixth Precinct, and Spottswood F. Gravelly, of the Third Precinct, who took Mrs. Brown in custody.

Shots Scatter Crowd.

The report of the first shot echoed cannonlike through the courthouse and was a signal for bedlam to break loose. The corridor in which the shooting occured was crowded with more than a score of men and women, defendants and attorneys, who rushed for the stairways, adjoining rooms and other avenues to shelter as soon as the first shot was fired.

Mrs. Boyce, who had accompanied Mrs. Brown from the courtroom of Judge Given, ran back to the room and threw her arms around the magistrate, screaming:

"Save me judge, save me."

Judge John P. McMahon, presiding in a courtroom adjoining that of Judge Given, gave an order that none should leave the room as soon as he heard the shots. His order was practically useless, as a number of people were scrambling to enter the room and exit was virtually impossible. A similar order was given spectators in Traffic Court by Judge Isaac R. Hitt.

Several Postponements Given.

Brown and Lillian Johnson were arrested on October 5, 1927, on the charge. Several postponements were granted in the case and once it was dismissed for want of prosecution. Mrs Brown, after the dismissal, called upon Judge Given and complained she had not been served with a summons to appear when the case was disposed of and Judge Given reinstated the case.

Bertrand Emerson, jr., Brown's attorney, caused Judge Given to postpone the case yesterday. Emerson recently left a sick bed and was so hoarse that he could scarcely speak above a whisper when he asked the court to postpone the trial. Judge Given granted the request, due to the attorney's illness.

Emerson left the courtroom in front of Brown and the codefendant and

Ladies of Senate Face Problem in Election

Eligibility of Curtis' Sister to Preside Referred to State Department.

A question of precedence has arisen to becloud the customary serenity of the Ladies of the Senate, that group of women whose husbands compose "the greatest deliberative body in the world."

Parliamentary differences which at times, tangle the Senate are not confined to the husbands either, because the Ladies of the Senate now are in considerable doubt over how to get around the custom for the wife of the Vice-President to be president of their organization.

Vice-President-elect Curtis, who is a widower, will have as his hostess his sister, Mrs. Edward Everett Gann. Mrs. Gann, as hostess, has had the same social status held by the daughter of the Secretary of the Treasury when she was hostess for Mr. Mellon, prior to her marriage to the son of Senator Bruce, of Maryland.

The former Miss Mellon's status was passed on by the State Department for purposes of official dinners and banquets, and it was held that she could not be placed upon the same social

Mrs. Blalock's Furniture Removed to Her Home by Representative.

THROUGH WITH CASE, TEXAN NOW ASSERTS

Commissioners Decide to Give Accused Captain Chance to Explain.

DECISION DEFERRED ON HIS SUSPENSION

Question Held in Abeyance Pending Investigation by District Attorney.

The mystery over who ordered the furniture of Mrs. Helen Blalock moved from her palmistry establishment last week was cleared up yesterday when it was learned the removal was arranged by Representative Thomas L. Blanton (Democrat), of Texas.

This revelation followed closely an announcement by the District Commissioners that they would call Police Capt. Guy E. Burlingame before them today and give him a chance to defend himself against the sensational charges of Mrs. Blalock.

When she visited Blanton in Texas three weeks ago Mrs. Blalock swore in an affidavit in which she charged that Burlingame had made love to her in order to seize her property, had threatened to kill her if she talked and had expressed the opinion that Blanton ought to be killed.

Blanton Explains Action.

Representative Blanton said yesterday that in arranging to have Mrs. Blalock's furniture moved from 1004 Seventh street northwest to 618 H street northeast, he was simply carrying out a promise he made to her in Texas to take care of her affairs here.

Evidently, Blanton said, the woman, who now is missing, had no friend here to whom she could entrust her affairs. Among other things the Texan has done for Mrs. Blalock has been to have loans on her property here extended.

Mrs. Blalock rented the Seventh street place, whereas the H street house where her furniture is now stored is her own property. Neighbors said last night that they had not seen her recently and did not know where she was.

Her palmistry establishment was on an upper floor of the Seventh street property, above a dingy pool room patronized by colored men. On the door leading to her apartment was a sign bearing the words "Mme. Zanna, Palmist." Since late in December when she disappeared from Washington, the word "Closed" has been on the sign.

House Figures in Case.

The H street property of Mrs. Blalock figures prominently in the documents which Representative Blanton has turned over to the district attorney and to the District Commissioners in connection with the Burlingame-Blalock case.

In her affidavit, Mrs. Blalock said she left Washington through fear that Burlingame would take her life, and declared that the police officer would have caused her to lose her property if it had not been for Representative Blanton.

Blanton, she said, arranged to have her loans extended just in time to take care of the trusts on her H street property. It is understood that Blanton, who was in Texas at the time, carried on the negotiations through a friend, William J. Weber, a grocer, of 403 H street northeast.

Through Now, Says Blanton.

Every day now, Blanton grows more reluctant to discuss the case. He declared yesterday that, inasmuch as he had turned over everything he had to the local authorities, he was "through." He takes the position that it is now

FRIED, HERO OF SEAS, WELCOMED TO CITY

TO REMAIN THREE DAYS

A flashlight, camera-clicking welcome awaited the capable Capt. Fried, heroic master of the America, when he arrived at the Union Station last night for a three-day sojourn in Washington.

The captain was on time, in the nick of time, it might be put, when he went to his celebrated rescue of the Italian freighter Florida, but the train bringing him here from New York last night was 25 minutes late, arriving at 11:20 o'clock.

A comparative handful of persons were on hand to meet the maritime hero. The group, furthermore, was largely made up of photographers and reporters.

Capt. Fried was accompanied from New York by Mrs. Fried, George Mabee, assistant general manager of the United States Lines, and Martin L. Petrey, also representing the shipping concern.

At the station to greet the captain officially were W. W. Everett, R. F. Cottrell and others representing the Washington Board of Trade; S. E. Redfern, Washington representative of the United States Lines; C. L. Doggett, representing the United States Shipping Board, and Clem W. Gerson, manager of the Carlton Hotel.

Barely giving the camera men an opportunity to take one picture and the reporters none at all to talk to him, the captain and his party were rushed into waiting automobiles and whisked to the Carlton, where they will stop while here.

The captain will be guest of honor at the Willard Hotel tonight at the annual dinner of the Board of Trade. At 10 o'clock this morning he is due to call at the Shipping Board and at 11 o'clock is to be received by Secretary of the Navy Wilbur. President Coolidge

COOLIDGE DEDICATES NEW BOK SANCTUARY

WEALTH HELD NEEDLESS

Mountain Lake, Fla., Feb. 1 (A.P.).—In a setting of sylvan beauty, President Coolidge today delivered what may be his last address as chief executive, dedicating to the people of America the sanctuary and singing tower established here by Edward Bok.

A crowd estimated in the tens of thousands listened as the President spoke, although only a small part of the throng was visible to him. His audience was seated among the palm trees and shrubbery with which the sanctuary abounds, while amplifiers carried the President's message to them.

Mr. Coolidge was introduced by Mr. Bok, once an immigrant from Holland, later a prominent editor and philanthropist, whose generosity made possible the sanctuary and the singing tower with its carillon of 61 bells. Gov. Doyle E. Carlton, of Florida also delivered an address, welcoming Mr. Coolidge to Florida and inviting him to make his home in this State after his retirement from office.

Mr. Coolidge's address was devoted largely to an exposition of the view that the people of America are achieving a constantly growing appreciation of the beautiful and are enjoying a new era in the national life which brings to the masses of the people the advantages once reserved to a fortunate few.

The President cited three underlying circumstances which he believed had brought this about—Free education, public concerts, and art museums.

"This sanctuary and tower," he said, "are not only endowed with a beauty of their own, but they are a representation of the beneficent spirit of the giver. They are another illustration

King Shrinks to 90 Pounds; Full Recovery Is in Doubt

Physician Warns British Public Against Undue Optimism Over Continued Improvement of Patient—Foch's Spirits Rise Despite Attack of Grip.

London, Feb. 1 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The British public was startled tonight by a statement issued from Buckingham Palace warning them against undue optimism in regard to the condition of King George. The statement was issued from the palace during a visit to the king by Lord Dawson of Penn, who stayed at the bedside half an hour.

"There is a tendency among certain sections of the public and among some organs of the press to assume that the king's transfer to Bognor will usher in his convalescence," the statement said.

"This view is incorrect. It will be recalled that bulletins and medical reports have stated that his majesty's progress was happily reaching the stage when it would be advantageous to remove him to the sea, with a view to accelerating the establishment of his convalescence in the not too distant future. Although his majesty's condition continues to improve, progress of recovery after so severe an illness must of necessity be slow."

This, it is believed, is intended to warn the public that the king, in his doctor's view, although in no danger of death in the near future, hasn't yet rallied sufficiently to make it at all certain that he will ever completely recover.

"Convalescence," in the view of medical men, is a term that must not be used until it is certain that the king is going to get well, and this certainty does not exist.

He remains a skeleton of his former self, now weighing about 90 pounds, it

Aged Mother Dies Quickly After 2 Sons She Nursed

Pneumonia Sets in With Collapse, Following Unceasing Vigil at Bedsides of George and Henry Osborne; Another Brother, Doctor, Ill From Strain.

Unceasing devotion and vigil for days at the bedside of her two sons who died within a few hours of each other Sunday, yesterday resulted in the death of Mrs Annx Osborne, 75 years old, of 1102 E street southeast. Pneumonia developed following her collapse from exhaustion after the death of her two sons.

Funeral services for Mrs. Osborne, a widow, will be held Monday morning at 9:30 o'clock at the Holy Comforter Church. Burial will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery.

George M. Osborne, 47 years old, died Sunday morning shortly before 6 o'clock, from pneumonia. His brother, Harry O. Osborne, 38 years old died eight hours later. He had been ill for several months.

During the last stages of her sons' illness, Mrs. Osborne kept constant vigil at their bedsides, administering to their needs with devotional care. When the younger son died Mrs. Osborne nearly collapsed. There was another son to care for and she used her remaining strength to make him comfortable until his death. Then she collapsed.

Pneumonia set in rapidly. Her life was despaired of. Yesterday morning she passed away. Another son, Dr. Raymond F. Osborne, who aided in the treatment of his two brothers and mother, is ill at his home from exhaustion.

Mrs. Osborne is survived by two sons, Dr. Osborne and Bernard Osborne, and two daughters, Mrs. Leroy Warrick and Miss Ada Osborne.

up to the district attorney or the District Commissioners to complete the inquiry.

Decision to give Capt. Burlingame an opportunity to be heard was reached yesterday at a meeting of the Commissioners attended by Corporation Counsel William W. Bride.

It was, according to the Commissioners, about the only thing which was definitely decided about the matter yesterday, although they said flatly they expected definite developments today in their investigation. They had not had time yesterday to devote much attention to the Burlingame charges, they said, because of the pressure of other matters.

Another meeting of the Commissioners had been called for today, at which time they will center their attention on the Burlingame affair and decide on a course of action. Individually and together, they said at the adjournment of their meeting at 5:30 o'clock last night that they had not reached a decision.

What form Burlingame's defense will take is problematical. There is a possibility he will be asked to give an oral explanation to dissipate the charges against him. A written statement may prove acceptable to the Commissioners.

The disposition at the conclusion of the board meeting yesterday was not to force the police captain to say anything at this time, especially in view of the fact that the district attorney still is studying evidence to determine whether criminal charges will be preferred against him.

Undecided on Suspension.

Whether Burlingame is to be suspended pending the final outcome of the charges also is still to be determined. So far as Maj. Hesse, superintendent of police, is concerned, Burlingame will not be suspended. He intends to await action by the district attorney before doing anything else. There is something of the same sentiment among the Commissioners.

Bride conferred yesterday with Representative Blanton, of Texas, who submitted photostatic copies of love letters, checks, receipts, and other papers, having to do with the relations between Burlingame and Mrs. Bialock. Immediately following his visit to the Texan, Bride returned to the District Building, carrying a large envelope of papers and went into conference with the Commissioners.

What was the outcome of the conference between Blanton and Bride was not learned. Blanton told reporters afterward, "I wish you'd leave me out of this thing."

Bride said he had been told not to discuss the Burlingame matter, in which he is acting as the chief investigator for the commissioners. The Commissioners said Bride had gone to Staunton merely to see whether there was any additional evidence the Representative had to submit to the commissioners.

Hesse Kept From Meetings.

The absence of Maj. Hesse from the meetings of the commissioners at which the Burlingame matter was considered was remarked yesterday, and it is understood the exclusion of the police chief did not sit well among police administrative officers.

Commissioner Dougherty, however, took occasion to say that there was no criticism of Maj. Hesse in connection with the affair; that the police chief had made his attitude perfectly clear in his statement before the Gibson House District subcommittee, and that there was nothing in that statement of which the commissioners disapproved.

LINDBERGH IN MIAMI AFTER RAPID FLIGHT

WILL OPEN MAIL ROUTE

Miami, Fla., Feb. 1 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh arrived at the Pan-American airport here at 5:40 p. m. today from Curtiss Field, New York, which he left at 6:45 this morning. As he had not been expected in Miami until tomorrow he was greeted by only a small crowd at the airport.

His hop of approximately 1,200 miles was made in almost perfect weather although headwinds were encountered most of the way to Jacksonville, Lindbergh said, necessitating a stop there for more fuel. Change in temperature from winter to summer weather did not appear to have affected him.

After circling the airport, he made a three-point landing and left the field immediately for the Joseph H. Adams estate on Belle Isle in Biscayne Bay, adjoining the J. C. Penney estate where President-elect Hoover is stopping. Col. Lindbergh will be a guest at the Adams home, which is being used for offices of the Hoover force, until he departs Monday morning to inaugurate air mail service from Miami to Cristobal, Canal Zone.

Tomorrow noon the flying colonel will be guest at a luncheon at the airport given in his honor by the Pan-American Airways, Inc., to be followed by public reception. No plans have been made for him for tomorrow night or Sunday.

Scheduled to start from here at 6 a. m. Monday, Lindberg will fly a Sikorsky amphibian loaded with mail to Havana, Cuba, and then to Belize, British Honduras, where he will pass the night. Tuesday he will hop for Managua, Nicaragua, and on Wednesday is scheduled to continue to Puenta Arenas, Costa Rica; David, Panama, and Christobal, where he is expected to land at 4 p. m.

33 Thoroughbreds Burn In Wichita Stable Fire

Wichita, Kans., Feb. 1 (A.P.).—Thirty three thoroughbred horses were burned to death here early today when fire destroyed the stables of the Wichita Saddle and Bridle Club. Among the horses lost was Lila Lee, a $20,000 filly.

Club officials said the total loss would be several hundred thousand dollars. The origin of the blaze was undetermined. Stable boys made desperate efforts to save some of the horses by cutting them loose from their tethers, but the animals refused to leave the burning building.

Brokaw, Wealthy Broker, Obtains License to Wed

San Francisco, Feb. 1 (A.P.).—Clifford V. Brokaw, New York millionaire obtained a license here today to marry Miss Violet Mary Morrison, of San Francisco. Application was made for the license last Monday. Brokaw gave his age as 52 and Miss Morrison as 26.

Brokaw recently was divorced in Nevada after settling about $3,000,000 on his former wife.

Neither Brokaw nor members of his party would say when the wedding would take place.

Six Half-Starved Children Rescued

Neighbors Respond to Cries as Parents Desert Them in Empty House.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Feb. 1 (A.P.).—The story of how the parents of six children, ranging in ages from 1 to 9 years, deserted their brood and left them without food or fuel in a shack on the sores of Mona Lake, in Muskegon County, was told here today when two of the children arrived at University Hospital for treatment for rickets, due to undernourishment.

The children, five boys and one girl, were found in the cottage by neighbors. There was no fire and had been none for some time. The children were crying from the cold and huddling in corners to escape the chill winds which swept through the flimsy dwelling.

Two boys, 5 and 7 years old, were found to be suffering from rickets. They were sent here, while the other children were taken in by warm-hearted neighbors. The 1-year-old baby may lose a toe as a result of having his feet and hands frozen.

Information obtained by county authorities was that the father of the children had left several months ago for Chicago and the mother had followed a few days ago.

Man, 48, and Father of 18, Captures Snowshoe Race

Lewiston, Me., Feb. 1 (A. P.).—A 48-year-old father of eighteen children today won the international snowshoe race from Montreal. Eugene Clouette, of Montreal, the winner, arrived here at 2:32 p. m., covering the twelfth and final lap of 22 miles from South Paris in 4 hours and 7 minutes. Clouette led throughout the race. Seventeen men started on January 21 for the 282-mile trek. Ten fell by the wayside in the early days, only seven remaining at the start from South Paris today.

Coulter and Bride Plan Tour Abroad

Weather Keeps Principals in Mystery Romance at Home.

Indianapolis, Feb. 1 (A.P.).—A short trip to an unnamed point in North Carolina and then a tour abroad "where there are no reporters," were the modified plans today for Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth B. Coulter, principals of a mystery-cloaked romance, whose marriage was solemnized here late yesterday.

Following the wedding a brief announcement was made that the couple had departed for New York. Zero temperatures, however, caused a change of plans and the couple remained today at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Earl McConnell.

Mrs. McConnell said the Coulters planned to leave for North Carolina as soon as the weather moderated.

Rum in Fallen Plane On Ice; Pilot Is Gone

Federal Coast Guardsmen took charge of the liquor, which was packed in gunny sacks, 36 pint bottles to the sack. Not a bottle was broken. The front part of the plane pierced the ice, but the wings kept it from going under the surface.

The pilot, who yesterday said he was Ernest Stafford, of Chicago, after a plunge in the icy water in escaping from the plane, boarded a train for Chicago and has not been seen since.

HOOVER TO DISCUSS BUDGET WITH SMOOT

Tariff Revision Also Is Slated for Consideration at Meeting Tomorrow.

ANOTHER SAILFISH TAKEN

By CARLISLE BARGERON
(Staff Correspondent of The Post).

Miami Beach, Fla., Feb. 1.—The problem of making President-elect Hoover's promised "new day" in American Government square with the Nation's budget is bringing Senator Reed Smoot, of Utah, to Miami Beach Sunday.

Gratified that he is master of the sailfish, having caught one yesterday and another weighing 50 pounds today, Mr. Hoover is to return tomorrow night and the following day going to conference with Senator Smoot over some of the outstanding problems of his forthcoming administration.

In the first place, there are costly projects authorized in the Coolidge administration which must be carried out in the Hoover regime, such as inland waterways and Boulder Dam. Then there is farm relief that Mr. Hoover has promised. He also has all sorts of ideas about the development of trade in South America.

Government works have in many instances been permitted to lag under the rigid economy policy of Mr. Coolidge. The President himself has referred to his administration as the period of reconstruction and pointed out that the next stage is to be one of constructive progress.

Projects Require Big Outlays.

This costs money—Boulder Dam, farm relief, inland waterway development and constructive progress.

Mr. Hoover's ability to deal with them is what his biographers have generally referred to as the "new day." Senator Smoot does not know much about the new day. In fact, he wanted President Coolidge to run again. But he is an expert on the budget, and more so on the tariff.

Mr. Hoover is giving thought to the question of just how the forthcoming tariff revision will affect revenues. He does not want the new rates to be so high as to be prohibitive, and therefore shut off this source of Government income.

As it is, it is believed governmental expenditures will be materially increased in his administration. Nevertheless word out of the Treasury several weeks ago hinted at a tax reduction, but the contemplation of increased expenditures and decreased revenue in the same mental process are decidedly unpleasant as well as difficult.

Tariff Tampering Feared.

Some congressional leaders having this in mind as well as their wholesome fear about tampering with the tariff, hope to be able to maneuver the forthcoming revision so as to hold it to within 15 per cent of the present schedules. Hearings are being given on every item, but Majority Leader Tilson, of the House, has often expressed the conviction that it will be found that only a small percentage of the schedules need toushing up.

Mr. Hoover conferred with Mr. Tilson and Chairman Hawley of the House ways and means committee, while he was in Washington. He did not see Senator Smoot.

It is reasonable to suppose that Mr. Hoover, in discussing the tariff with the Utah Senator, will also have in mind his recent good will tour of Latin America and his desire to make it the first mart of this country's foreign trade. Unless the revised tariff makes for interchange of goods between this country and the countries to the south it is hard to see how Mr. Hoover can accomplish his desire.

Cates Boomed for Cabinet.

The Utah senator will undoubtedly take advantage of his visit to press the cabinet cause of Louis S. Cates, of his State. Cates, a millionaire mining engineer, has been prominently mentioned for Secretary of the Interior. In fact, he appears to be the best bet for the place.

Incidentally, Senator Smoot is expected to be the forerunner of other visitors Mr. Hoover wants to see.

Word today from the fishing party off Long Key was to the effect that Mr. Hoover is now content to let sailfish alone but that he has become ambitious to hook a tarpoon and is considering going over to the West Coast of Florida for this purpose.

With him out of the city it was Gov. Smith Day at the races this afternoon, and there was a turnout that packed the stands to greet the Democratic presidential candidate. Every time he moved about the crowd cheered and the band played the familiar "Sidewalks of New York."

MISSING GIRL DEAD, IS BELIEF OF POLICE

FARMHAND GIVEN HEARING

Abandoning their previous theory that Viola Quinn, 17-year-old Marlboro High School student, who disappeared from the school nearly two months ago, is alive, Prince Georges County officials have altered their activities to coincide with a theory that the girl died as the result of an illegal operation. No trace of the girl or her body has been found, but State's Attorney J. Frank Parran and police say they have evidence which would tend to support the death theory.

The girl's aunt, Mrs. Hattie White, of Queen Anne County, Md., is under arrest on a charge of conspiracy and Prince Georges County police will bring her to Upper Marlboro today. The girl's mother, Mrs. John Quinn, has been arrested on a charge of suppressing evidence and released on $300 bond.

Bernard Sellman, colored farmhand on the father's farm at Croome, Md., yesterday waived a preliminary hearing on a statutory charge and was held for action of the grand jury by Judge J. Chew Sheriff in Upper Marlboro branch of Prince Georges County Police Court. Bond was fixed at $7,500 and Sellman was remanded to jail in default of bond.

Authorities charge that the girl was submitted to an illegal operation, when she was 14 years old, engineered by Sellman. Sellman denies the charge.

State's Attorney Parran, former State's Attorney J. Wilson Ryon and the county police have been working unceasingly on the case and they believe that when they will have completed their investigations there will be startling developments.

They are working now on the theory that the girl was taken to the Eastern Shore of Maryland for an illegal operation and that she died as the result of the operation. A number of developments which were not revealed by the authorities led them to believe that they are at last on the right track.

The authorities are banking highly on the arrival and questioning of Mrs. White, whom they consider an important witness in the case. They have been led to believe that Mrs. White was implicated in the previous operation and that she has information which will assist greatly in a solution of the mystery.

In the meantime, police are breathing easier because Sellman is still in the jail, as it was feared that trouble would result if he was released. The citizens of the country around Croome have been reported in a state of great excitement over the case and police feared that they would take the law in their own hands if he were released from the safety of the jail.

PHILADELPHIAN, WIFE MYSTERIOUSLY SHOT

SUICIDE PACT SUSPECTED

Philadelphia, Feb. 1. (A.P.).—Frederick H. Gay, assistant to the president of I. P. Morris-De La Vergne, Inc., and his wife, Sarah, were found shot today in their apartment in Mayfair House, Germantown.

Gay, who has a bullet wound in the right temple, is not expected to live. Mrs. Gay was shot in the left temple, but there is hope for her recovery. They are in the Germantown Hospital. Each is 54 years old.

The police reported the shooting had the aspect of a suicide pact. The pistol was found in an incinerator in the basement of the place, it having been thrown down a chute leading from the apartment.

The shooting was discovered when Gay called a houseman on the telephone and said in a feeble voice: "Get me a doctor; I've been shot." The houseman and the apartment physician were admitted by Mrs. Gay. Gay was lying on one of the twin beds. He appeared to be unconscious.

Answering questions, Mrs. Gay said she did not know how the shooting occurred. "I heard a crash of glass," she said.

According to the physician, Gay aroused himself slightly and said: "Don't believe her, doctor; she's all wrong."

Then he lapsed into unconsciousness.

Police investigation showed that the Gays had entertained friends last night, after which they went to the apartment of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. La Vergne, on the fourteenth floor, where they had supper. La Vergne also is connected with the Morris-De La Vergne concern, being manager of oil-engine sales.

When questioned at the hospital, Mrs Gay said she had no idea how she had been shot; that she and her husband had no marital or other troubles.

Mr. and Mrs. Gay came to this city from New York about eight months ago, when he assumed the general managership of the Morris-De La Vergne concern. This corporation about a year ago took over some of the property of the Cramp Ship & Engine Building Co. when this concern ceased building ships.

Yale Graduate Shoots Himself in Night Club

New York, Feb. 1 (A.P.).—Leaving a note saying he was "tired of being useless," Clark P. Huhn, 28 years old, shot himself above the heart in the anteroom of a night club early today. He is expected to die.

He is a son of George A. Huhn, a broker, and is listed in the Social Register. He was graduated from Yale last June and a brother told police he had been depressed because of a lack of success in painting.

upon hearing the first shot, rushed into the office of Assistant District Attorney David A. Hart. Hart immediately telephoned the hospital, but before an ambulance could arrive, police had pressed into service an Army ambulance, which was passing the courthouse.

Says Woman Was Target.

Mrs. Brown was taken into an office off the corridor by the police and admitted she fired the shots with the intent of wounding the Johnson woman, police said. She declared she was sorry that she had injured her husband and frequently inquired, "Is he dead?"

Shortly before the shooting occurred a motion to have Brown adjudged in contempt of court for failing to pay alimony of $10 a week ordered by a court decree last July was dismissed by Justice Jennings Bailey in the District Supreme Court on motion of John J. O'Brien, the wife's counsel. Brown was said to have been $33.50 in arrears when the motion was filed against him.

A suit for limited divorce is still pending in the District Supreme Court Mrs. Brown entered the suit in May, 1927, charging desertion and was awarded custody of their two daughters, Dorothy, 15 years old, and Catherine, 13, and alimony of $10 a week on June 6, 1927. In his answer to the divorce suit, Brown denied he deserted his wife and complained that she deserted him.

They were married on June 28, 1911 Brown is employed as a chauffeur for the National Laundry Co., and Mrs. Brown as a clerk at Goldenberg's Department store.

6 Held Smugglers In Berengaria Case

Steward, Policeman and 4 Others Indicted by New York Grand Jury.

New York, Feb. 1 (A.P.).—The Federal grand jury voted two indictments today, charging a steward on the liner Berengaria, a city policeman and four other persons with implication in smuggling operations which Federal officials estimated to have brought $1,000,000 worth of jewels into the country without duty.

In the first indictment William Ballyn, the steward; John McIntyre, the policeman; Morris Landau, a diamond merchant, and the latter's son and daughter were charged with conspiracy to smuggle. The second indictment charged Ballyn, McIntyre and Moses Levy, a wholesale jeweler, with transportation of smuggled goods.

Ballyn and McIntyre were arrested November 17 after a search of the steward's cabin and revealed $51,000 worth of diamonds and pearls in two packages, one of which, officials said, was consigned to Landau by his son, who is in Belgium, and the other of which was consigned to Levy. The arrest of Levy, Landau and his daughter, Frances, followed more recently. Ballyn was said to have been under surveillance for more than six months.

Author's Body Sent To Potters' Field

New York, Feb. 1 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—A consignment of 168 bodies was taken from the morgue to Hart's Island today for burial in Potter's Field, and among them was Albert Southwick, author, college graduate and descendant of a Quaker family which came to America in 1627.

When Southwick was admitted to Neurological Hospital on January 2, a victim of cardiac disorders, he gave as his friends, Rear Admiral Phelps, of Portsmouth, N. H.; Curtis Southwick, a cousin, of Presbyterian Hospital; Lawrence J. Southwick, of Bordentown, N. J. Military Academy, and George Spartz, a Brooklyn department store operator. On January 18 he died, in his seventy-third year.

His cousin, Curtis, said Thursday he would arrange for burial but he failed to do this and the body was sent to Hart's Island.

Red Sox Official's Will, Made in Pencil, Entered

Special to The Washington Post.

Boston, Mass., Feb. 1.—An alleged will, scribbled in pencil on two scraps of paper, was filed in Suffolk Probate Court today as the last testament of James R. Price, Red Sox secretary, who committed suicide a few days ago at Fenway Park. The pencilled document did not bear the signatures of three witnesses, as required by law.

Judge Prest consented to it being filed "for what it is worth." The "will" directed that all Price's money, except $500, go to his wife, Anne Pauline Price. The $500 was to go to a sister, Miss Alice Price, of Baltimore. To his son, James, Price left his clothing and wearing apparel; to his son, Frank, his watch and chain, and to his son, Lester, a ring.

MUSIC FROM LONDON SURPRISES AIR FANS

STATIC CONDITIONS BAD

By ROBERT D. HEINL.

A new link in the international exchange of radio programs was forged late yesterday afternoon when Stations WRC in Washington, WJZ in New York, and others in a network gave their listeners a portion of a symphony concert direct from London. The program came as a surprise immediately following the broadcasting of President Coolidge's speech and the ceremonies attending the dedication of the Mountain Lake Sanctuary in Florida.

The British concert was picked up by Station 2LO in London, carried by telephone lines to Station 5SW at Chelmsford 30 miles away, broadcast by short waves 3,900 miles over the North Atlantic Ocean to the Radio Corporation station at Riverhead, Long Island, relayed by telephone line to the control board in the National Broadcasting Studios in New York City and sent from there to the country just as an ordinary program originating in the studios. This brought it to Washington by telephone wires to the transmitter of WRC at Fourteenth street and Park road, from whence it was broadcast to listeners in the Capital and vicinity.

Second Time From London.

It was the second broadcast of its kind heard in Washington the other one having been made about four years ago. While the clocks here were striking 7 in the evening "Big Ben" in the tower of parliament could be distinctly heard chiming the hours of midnight. Later a portion of a dance program was received from the Savoy Hotel.

Unquestionably great progress has been made since then but it was apparent to those listening in last evening that even now it is by no means certain that a satisfactory exchange of programs between Great Britain and the United States may be afforded in the near future.

The transmission of the program however would seem to assure radio listeners that in the event of unusual happenings either here or abroad, such as the broadcasts in connection with the flight of Col. Lindbergh fair reception might be assured.

"While it was far from perfect, it was a vast improvement over the only other attempts made to broadcast a program originating in London," said Ralph Edmunds, manager of Station WRC. "At times when the static was down it was quite the best quality I have heard in a transatlantic broadcast but the static was very heavy yesterday."

At exactly 4:48 p. m. the first strains of an unidentified orchestra in London were heard in Washington. The selection played was the portion of a symphony and the number proceeded for about twenty minutes. It was evidently being given in a public hall, for applause could be heard at its conclusion.

"This Is London Calling."

The voice of an announcer was then heard saying, "This is London calling. This ends this evening's concert. Now all stations will give their local announcements." However, the station was cut off before the local call letters could be identified.

Although it may not be generally realized, the broadcast yesterday was not the result of accidental reception of an English program but marks the turning point in long experimentation. Week after week for nearly four years radio operators have been receiving programs from London in the R. C. A. short wave station in New York, but until this attempt was made it was not felt that the reception was good enough to offer to listeners.

Even then they apparently did not feel justified in making an advance announcement for fear of disappointing listeners. Like every one else those at the British Embassy were taken unawares with the result. It was said later that neither Sir Esme Howard nor any of the others knew of it.

Luckier, however, were those who were listening to the broadcasting of President Coolidge's speech from Florida, for they hardly had time to tune out before London came roaring in.

The President's speech, as usual, came through in good shape. There was a treat for those hearing the new 62-bell carrillon, said to be the finest in the world.

Most people are honest. About 98 out of 100 would turn to The Post "Lost and Found" columns if they wanted to get in touch with the loser of an article. After you've met with this misfortune it's a mighty good idea to announce your loss in the classified columns of The Post.

KIDNAPED, IS VIEW

EDITH MAY DIERDOFF, whose newspaper bag was found stained with blood after the 10-year-old girl disappeared from her Terre Haute, Ind., home. Police fear she was abducted.

Man, 32, Arrested In Girl's Kidnaping

Terre Haute Authorities Say He Was in Town When Child Vanished.

Charleston, Ill., Feb. 1 (A.P.).—Harry Daniels, 32, a filling station attendant, was taken into custody today for questioning in the kidnaping of Edith Mae Dierdorf, West Terre Haute, Ind., newsgirl.

Daniels was arrested by Charleston police upon the request of West Terre Haute authorities who said they had learned Daniels had been seen in Paris, Ill., not far from West Terre Haute, on the day the girl was kidnaped.

Daniels, police said, admitted being in Paris on the day the girl disappeared, but denied having been in West Terre Haute or having crossed the State line.

Paris and Terre Haute authorities reached Charleston late today to question Daniels, and he later was taken to Paris for further questioning.

Two Children Coast To Death in Lake

Thin Ice Breaks Under the Weight of Pair on Sled, Just Found.

Orange, N. J., Feb. 1. (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Walter Joy, 16, and his thirteen-year-old sister, Gertrude, were sent to their old home here Thursday afternoon to retrieve two small pictures left behind when the family moved to East Orange. They did not return that night. This morning after a general alarm had been broadcast, police with grappling irons recovered the children's bodies from under the ice in Orange Lake park.

Investigation showed that the children found not only the pictures in their former home but an old sled. Beguiled by the prospect of an afternoon's sport they took the sled to the park and coasted down a low hill. The sled carried them twenty-five feet beyond the lake shore and they were drowned when the ice crashed under their weight.

The father, William Joy, collapsed when he learned of their death and was taken to Orange Memorial Hospital in a serious condition. Mrs. Joy, their stepmother, also was overcome by the tragedy.

she will be entitled to serve as the organization's president.

The point has never been raised, and it is reported the State Department has been asked for a ruling.

Meanwhile, various members have put forward the names of Mrs. George H. Moses, wife of President pro tem of the Senate, and Mrs. Joseph T. Robinson, wife of the Democratic leader, for the presidency.

The annual election of officers, which heretofore has been to fill places other than the presidency is scheduled for Tuesday and it is expected that by that time some ruling will have been made that will enable members to settle the pressing problem of who is to preside over the body during the Hoover administration.

MISTRIAL ORDERED IN GALLOGLY'S CASE

Jury Unable to Agree in Case of Boy Held Coconspirator in Slaying.

HAD BEEN OUT 24 HOURS

Atlanta, Ga., Feb. 1 (U.P.).—A mistrial was declared late today by Judge Virlyn Moore in the case of Richard Gray Gallogly, wealthy young pal of the "thrill slayer," George Harsh, who was tried for the alleged murder of Willard Smith in an attempted holdup last October.

Solicitor General John A. Boykin announced that he would make speedy plans for a new trial in which he will again ask the death penalty.

A poll of the jurors following declaration of a mistrial revealed the fact that at no time during their consideration of the young college student's fate was any member in favor of returning a verdict which would carry the death penalty.

The first ballot taken showed three in favor of acquittal and nine for conviction with a recommendation for clemency, which would have meant life imprisonment.

Subsequent polls showed a gain of three jurors who favored acquittal, the final standing being six for acquittal and six for life imprisonment.

The defendant and his family, which sat near him in the courtroom when the jury made its report, appeared to be well pleased with the result of the trial.

Solicitor Boykin, although announcing he would seek a new trial at the earliest possible moment, admitted he is now uncertain as to which of two possible charges of murder he would try the youth on.

Gallogly is under indictment, as was Harsh, for the slaying of Willard Smith, and also for the murder of a grocer clerk, William H. Meeks, who was killed in another holdup ten days prior to the Smith slaying.

The jury received the case at 6 p. m. yesterday after three days of court proceedings, one of which was consumed by arguments and Judge Moore's charge. It was discharged by the court at 6 p m today.

Movie Magnate Denies His Selection as Envoy

Los Angeles, Feb. 1 (A.P.).—Denial of a report that the post of Ambassador to Turkey had been offered to Louis B. Mayer, vice president of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Motion Picture Corporation, by President-elect Hoover was made today by Mayer in a statement to the Los Angeles Times.

"I am not a candidate for public office of any kind," Mayer's statement said, "and even were I a candidate, Mr. Hoover is not yet President, and to discuss such a thing would be decidedly premature until he takes office."

Paris, Feb. 1 (A.P.).—Marshal Ferdinand Foch, generalissimo of the Allied Armies in the World War, is fighting off a light attack of grip apparently with the same success with which he overcame his more serious trouble with his heart and kidneys a fortnight ago.

His physicians today issued a reassuring bulletin which was designed to overcome anxiety aroused yesterday when it was announced that the marshal had experienced a "slight pulmonary congestion." The bulletin said:

"The slight pulmonary congestion noted yesterday is following its normal course in a favorable manner. The state of the heart and kidneys continues satisfactory."

The doctors added the marshal has had no fever and that he is in the best of spirits.

WITHDRAWAL URGED OF 5 OLD CRUISERS

Crews Could Be Used in Manning New War Vessels, French Suggests in House.

MORE AIRMEN PROPOSED

(Associated Press.)

Withdrawal from service of five old second-line cruisers and the use of their crews on five new warships that will be commissioned in 1930 was proposed in the House yesterday by Representative French (Republican), Idaho.

French, who is chairman of the naval appropriations subcommittee, said in the course of consideration of the anual Navy Department supply bill that while five new cruisers and two large submarines would be commissioned next year, the personnel of the Navy would be increased by only 500 men.

"We have five old second-line cruisers that ought to be withdrawn from the service," he said. "This would release more than 2,000 men, who could be used on the ships coming into service. There are other ships that ought to be withdrawn." He added that he considered the bill now before the Senate to authorize fifteen new cruisers and an aircraft carrier was a replacement program which would supply new ships as the old ones became obsolete.

Need for Airmen Cited.

French declared the $347,000,000 supply bill allotted almost $32,000,000 for naval aviation with a provision for the purchase of 373 new planes during the year, the fourth of the five-year program, at the end of which it is proposed the Navy shall have 1,000 usable planes. The program of teaching pilots is not keeping pace with the aircraft procurement program, he added, declaring the Navy had too few pilots.

He also expressed belief that the program of disarmament could best be carried forward by cooperation between the United States and Great Britain. He said that three years from now, when it is proposed another conference shall be held, the United States would have $1,500,000,000 invested in ships if the cruiser bill becomes a law.

An interchange on the American marine activities in Nicaragua provided a little spice in the discussion, after French declared the total of 5,821 marines sent there was being diminished by gradual withdrawals.

Cole Praises Marines.

Representative LaGuardia (Republican), New York, asked if it were not true that none of the expeditionary force had been recalled, but only those Marines taken from naval vessels. Representative Cole (Republican) Iowa, then interjected a word of praise for the work performed by the American forces.

"Well," LaGuardia returned, "now that Admiral Cole has subdued Sandino, we can proceed."

French said the purpose of the expedition was to prevent, if possible, the lawless condition brought about by bands carrying forward a campaign of pillage.

"That's just the way the Liberal party was described when we went down there," LaGuardia said, adding that the Liberal party had won in the recent Nicaraguan election.

States," Barkley said, "and Japan has twice the American tonnage."

Senator Harrison started the day's debate with a characteristic appeal to Republicans to stand by their party leaders and knock the time limit out. The senator from Mississippi interpreted the telegram of President-elect Hoover to mean that Hoover wanted the time limit out and he interpreted President Coolidge's attitude to mean that the President wanted paper ships for bargaining purposes with foreign powers and that senators should permit the President to employ this diplomatic weapon at the next arms limitation conference or the conference scheduled for 1931.

"If we build cruisers now we might have to scrap them in 1931," Harrison argued. Senators Wheeler, King, Norris and Frazier, all opponents of the bill, interrupted at intervals to emphasize points which Harrison made.

Appeals for "Free Hand."

While asking for the time limit to be eliminated, the senator from Mississippi expressed the hope that the ships would never be built at all if this was done. He therefore appealed to Republicans to give the administration "a free hand."

"Is the senator trying to make up for the fact that his State is one of the few that did not vote for Hoove.?" asked Senator Bingham.

"Maybe so," replied Senator Harrison, adding that he would vote to strike out the time clause in the hope that the President would be able to call a disarmament conference and codify sea rules before the time came to consider new cruiser construction.

Senator Heflin pointed out that the cruiser bill as it stands gives the President the authority to suspend cruiser construction "after an agreement on naval arms limitation has been reached," but senators realized that this is very far different from any proposal that America cease building for her own protection while agreements are merely in the process of vague discussion and while foreign powers purposely encourage this vague discussion and feverishly build ships at the same time.

Senator Nye read a prepared speech in which he appealed for abandonment of the cruiser program in order to give the world an example and promote peace. Someone must give the world an example of unselfishness, he said, and why should his role not fall to America?

Senator Hale interrupted to say that America has been playing precisely the role which Senator Nye advocates and that her abiding faith has simply produced continual naval increase by Great Britain and Japan.

"How long does the senator think we should wait," Senator Hale asked, "before realizing that we must provide for our own protection?"

Senator Nye admitted that the British had been increasing their navy during the waiting period, but he blamed this on the British admiralty and predicted that the British people would overrule the admiralty if this policy continued.

Senator Norris spoke against the cruiser bill toward the end of the day's session. He favored abandonment of the cruiser building program in the interest of economy.

POPE PIUS PLANNING ECUMENICAL COUNCIL

LAST ONE HELD IN 1869

Rome, Feb. 1 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Pope Pius XI has nominated a commission of four eminent theologians deeply versed in ecclesiastical history to prepare a program for a great ecumenical council to be held in St. Peter's Basilica in Rome.

The date for this universal meeting of the hierarchy of the Roman Catholic Church has not been definitely decided upon, but indications are strong tha it will be convened in 1930. Mgr. Pellizzo, superintendent of the workshops of St. Peter's, has been instructed to submit at once plans for the seating of more than 1,000 delegates, who will be invited from all parts of the world.

The last ecumenical council, the twentieth held since the foundation of the Roman Catholic Church, was convened by Pope Pius IX on December 8, 1869, and remained in session until October 20, 1870. The last ecumenical council before that of 1869-70 was held 300 years earlier at Trent.

Roman Question.

At the forthcoming council, cardinals, bishops, archbishops and hundreds of high prelates will deliberate on the manifold changes in the structure of the church since the Pope's loss of temporal power 59 years ago, and canonization of numerous saints will take place.

With the convening of an ecumenical council assured in the near future, discussion of the likelihood of immediate settlement of the Roman question has become more than ever the all-absorbing topic in Rome.

Several rumors filtered through the gates of the Vatican today regarding the present status of negotiations between Pope Pius XI and Premier Mussolini.

According to one such report, the Vatican printing press started today on the text of the agreement between Italy and the Holy See which, it is stated, is now in final form.

The agreement is said to contain the following significant clause:

"The Italian government fully recognizes the divinity of the church and its supreme spiritual authority and accepts all the consequences and implications of its recognition of this principle. In other words, the Italian government will harmonize and adapt the political, moral and religious life of the nation in accordance with this principle."

Will Revolutionize Status

If this clause is contained in the agreement eventually reached between the church and the Italian state, it will revolutionize the church's status under the former regimes, apart from any political changes. It would place the papacy in a more authoritative position in Italy than it enjoys with regard to any other Christian state.

According to the best informed circles here, the Pope will announce the agreement with Italy in a secret consistory which he will hold this month. Later he will issue an encyclical to the world.

Mussolini will announce the settlement of the long-standing controversy to the Fascist Grand Council, probably at the end of this month or in March. The Italian premier, it is understood, has asked that the Pope should have the honor of making the first announcement.

$50,000 Mail Vanishes From London Postoffice

London, Feb. 1 (A.P.).—Scotland Yard was called upon today to solve one of the biggest London mail robberies in years. It is estimated that valuables totaling $50,000 were stolen from the sorting office of the Mount Pleasant postoffice in Clerkenwell.

The loss was discovered when a registered mail bag disappeared.

DRY ITEM THREATENS DEFICIENCY MEASURE

Wood Favors Letting Bill Die Rather Than Have Vote on $24,000,000 Grant.

SENATE PICKS CONFEREES

Defeat of the deficiency appropriation bill, with its embarrassing $24,000,000 item for prohibition enforcement, ad the other almost equally embarrassing amendment requiring submission of tax refund decisions to a reviewing body seems certain in the present session of Congress.

While these developments in the Senate were taking place, yesterday, prohibition caused a stir in the House, where Representative Celler of New York, attempting to exhibit a bottle of "tonic" containing 20 per cent of alcohol, was ruled out of order.

Following the bitter fight in the House, Thursday when the Republican members succeeded in preventing a record vote on the prohibition item, it developed the Senate leaders planned t. stand by their amendment In the face of this determination Representative Will R. Wood (Republican), Indiana, is understood to have decided to let the entire bill go by the board rather than report it back to the House for a roll call on the disputed items.

Senate Conferees Named.

The Senate yesterday appointed Senators Warren (Wyoming), Keyes (New Hampshire), and Phipps (Colorado), Republicans, and Overman (North Carolina), and Glass (Virginia), Democrats, as conferees.

Senator Warren moved that the Senate insist on its amendments. Senator Bruce (Democrat), Maryland, a wet, announced he would demand a roll call, but withdrew his objections on consultation with the Republican leaders. It was assumed he was assured there would be no receding by the Senate.

The House end of the prohibition outbreak had about it the elements of slap-stick comedy mingled with considerable seriousness.

"Tonic" Exhibited in House.

After announcing the Department of Agriculture was issuing a pamphlet, No. 1075, telling people how to make home brew, Representative Cellar produced a bottle which he explained was a medicated product, sold under a legal permit. This "tonic," he said, was made up of white Tokay wine, with a brandy ingredient giving it a 20 per cent alcoholic kick, plus a little pepsin to give it a medicated taste.

Representative Green, of Florida, objected. The bottle, he thought, was an illegal thing, and had no business in the chamber.

"It's proper to exhibit a bottle," interrupted Representative LaGuardia. "Let the gentleman from Florida look after conditions in his own State, where they are rotten wet."

"We are dry," Mr. Green shouted.

"I have seen things there," insisted Mr. LaGuardia. "I have seen liquor served openly in hotels. That's why they have so many people there."

Bottle Ordered Removed.

Representative Tilson, Republican floor leader, arose and after looking earnestly at the bottle, advanced the opinion that no one could introduce an exhibit without unanimous consent. There was a hurried consultation of Jefferson's manual, and Representative Luce (Republican), Massachusetts, in the chair, ruled the bottle must be removed.

Mr. Celler recited figures showing the large development of the manufacture of corn sugar. Prior to prohibition, he said, there was litle use for this product, its chief use being the manufacture of "third rail" and "white mule," concoctions with a deadly kick, commonly used among the negroes of the South. Now, he said, its use was common all over the country.

Manufacturers have learned to crystallize the sugar, with the result that an entirely new industry has been built up. Production was 159,000,000 pounds in 1905, and in 1927 it was 904,830,000 pounds.

More Destroyers Sought To Check Rum Smugglers

(Associated Press.)

Recommendations for a five-year program to permit the Coast Guard to increase its activities against liquor smugglers and its other services were placed before Secretary Mellon yesterday by Rear Admiral F. C. Billard, commandant of the guard.

Admiral Billard advocated increase of the commissioned personnel by 200 officers, replacement of obsolete and worn-out vessels and transfer of approximately 26 destroyers from the Navy to the Coast Guard patrol. This, he said, would permit the retirement of old Coast Guard destroyers which are costly to operate.

Student Aviator Lands On 6,000-Foot Summit

Munich, Bavaria, Feb. 1 (A.P.).—Wilhelm Hoffman, a student aviator, here today accomplished the difficult feat of making a landing on the summit of the famous Zugspitze Mountain, more than 6,000 feet in the air.

Hoffman made the ascent in a 20-horsepower airplane.

BLIND MAN DETECTS BANDIT BY HIS VOICE

"Who Robbed You?" Prosecutor Queries; "One Who Just Spoke," Is Answer.

WAS KICKED AND BEATEN

Chicago, Feb. 1 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The sequel to one of the meanest robberies on record was carried out in the criminal court here today when Frank Leonardi was convicted of robbing and mercilessly beating his friend, Richard Boehler, a blind theater organist.

Leonardi was convicted on the testimony of Boehler, who identified him by his voice. The jury, in ten minutes after the statement by the blind man that he "could tell the voice out of a million," returned a verdict of guilty, which, if sustained, carries a sentence of from one to twenty years.

Last May, according to the organist's statement, Leonardi gave him a lift in his car. Boehler was attacked, robbed of $90 and a watch, beaten up and kicked out of the auto. He wandered helplessly until a passerby told him where he was and took him home.

The prosecuting attorneys caused Leonardi to speak while Mr. Boehler was on the witness stand in court.

"Do you know who robbed you?" Attorney Dougherty asked.

"Yes, the man who just spoke," replied the blind man.

He had picked Leonardi's voice out of the many in the courtroom. The jury then returned the verdict of guilty, and a unique chapter was written into the records of Cook County justice.

WOMAN AND DOCTOR HANGED FOR MURDER

why do they want to hang me?" she asked.

"I know, Miss Ada, but we have done all we can; come on," said Pecot.

Jailer Puts on Pumps.

Arthur Martel, the jailer, reached down to put on her patent leather black pumps. When his hands fumbled she reached down and fastened the straps.

She hesitated a moment and looked at Father J. J. Rousseau, pastor of the Church of Assumption, seated in front of her. "Oh, well, I suppose I must change this life for a better one," she said.

She walked from the cell with her left arm around Martel's neck. She had only seven feet to walk from her cell to the two steel, double doors, extending out from her cell tier, making the death trap.

Her eyes were blinded by a white handkerchief and she did not see the rope, hanging from a steel eye in the roof to the corner of an adjoining cell as she took her place on the top. As she stood there, with the jailers trussing her hands behind her back, and her legs at the knees with a clothesline, she exclaimed:

"My mother! My mother! Oh, my God! Isn't this a terrible thing? Don't let me hang there too long. Don't let me suffer. God forgive everybody. Isn't this a terrible thing? This is awful! This is murder itself!"

Cowl Placed Over Head.

The black cowl was placed over her head. The rope was adjusted with the knot at the right ear.

"That rope is too tight around my neck," she protested. Then as her knees gave way and she struggled with the jailer the trap was sprung.

The body swung for eleven minutes, and at 12:16 the physicians officially pronounced her dead. The body was cut down, the prayer beads with the cross were twisted from her fingers and she was carried to a cell cot by four men.

Meanwhile Dreher was held a few feet away in a cell behind a solid steel door. He could see nothing, but could hear all.

Prays on Death March.

The trap was refastened, the rope readjusted and the solid door was drawn out by Sheriff Pecot and his assistants. Dreher had both hands around the neck of Dr. J. A. McCormack, minister of the Franklin Methodist Church, following him in prayer. The doctor turned quickly, stepped forward, grasped Sheriff Pecot by the hand and then Jailer Martel's.

"I don't blame you; I forgive everybody," he said.

He walked vigorously out of the cell, up the ten winding stairs to the trap, followed by his minister, praying aloud. As he mounted the stairs he added:

"Poor Miss Ada has gone. God have pity on her soul. God have pity. Oh, my God!"

At 12:41 physicians said he was dead. An hour later the bell above Father Rosseau's Church of the Assumption began tolling and Mrs. LeBouef's body was borne in a hearse through the streets followed by an automobile cavalcade of relatives and friends.

Daughter Views Body.

At the church Liberty LeBouef, 9-year-old daughter of the hanged woman, gazed weeping into the coffin. After the Catholic ritual for the dead, the body was taken to Morgan City, where it will be laid to rest beside that of her husband and one of her children.

Dr. Dreher's body was turned over to the undertaker to deliver to his family, who plan to bury it at Clinton, La. Mrs. Dreher waited at her home in Morgan City for the body.

Mrs. LeBouef was unable to bid her crippled mother good-by as the latter was not equal to the ordeal. Nor did Dr. Dreher have a last farewell with his son, Ted, working in the Texas oil fields.

Of the three accused of the murder of LeBouef, one is left, James Beadle, a trapper, who is serving a life sentence in the Louisiana State prison.

FRIED GREETED HERE FOR THREE-DAY STAY

will receive the Captain and Mrs. Fried at the White House Monday.

Captain Fried is to remain here until Monday night, when he will leave for Philadelphia, where he will be an honored guest Tuesday. His tentative itinerary otherwise, it was said, includes Boston; Worcester, Mass., the Captain's home city, and Providence, R. I.

Further praise of Capt. Fried, Chief Officer Manning and members of the crew of the America, who performed the rescue at sea, was heard yesterday in Congress. Senator Fletcher, of Florida, ranking Democratic member of the commerce committee, declared his achievement "marks Capt. Fried as an outstanding seaman and establishes his fame. It proves the high standard of his seamanship."

Permission was obtained by the Senator to have printed in the Congressional Record an article on "American Valor on the Seven Seas," which appears in the December issue of the Merchant Fleet News. The senator suggested the story of Capt. Fried's achievement in going to the rescue of the stricken Florida be included in the Record as part of the article.

Many Favor New Hex Trial For Boy, Curiosity Victim

Case of John Curry, 14, Who Wanted to See "Some Witch Stuff Work," From Which Killing Resulted, Stirs Residents of York, Pa., Community.

York, Pa., Feb. 1 (U.P.).—The case of John Curry, 14-year-old lad, whose curiosity to "see some witch stuff work" ended three weeks ago in a life sentence for murder, may be reopened.

Determined efforts to gain for him a new trial have resulted from a definite change in sentiment here with regard to the so-called witchcraft murders. If a new trial is obtained, Clarence Darrow, noted criminal lawyer, whose record covers such famous cases as the McNamara trials of 1910-11 in Los Angeles; the Loeb-Leopold case in Chicago, and the Scopes evolution case in Dayton, Tenn., may become associated with young Curry's defense.

Curry was accused of having aided John Blymyer, 31-year-old witch doctor, and Wilbert Hess, aged 18, in beating to death Nelson Rehmeyer, aged dabbler in magic. They sought a lock of Rehmeyer's hair, which, in Blymyer's instructions, was to be buried eight feet under ground beck of the Hess henhouse on the outskirts of York, in order to lift a witch spell which Blymyer said Rehmeyer had cast over the Hess family.

Blymyer was convicted of first degree murder, as was Curry, and both were ordered to prison for life.

But after those two had been tried and convicted, Hess was placed on trial. His attorney, Harvey Gross, in a one-day trial, put in such a powerful plea, in which he showed how young Hess believed as firmly in witchcraft as a religious man believes in the Bible, that one could feel among the citizenry a softening of the demand for severe punishment, regardles of age or other circumstances. Hess was convicted of second degree murder and sentence has not yet been passed upon him. The maximum is twenty years' imprisonment.

Where on the day of young Curry's conviction there were general expressions of satisfaction, a few days later the people of York were beginning to express their doubts as to whether he had been dealt with justly. His age was considered, as was also the fact that there was little evidence brought in to show that John himself had played any definite part in the murder beyond that of being present.

W. W. Van Bamann, Curry's attorney, and Harvey Gross, who defended young Hess, have joined now in an effort to gain for Curry a new trial.

"We do not know when the motion for a new trial will be argued," Van Bamann said today, "but it will be some time in the next four weeks.

"We have received many offers of outside aid, and I have been informed that a group in New York is ready to retain outside counsel, mentioning Mr. Clarence Darrow in that connection."

TARIFF MAKES WAY TO FLOOR OF HOUSE

Clarke, of New York, Opens Discussion With Plea for Boots and Shoes.

BOTH SIDES AIR VIEWS

(Associated Press.)

The tariff made its way from a committee room to the House floor yesterday for the first time this session and found Republicans and Democrats alike willing to air their views.

Coincident with the closing of hearings on cotton rates by the ways and means committee, which will write a revised schedule of tariff duties for presentation to a special session of Congress in the spring, Representative Clarke, a New York Republican, opened the discussion on the floor with a plea for protection for boots and shoes, now duty free.

Clarke said imports of boots and shoes had jumped from 398,929 pairs valued at $1,246,176 in 1923, a year after the present tariff law became operative, to 1,477,435 pairs worth more than $5,000,000 in 1927 and that foreign manufacturers were threatening the domestic business with their American-made machinery and cheap labor.

Refers to Garner.

The New Yorker referred to "my friend John Garner of that good Republican State of Texas" as expressing the conviction that the Democratic tariff theory was to give everybody equal treatment and added the shoe manufacturers were not opposed to a duty on hides, also on the free list, as sought by agricultural interests. Garner is the ranking Democrat on the ways and means committee.

Representative Black (Democrat), of Texas, read a resolution adopted by the Texas Legislature favoring protection for products of the ranch, farm and orchard equal to that accorded products of the mine and factory and praised the tariff plank adopted by the Democratic national convention at Houston.

This prompted Representative Crowther, of New York, a Republican member of the ways and means committee, to remark that while there apparently had been a change in the Democratic tariff attitude, he was afraid there would be some "conscientious objectors" when the time came to vote on the new law.

Wants High Tariff.

Crowther said he wanted the tariff wall so high that importers would be "likely to break their necks trying to get in."

"When you Democrats wrote the tariff," he said, addressing Black, "you never gave the farmer anything. You skinned him alive and nailed his hide on the barn dor as exhibit A."

Crowther told Representative Hudspeth, another Texas Democrat, that he was in favor of a duty on hides, and when Representative Greene (Democrat), Florida, put in a plea for a duty on palm fiber, the New York member said he would do anything for Florida in view of the latest election returns.

that the men of wealth of the United States are not bent on the accumulation of money merely for its own sake, or that they may use it in selfish and ostentatious display. A most cursory examination of the facts would soon disclose that our country leads the world in its charities and endowments."

It would be difficult to recall any line of endeavor capable of ministering to human welfare, not only in this country, but in many places abroad, he said, which is not being helped by the generosity of people of wealth. Not only that, he added, but charities of this Nation stand on a plane which is occupied by them alone.

Sees Inspiration in Sanctuary.

The President saw in the sanctuary an inspiration for more beautiful homes and cleaner and better kept cities and towns which he said those who visit the place can not escape taking away with them.

They will be filled with a noble discontent, he declared, which can not fail to react in some degree against all forms of physical and spiritual ugliness.

At another point the President declared that it was impossible to view the movement toward increased advantages for the many "without smiling a little at those who but a short time ago expressed so much fear lest our country might come under the control of a few individuals of great wealth."

They claimed, he said, that "The rich were growing richer and the poor were growing poorer," while "our experience has demonstrated that the reverse of this" would be closer to the truth.

Wealth Becoming Common, He Says.

"So many of our people have large amounts of property that it has taken on the aspect of being common," he continued. "The distinction that it once carried is gone. It is also doubtful if there ever was a time when even great wealth gave its possessors so little power as at present. Their money is of very little value in determining political action. Capital is so easily secured for any promising enterprise that it is no longer necessary for the rich to go into business. The possession of money has never been sufficient to gain the social attentions of persons of culture and refinement."

The President's special train arrived at Mountain Lake shortly after 9 o'clock and drew to a stop at a point near the sanctuary, where Mr. and Mrs. Bok and a reception committee were waiting.

After an hour spent in the President's private car, the party proceeded to the sanctuary by automobile, alighting a quarter of a mile away to walk the remaining distance through the trees and shrubbery. As the President approached the carillon was heard playing "America," and as those seated near the speaking stand caught sight of the President an ovation set in which quickly spread to the outskirts of the crowd.

Introduced by Mr. Bok.

Mr. Bok introduced the President and Gov. Carlton of Florida. There was music by a vested choir and then a concert on the tower chimes. Afterward, Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge inspected the tower and then repaired to the Bok home nearby for tea, a period of rest and dinner, before entraining for the return trip to Washington.

President Coolidge boarded his special train at 9:15 o'clock tonight and began the return journey to Washington after a stay of a little more than six hours here.

SKATERS ON LINCOLN MEMORIAL REFLECTING POOL

Underwood & Underwood.

The first opportunity of the season to indulge in a favorite pastime took a number of the Capital's skating fans to the Lincoln Memorial Reflecting Pool yesterday.

TEXT OF PRESIDENT'S SPEECH

Our country is giving an increasing amount of attention to art. We have reached a time when our people have more leisure for enjoyment and more means for gratifying their taste. Even during its colonial history it was not without some progress in this direction. Very early it produced painters of historic merit. Some of the architecture of the eighteenth century continues to hold a very high place, but with the exception of a few public buildings, these creations were for private use and reached but a few people.

While the United States has been by no means lacking in spiritual vision, and, considering the circumstances of its surroundings, has been remarkable in the devotion of its religious life, yet, being new and undeveloped, it has been necessary for our people first of all to give their attention to the material side of existence. We have been forced to get things done. We have been required to build cities, improve harbors, open mines, cut down forests, lay out great systems of transportation, till the soil, erect factories, open banks, and develop commerce. We have been making a new Nation out of raw materials. What others have done in many centuries we have crowded into the short space of 300 years. It is only in the last generation that the great body of our people have been sufficiently relieved from the pressing necessities of existence so that they could give some thought to the art of living.

It is significant of our institutions and of the spirit of our national life that in the opening up of the new era we have attempted to give to the people at large what in other days had been enjoyed only by a fortunate and privileged few. This effort began with popular education. The free public school, the endowed academy and college, the high school, and the State university were the beginnings of this movement. They have more recently been supplemented by public art galleries, popular concerts for the presentation of the best music, and the opening of innumerable public parks. The useful and the practical is being supplemented by the artistic and the beautiful.

Done at Vast Outlay

This has been done in no small and niggardly way, but on a vast scale representing an outlay of many hundred millions of dollars.

Many people have given large sums to these purposes, and municipal, State and national resources have been employed in ever-increasing amounts.

It would be a mistake to suppose that the organization of the material side of existence has been completed. It is more likely that it has only just begun. But it has progressed far enough so that a moderate amount of industry and thrift is all that is needed to relieve the great mass of our people from the pinch of poverty, and when these are supplemented with such training and skill as it is possible for almost anyone to acquire, to raise them to a position of comparative affluence. Above this line there are an increasing number of individuals who have sufficient resources to enable them to minister in a most substantial way to the humanitarian and artistic side of life. Some of the largest fortunes which were ever accumulated in the United States have been almost entirely devoted to such charities.

We can not observe this movement without smiling a little at those who but a short time ago expressed so much fear lest our country might come under the control of a few individuals of great wealth. They claimed that the rich were growing richer and the poor were growing poorer. Our experience has demonstrated that the reverse of this would be much nearer the truth. So many of our people have large amounts of property that it has taken on the aspect of being common. The distinction that it once carried is gone. It is also doubtful if there ever was a time when even great wealth gave its possessors so little power as at present. This money is of very little value in determining political action. Capital is so easily secured for any promising enterprise that it is no longer necessary for the rich to go into business, even on an extensive scale. The possession of money has never been sufficient to gain the social attentions of persons of culture and refinement.

Nation is Automobiling

On the other hand, the advantages that are enjoyed by people of moderate means, including the great mass of wage earners, were never so great as they are at present. Not only is their income proportionately greater than ever before, but their whole method of life, their opportunities to secure benefits which but a short time ago were the exclusive possession of the rich, have been tremendously increased. I have already referred to the broadening field of education. Another new element is the wide use of the automobile. Whole families are able to have the beneficial results of travel at an outlay which is so small that it is practically within the reach of every one. Within the last few years the radio has come to afford entertainment and instruction to a great body of our people.

Through these instrumentalities the vision has been extended to embrace the wide circle of our rich scenery, and the hearing has been amplified so that it may listen to the eloquence and music of many distant places. Through the medium of the motion picture all that is attractive and instructive in the art of acting and the presentation of scenery is to be had at a very moderate cost. All of this has greatly enriched the life of those who were recently looked upon as poor.

These grounds which we are dedicating today are another extension of this rapidly developing movement. It has been designated as a sanctuary because within it people may temporarily escape from the pressure and affliction of the affairs of life and find that quiet and repose which comes from a closer communion with the beauties of nature. We have not secured the benefits which I have enumerated without being obliged to pay a price. The multiplicity and the swiftness of the events with which we are surrounded exhaust our nervous energy.

The constant impact upon us of great throngs of people of itself produces a deadening fatigue. We have a special need for a sanctuary like this to which we can retreat for a time from the daily turmoil and have a place to rest and think under the quieting influence of nature and of nature's God

Bread Is Not Enough.

It is not only through action, but through contemplation that people come to understand themselves. Man does not live by bread alone. This thought is expressed in the motto of the sanctuary in the words of John Burroughs: "I come here to find myself. It is so easy to get lost in the world." We are so thickly crowded with the forest of events that there is not only danger that we can not see the trees, but that we may lose our sense of direction. Under the influence of these beautiful surroundings we can pause unhampered while we find out where we are and whither we are going. Those who come here report the feeling of peace which they have experienced. In the expression of an ancient writer, it is a place to which to invite one's soul, where one may see in the landscape and foliage, not what man has done, but what God has done.

The main purpose of this sanctuary and the tower is to preach the gospel of beauty. Although they have been made possible through the generosity of Mr Edward W. Bok, he does not wish them to be considered as a memorial or a monument. While it has been his purpose to give some expression here to his own love of the beautiful, in form, in color, and in sound, he has also sought to preserve the quiet majesty of the trees, increase the display of coloring in the flowers, and combine stone and marble in the graceful lines of the tower, all in a setting surrounded by green foliage and reflected in sparkling waters over which the song of the nightingale will mingle with the music of the bells.

As the tourist and the traveler in search of recreation and a change from the more rigorous climate of the North come to this wonderful State of perpetual springtime and summer, they can pause and think how much our country profit by cultivating an appreciation and understanding of the beautiful in nature and in art as they are here combined. The material prosperity of our Nation will be of little avail unless it is translated into a spiritual prosperity. We need a deeper realization of the value and power of beauty.

While few have the means to present such a gorgeous display as will here strike the eye and the ear, it is well to remember that beauty is not dependent upon large areas or great heights. Some of the most appealing and fascinating homes in the world are small. They may represent but little outlay and be the abode of people of moderate means, but if there dwells a fine character within it will shine forth and give to all the surroundings a touch of peace and loveliness which the most spacious palace can not surpass.

Reacts Against Ugliness.

Wherever communities are formed there is ample opportunity for this kind of expression. Those who visit here can not escape taking away with them an inspiration for better things. They will be filled with a noble discontent which can not fail to react in some degree against all forms of physical and spiritual ugliness. They will go forth as missionaries of the beautiful because of what they have seen and heard. The streets of distant towns will be cleaner. Lawns will be better kept. A larger number of trees will spread their verdant shade over highways and homes. Public buildings will take on more beautiful lines, making life more graceful and more complete. Certainly we need to put more emphasis on improvements of such a nature.

The influence of an example like this is always contagious. The noticeable improvement of architecture in this country had its inception in the exhibition of the fine buildings of the World's Fair at Chicago. The five years following the fair at San Francisco changed the whole face of the State of California. This combination of influences has resulted in the recent enactments of Congress to span the Potomac with a memorial bridge and adorn the avenues of the Capital City with stately public buildings. Already there is a very healthy and beneficial competition in this field among various cities of the United States. Civic centers are being laid out with spacious squares surrounded by public buildings which will reflect the power and dignity of the beautiful in community life.

This sanctuary and tower are not only endowed with a beauty of their own, but they are a representation of the beneficent spirit of the giver. They are another illustration that the men of wealth of the United States are not bent on the accumulation of money merely for its own sake, or that they may use it in selfish and ostentatious display.

Country Leads in Charities.

A most cursory examination of the facts would soon disclose that our country leads the world in its charities and endowments. It would be difficult to recall any line of endeavor capable of ministering to human welfare, not only in our own country, but in many places abroad, which is not being helped by the generosity of our people of wealth. Not only that, but the charities of this Nation stand on a plane which is occupied by them alone. They have never been tainted with any effort to hold back the rising tide of a demand for the abolition of privilege and the establishment of equality, but have rather been the result of a sincere philanthropy.

They have not come from any class consciousness; certainly, not from any class fear. They represent in all its beauty and purity the love of man and the desire to benefit the human race. We have a strong sense of trusteeship. While giving every credit to the genius of management, and holding strongly to the right of individual possessions, we realize that to a considerable extent wealth is the creation of the people, and it is fitting, as in this case, that it should be expended for their material, intellectual, and moral development.

While there is much to be said for the statement that there is nothing new in the world, there are yet many things that are new in our country. In the Netherlands, Belgium, France, and England the carillon has been in existence for hundreds of years. It goes back to the fourteenth century. In the Netherlands, which supplied the inspiration for this singing tower, a community that does not have a carillon is not regarded as complete. While in the United States we have always been accustomed to the bells of the churches, and later to their use in transportation and industry, yet the carillon has been very little appreciated. Only a few have been built. This singing tower only brings our entire number up to 30.

Tower New Form of Music.

It will take its place, therefore, of giving our people what is to them a comparatively new form of music, as they have the pleasure of listening to its melodious cadence. It contains 61 bells and is the largest and heaviest ever cast in a single order. So intricate is the task of turning them out perfectly tuned and in complete harmony that their construction has taken nearly a year. The people of this locality have already been listening to them, and in the future the beauty of their song will impress itself upon the endless line of coming generations. As they gaze upon the structure which holds them and are moved by their music, it will all blend in one harmonious whole and more and more they will realize the significance of the designation given to such structures by the Dutch of singing tower.

This wonderful work with all its loveliness of form, of color, and of sound, is another evidence of the breadth and completeness of the life of our Republic. We should find, if we sought for it, a considerable literature undertaking to prove the necessity of a ruling class for national political well-being and the need of a privileged nobility as the best method of providing for the cultural and artistic life of a people. It is not to be denied that under such a system, when tempered with a wholesome regard for liberty under the law, there has been great progress.

But in many respects it is of a narrow and limited nature. The brilliance at the top of the social structure has always been insufficient to furnish light for the great mass of the people. When we erected our institutions on the basic theory of equality, our ability under such conditions to produce the finer things of life was immediately challenged. The correctness of our theory has been more and more demonstrated by the course of events. We have been able to raise up individuals who stand out in history undimmed by any comparisons to which they can be subjected. Our artistic growth has been constant and in its individual examples and its general application is not excelled by any other people. In its main purpose to create a nation and increase intelligence, stability and character, our Republic has met with unexampled success.

Equality a Sound Principle.

It has been thoroughly demonstrated that the principle of equality is sound. Our institutions have endowed our people with insight and vision. The individual has been developed, the Nation has become great. The belief that there is nothing which our people can not do, and no power which our people ought not to have, has been the main source of our progress. Faith in our people stands vindicated beyond further discussion. Into their hands we have entirely intrusted the future destiny of our Nation.

It is a trait of human nature to wish to personify its ideals. This is the chief reason that the kingly office continued to exist after it had served its main purpose of being sufficiently skilled in military leadership so as to increase the order and security of the country. The people found it easier to have their conception of sovereignty embodied in a personality. The monarch reflected the greatness which came from them.

It was very seldom that he created it. It was much easier under those circumstances to secure a response when calling on the people to make sacrifices for the national welfare. They felt they were doing it for the king. They could see him in person and hear his expression of approbation. For his glorification not only were men willing to take up arms, but they found in him an inspiration for their art. Their music, their literature, their sculpture, and their painting dealt with royal subjects. Even Shakespeare gave royal titles to a number of his productions.

In the course of long human experience actions of this nature are not accidental. If they did not serve some useful purpose in the development of the race, either they would not have occurred at all or would have been of a transitory nature. They persisted because they gave the people a better conception of the abstract idea of national unity and national sovereignty. Even when our own Constitution was adopted this idea was so firmly intrenched that it was with great difficulty and hesitation that the people of that period were able to cast aside the idea of a personal sovereignty. That they did so stamped their action as extremely revolutionary.

People Are Sovereign.

But finally our Nation and our States have planted themselves squarely and securely on the theory that all the powers of government emanate from the people. They stand as our sovereign. They are our national monarch That act was a recognition of their own inalienable nobility.

Gradually, for complete revolutions do not occur in a day, we have transferred our allegiance to the people. It is for them that our songs are made, our books are published, our pictures are painted, our public squares are adorned, our park systems are developed and the art of the stage and the screen is created. While these things are done by individuals, this movement is "of the people, by the people and for the people." It is no accident that this superb creation, which we are dedicating today, is the conception of a man whose only heritage was that of good breeding, an American by adoption, not by birth, who has felt the pinch of poverty, who has experienced the thrill of hard manual labor and who has triumphed over many difficulties.

Edward W. Bok is making this contribution in recognition of his loyalty to his sovereign, the people. It is another demonstration that when they are given the opportunity the people have the innate power to provide themselves with the wealth, the culture, the art and the refinements that support an enlightened civilization.

Now, therefore, in a spirit of thankfulness for the success of our institutions, which is here attested, and appreciation of the munificent generosity which is here exhibited, in my capacity as President of the United States, I hereby dedicate this Mountain Lake sanctuary and its singing tower and present them for visitation to the American people.

JOHN D., SR., MISLED, STEWART SUGGESTS

CITES "HONEST SUPPORT"

Chicago, Feb. 1 (A.P.).—Col. Robert W. Stewart today expressed the opinion that John D. Rockefeller, sr., would not have supported his son, John D. Rockefeller, jr., in the latter's fight with Col. Stewart over control of the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, unless the elder Rockefeller had "been deliberately misinformed."

Stewart addressed a letter to Mr. Rockefeller, sr., in reply to a public statement by him that he would support his son in efforts to oust Stewart as chairman of the board of the Standard of Indiana. The chairman told the elder Rockefeller that he could have "understood the silence of a father under the circumstances but was unable to understand the statement."

Col. Stewart's letter, made public at the Standard Oil offices here, follows:

"You are credited in the press this morning with having made a statement as follows:

"'The press has several times reported a statement from Col. Robert W. Stewart to the effect that Mr. John D. Rockefeller, sr., would be pleased by the re-election of Col. Stewart as a director of the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana.

"'Mr. Rockefeller, sr., has been informed that many people in the West have been misled by this report.'

"It is evident that you have been misinformed in regard to the facts. I have never made any such statement, either publicly or privately. The only statement in regard to yourself that I have ever made is that I would not believe that you were opposing me for reelection until I had positive proof of that opposition. I made this statement, believing that the loyal and honest support I have given you and your associates for so many years, and through most trying times, would prevent your opposing me for reelection, especially where every director of this company and the entire organization, who know all the facts, are practically solid in favor of my reelection

"I could have understood the silence of a father under the circumstances. I can not understand your making this statement unless you have been deliberately misinformed."

It was announced 1,100 employes of the Wood River refinery of the company near Alton had decided to support Col. Stewart by voting 15,000 shares of stock held by them for him at the March stockholders' meeting.

VATICAN IS STIRRED BY SHOT AT NUNCIO

REVOLT IS HELD CRUSHED

London, Feb. 1 (A.P.).—Additional details of the shooting last night in the gardens of the royal palace at Madrid showed tonight that one of the detectives accompanying the papal nuncio was wounded in the leg by one of the four shots fired. The detectives, on bicycles, were accompanying the priest on his usual evening drive.

One of them noticed a man with a revolver hiding behind a bush. He fired when the detectives demanded his surrender.

Rome, Feb 1 (A.P.).—News of the attempted assassination of Mgr. Federico Tedeschini, papal nuncio at Madrid, last night, caused a profound sensation in Vatican circles today.

At the Vatican the nuncio is esteemed as one of the ablest of the papal diplomats and is considered as slated for elevation as a cardinal at the forthcoming consistory.

Hendaye, Franco-Spanish Frontier, Feb. 1 (A.P.).—The formal statement of Premier Primo de Rivera today that the recent revolt was planned outside of Spain supported a report here that it had been arranged at a dinner in Paris on January 3.

Dr. Maranon, former physician to the royal family; Gen. Lopez Ochoa, and former Premier Rafael Sanchez Guerra, all of whom were implicated in the attempted coup in 1925, are represented as having decided to attempt the overthrow of the Spanish dictator The first two remained in France and Sanchez Guerra arrived in Valencia only to find the revolt had been crushed He now is in prison, while his former cabinet associates are attempting to intercede with King Alfonso in his behalf

The latest attempt to smash the rule of Primo de Rivera is said to have differed from such movements in the past in that it included more important elements, including members of the Conservative party who are friendly toward the king.

Madrid, Feb. 1 (A.P.).—Gen. Primo de Rivera, Spanish premier, said in a message which he addressed today to the army and navy that last Tuesday's revolt had a political, as well as military character. He stated that the movement was planned outside of Spain. The message appeared in the official newspaper of the ministry of war. It said:

"With the submission of the forces of the light artillery regiment stationed in Ciudad Real the movement having a political and military character and prepared by persons living abroad can be considered ended."

SECRET SENATE SESSIONS.

Senator Jones' resolution designed to make secret sessions on confirmation of presidential nominations more difficult failed to come to a vote after lengthy discussion on Thursday. The resolution went to the calendar, but Senator Jones stated that he would move to have it taken up at the first opportunity. No doubt it will meet with stiff opposition.

The resolution comes as a sequel of the secret vote on the nomination of Roy O. West as Secretary of the Interior, which was published in spite of the rule which provides for expulsion of a senator for disclosing executive business. The proposed change in the Senate rules provides that "hereafter nominations shall be considered in open executive sessions unless the Senate, in closed executive session, shall by a two-thirds vote determine that any particular nomination shall be considered in closed executive session." Senator Jones would make secret sessions the exception and not the rule.

The arguments in favor of the resolution are obvious. The business of the public should be considered openly. The people of each State are entitled to know how their representatives vote on questions of such vital importance. Furthermore, the Senate has found that it is impossible to keep official secrets. Senator Jones thinks there has never been a case where secret debate and voting on an important nomination did not get out to the public, either accurately or in garbled form. When the public is given inaccurate information it is more harmful than the truth in many cases. However, the Senate has never undertaken to discipline any of its members or officers for revealing its secrets.

Debate on the subject made one fact plain—that the proposed change is being considered solely from a political standpoint, and not from its soundness as a principle of government. Senator Heflin asked what a senator should say when questioned directly as to what stand he took, which brought out the following debate:

Mr. Heflin—It may be that the information or misinformation which that newspaper man would give out would hurt that senator with his people at home.
Mr. Jones—Certainly.
Mr. Heflin—And put him in a bad light.
Mr. Jones—Certainly.
Mr. Heflin—And might put him in just the opposite position to that which he took in the secret session.

Another maneuver with significant political meaning came from Senator Curtis, who served notice that he intended to move that the resolution be referred to the committee on rules, of which he is chairman. The voice of the Vice President-elect was again heard when, at the close of the debate, Senator Heflin asked for another half hour and Senator Jones asked that the resolution might lie on the table without prejudice. Senator Curtis asked for the regular order, and the resolution was delayed. Apparently, if a fight should develop on any of President-elect Hoover's nominations, the administration will prefer to have the discussion in secret session.

The whole situation must have been very interesting to Vice President Dawes, who is an ardent advocate of revision of the Senate rules.

THE ROSENWALD FUND.

Reorganization of the Julius Rosenwald Fund brings to public attention the most recent trend in philanthropy. When the Rosenwald Fund was created in 1917 it was provided that the principal as well as the interest might be spent at the discretion of the trustees and that the whole amount should be disposed of within a reasonable time. In transferring his most recent gift to the fund, Mr. Rosenwald stipulated that the entire fund of $22,000,000, together with the interest, be expended within 25 years of the donor's death.

The most popular practice of philanthropists in the past has been to establish funds to be held for definite uses in perpetuity. The folly of bequeathing a large fund to be held forever, with only the interest being devoted to some particular purpose, has been demonstrated many times. St. Louis has a fund established in 1851 to aid farmers migrating to the West. Even the sagacious Benjamin Franklin made the mistake of leaving 2,000 pounds to provide sidewalks for Boston and a water system for Philadelphia after 100 years. A perpetual income for a definite purpose not only becomes useless in time, but may become reactionary and harmful. Most modern philanthropists are too wise to run chances on retarding the progress of future ages.

Even the perpetual foundations may become bureaucratic or may lose interest in really constructive projects as time goes on. The fund may fall into the hands of unscrupulous trustees who use it for selfish purposes, or, perhaps, to foster harmful propaganda. In demanding that his gift be used within the generation in which it is given, Mr. Rosenwald is setting an example that may bring about great changes in the organization of philanthropic enterprises.

Provision for spending the fund within 25 years of his death was made by Mr. Rosenwald on the theory that coming generations may be relied upon to provide for their own needs as they arise. Benefits to posterity may accrue from this gift to even a greater extent than from perpetual foundations. If, for example, research by the fund should result in a discovery that will prevent some disease, future generations will profit. Wherever education or living conditions are improved, the next generation will enter the world under more favorable circumstances. A fortune wisely spent is bound to have far-reaching results that can not be foreseen.

When it is realized that during the past 30 years approximately $1,000,000,000 has been given to philanthropic trusts in America, the need for intelligent giving and wise administration is apparent. When a donor is willing that his gift be spent for the welfare of his own generation, with no desire to immortalize his name through a perpetual foundation, the sincerity of his benevolence is never open to question.

WASHINGTON AIRPORT.

Very little has been heard of late regarding the Stalker bill providing for a municipal airport at Gravelly Point. Reported favorably from the House District committee, the bill remains on the House calendar, but no attempt has been made to bring it to a vote. The Senate District committee has not yet started hearings, although it has promised on several occasions to get down to work. In the meantime airport development is continuing apace throughout the country.

Washington can not hope to develop satisfactorily until it provides an adequate flying field. The coming summer will witness the greatest expansion of air services in the United States that the world has ever seen. By the tolerance and courtesy of the War Department in permitting the operation from Bolling Field of mail planes Washington occupies a position on the air mail map. This arrangement is not to be considered permanent, however, and unless the city provides its own airport it will lose the air mail connection and commercial aviation will pass it by.

The Senate committee should schedule hearings on the Stalker bill and get them under way forthwith. Numerous representatives of local civic and commercial bodies, practically all of which have indorsed the bill, are prepared to plead for it. Aeronautical experts, civil and Government, also are ready to appear. If a better site than Gravelly Point is available that fact can be brought out in the hearings.

GROUND HOG DAY.

Some time last autumn, when the leaves had fallen and the first chill winds of winter rustled through naked boughs, the ground hog burrowed deep into the still-warm earth and went to sleep. Today, tradition has it, he sallies forth to look around. If he sees his shadow he will scamper back into his hole not to emerge for another six weeks. If it be cloudy he will call his hibernation off. The ground hog is said to know that if the sun shines today there still remain six full weeks of winter.

The weather man says it will be clear today. If he is right, the ground hog's retirement is not yet over. For surely there is no reason to believe that the ground hog is not an accurate weather prognosticator. Search back the memory as far as you like, and no one can remember a year when the ground hog was wrong.

Still, six weeks more cold weather can be lived through especially in view of the fact that there has been little enough old-fashioned winter as it is. The dawn of ground hog day presages the coming of the spring, even if there be an interval of stormy weather. Let us hope that March 4, of all days, will be a spring and not a winter day.

CHAOS IN OKLAHOMA.

Gov. Henry S. Johnston of Oklahoma, who has been suspended from office and is awaiting trial before the State senate on charges preferred by the lower legislative branch, has decided not to take advantage of legal technicalities. His attorneys urged that demurrers be entered to the 11 charges, but the governor insisted on pleading not guilty, so that the case may be heard on its merits without further delay.

The suspended executive is no doubt weary of his protracted squabble with the legislature. More than a year ago his official actions were called in question, and the legislature attempted to assemble in special session to take action against him. The session was declared unconstitutional by the State supreme court and legislative vengeance against Mr. Johnston has since had to smolder in unofficial impotence. Now that the lawmakers have met in regular session the storm has broken in fresh fury, with party lines submerged in factionalism and religious prejudice.

Oklahoma is used to such scenes. In 21 years of Statehood three of the five governors have been impeached and efforts are now being made to impeach the fourth. Three governors have felt it necessary to call out the State militia to suppress the legislators. But the legislators will not be suppressed, and the State is left in a chaotic condition with little hope of improvement.

Whether guilty or not guilty of the charges of incompetence and graft preferred against him, Gov. Johnston should be commended for bringing the case to issue at once. If the charges are groundless, as he contends, then the motives of the legislature should be exposed. If he is guilty, nothing could be gained by delay.

Whatever comes of the case it seems that Oklahoma citizens have sufficient cause to demand a change in the political control of their State. It has been suggested that the term of the governor be reduced to two years so that he would have to give more frequent account of himself at the polls. But this seems to be nothing more than a plan to have the executive retire before the legislature gets a chance to impeach him. A more sensible suggestion is that the executive offices be coordinated. There is something inconsistent in charging a governor with irregularities in various executive departments when he is only one of more than 30 elective officers of the State.

Unless Oklahoma gets real enjoyment out of this particular kind of political sport, it seems that the legislature should busy itself with improvement of the conditions which have made such a hectic record possible. If Oklahoma were outside of the United States it could seek a solution in a dictatorship, but unfortunately it will be compelled to endure chaos or solve its problems through the more difficult constitutional methods.

MODEST CAPT. FRIED.

Doubtless Capt. George Fried, of the S. S. America, was relieved to hear that the Shipping Board had called off his proposed exhibition tour of American cities. He is a modest man. When he received word of the desperate condition of the Italian steamship Florida he turned his ship to her rescue as a matter of course, and when he heard that he was to be lionized in New York he demurred. New York, however, insisted upon welcoming the new hero with all the display it could command, and Capt. Fried rode up Broadway in company with First Officer Manning, when he would have preferred to go from his ship directly to his home.

Why the Shipping Board changed its mind has not been divulged. Nevertheless, the fact that the tour will not be insisted upon is generally approved. Americans would like to see and meet Capt. Fried, but his popularity will not suffer because he shrinks from undertaking an "exhibition" tour.

A new "mystery" engine for cruisers is in process of development by Navy and civilian engineers. If the Senate abandons the time clause there'll be a fine flock of "mystery" cruisers in which to install the "mystery" power plants.

Only "good-looking" applicants are accepted by the naval recruiting officer at Norfolk. If that is to be the general policy of the naval recruiting service, girls in every port will have to strengthen their powers of resistance.

Wars do some good, but they are a rather expensive way to teach Americans geography.

THE FREEDOM OF THE SEA

By JOSEPH P. O'MAHONY.

They shall not close the seas again
And bar "Old Glory's" way.
In peaceful commerce on the main,
Where freedom should hold sway.
They shall not make our standard dip
At their austere decree;
We'll match their challenge "ship for ship"
For the Freedom of the Sea!

If they love peace and seek good will
For every race and clime,
We've led the way—we're ready still
To reach that goal sublime.
We have the power, the means, the men
To guard our legacy;
We did of old, and can again,
Force Freedom of the Sea.

But, others false to every trust,
Have trampled pacts of peace,
And gorged with conquests greed and lust
Their war drums never cease.
An empire's flag for pelf and gain
Proclaimed that none were free
To use God's highways on the main
And sail the chainless sea.

They robbed the poor, the brave, the good,
And starved the weak and old
To grab the soil and seize the food
In their mad rush for gold.
And thus they dragged in freemen's sons
To fight at their decree,
Because we lacked the ships and guns
To keep God's ocean free.

And, now, our slogan rings once more,
To let the wide world know
The standard that our fathers bore
Will quail before no foe.
We strive for peace, but Honor's way
Our Nation's path must be,
And pressing on we stand for aye
For the Freedom of the Sea!

FREEDOM OF THE BOOZE.

Senator Bruce, in his statement that during his six years in Washington he has seen at least 10,000 persons in his social set drink wine and cocktails, without one of them becoming intoxicated, scores another famous victory. The retreat of Xenophon and his Ten Thousand was masterly, to be sure, but it is outdone by the senator's Ten Thousand in their flank attack upon the embottled Demon Rum right here in our Federal City.

INAUGURATION NOTES.

Last Monday, March 4, your Uncle Sam pulled off his quadrennial family party. The occasion was in honor of his talented and popular son, Herbert, recently elected to the Chief Magistracy, who entertained the gathering in a few well-chosen remarks. The smiling faces and cheerful comment of all and sundry were indicative that some were duly appreciated. Herb, it may be interesting to note, is one of the luckiest disciples of Izaak Walton in this neck of the woods. He has recently sought the finny tribe not only in our inland streams but on the high seas, and in his presence in our midst on Monday last he furnished proof positive that the biggest didn't get away. Among those present were Gen. Prosperity, Prof. Bono Publico, Col. Drybottle Smellers, Maj. Hooch, Dr. P. Bund, Col. W. Cloud, and others. Herb is now located in the old historic mansion at 1600 Pennsylvania avenue, where he will remain for some time to come. It is unnecessary to say that a good time was had by all.

Dr. Piffle Bund was in town for the Inauguration in the interest of his movement to have "Asleep on the Deep" substituted for "Columbia the Gem of the Ocean" in our repertory of patriotic songs. Dr. Bund is held in high esteem by a devoted group of enthusiastic admirers who point with pride to the fact that he is the one-hundred-per-cent hero of the immortal sailors' slogan, "Don't give up the blueprint."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Abattoir!

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Washington, the city beautiful, to be perfumed by an abattoir! All the weeping willows on the speedway show their grief—an abattoir! Lincoln, Lee! Is this the homage Arlington would pay? Three thousand cherry trees from Tokio are rivaled by an abattoir. Breezes to Memorial Bridge from abattoir! People will come from Europe, Asia, everywhere—to smell an abattoir! Attar of roses, perfume of the abattoir, all down the Appian Way, along the Potomac from Washington to Mount Vernon!

BLANCHE C. HOWLETT.

Commercial Aviation

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: If proof were needed that commercial air passenger transport has come to occupy a definite place in the Nation's transportation scheme, it is contained in the airplane time table published by the American Air Transport Association. The 12-page folder is similar to railway time tables and gives the time of arrival and departure of planes in 80 cities. All the regular passenger carrying lines of the United States, Canada, Mexico and the West Indies are listed. The guide shows that planes carrying passengers travel a total distance of 20,000 miles daily, while the total mileage of all commercial air transport planes is 38,000 miles daily.

The guide and time table would not have been published had there been no demand for the information it contains. The American people have begun to utilize the airplane in their daily lives.

In this connection, it is interesting to note the annual report of the Western Air Express, recently made public. During 1928, mail and passenger planes of the company carried 6,794 passengers, 458,231 pounds of air mail and 13,502 pounds of air express an aggregate distance of 946,660 miles. Planes were in the air a total of 9,738 hours without serious mishaps of any sort whatsoever. Not a passenger or employee was injured and not a pound of cargo lost or damaged during the year. For the 12-month period, Western Air Express earned a profit of $720,777.80.

Not all operators in the air transport field made profits during the year just passed. Many of them lost money. The record made by Western Air Express, however, proves that profits can be made in commercial air transportation.

AMATEUR.

What Is Junk?

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Good for Senator Reed! Sorry he is not going to remain with us. After he is gone, who will rise and flay the pifflebund and deliver us from blueprints, malaria and pink teas?

Senator Brookhart says battleships are junk, and here I had been thinking they were battleships. What is junk? Something to do with machinery, it seems. But the pifflebund favors airplanes, and what are these but junk, contrived to fly through the air, except when they don't fly and come down—boom. And how about all these superfluous motor cars that jam the streets so we can hardly make our way? More junk. I have an inordinate fondness for battleships ever since the British navy penned up the German navy in the North Sea during the World War. Not a German ship was afloat on the [illegible] to come over here and shell New York. Some people don't forget.

As for internationalism, I agree with Reed, when he means the pale pink kind, of the piffly, sniffly variety. My special aversion is the provincial mind that sees nothing but its own back yard. Senator Reed in his speech, quoting from your paper, "proceeded to analyze events transpiring in other countries." But the average citizen does not do that; he doesn't know what is transpiring in oth countries. Watch Mr. Average Citizen read his paper; he glances at the front page to see the automobile accidents and fires, and then promptly turns to the funn; page c. the sporting age. What does he know of foreign affairs? Perhaps this is what is the matter with Brookhart and other Socialists. I wonder if he read what Mussolini and Lloyd George said not long ago about military preparations. They are both of them just as smart as Senator Reed, and that is going some.

HINDA BURKE.

The Beggar's Rags Have No Appeal If You Know He Is Rich.

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

IN ancient times there was a king who had twelve sons. When their schooling was finished he called them into his presence and said: "You are royal princes, and some day shall sit on my throne and rule the kingdom. But wisdom is not acquired without adversity and character is not developed in soft security. I shall take away your princely robes and send you into the world to suffer and learn compassion. Do the best you can, and always remember you are princes."

The twelve sons went away and mingled with the people, and in a little while they made the acquaintance of adversity. They were hungry at times, and out of work, and in the struggle to keep alive they forgot they were princes and felt very sorry for themselves.

One established a small store and sold tinware, and when sales were few and his creditors pressed him for money, he wrote to his father, the king, and asked for help. No answer came.

Another, who yearned to be a magistrate and doubted his ability to win a sufficient number of votes, wrote a letter asking the king to exert influence in his behalf. His letter was not answered.

Each of the sons, forgetful of his royal blood and engrossed in some struggle for petty honors or profits, appealed to the king for help, but not once did the king reply.

The years passed, as years will, and the twelve royal princes were called home. Again they were dressed in royal robes and sat at their father's table.

The sufferings they had endured now seemed amusing, but still they wondered why they had been neglected.

"When we appealed for help," said one, "why did you give us no answer?"

"I thought of you only as princes," said the king. "You forgot what you were, and asked me to help you become successful merchants, politicians, gardeners and things like that. If you had needed help to conduct yourselves as princes, it would have been given."

How easily people forget what they are!

The strong man prays in agony: "Why do you let me die?" The young man prays: "Give me success." The people in time of war pray for victory.

But God thinks of us as immortal souls. Our little affairs, urgent today and forgotten tomorrow, do not affect immortality. Death itself is nothing if the soul is all that matters.

SANDWICHES.

What would we do without the Department of Agriculture? asks the Philadelphia Inquirer. One of its recent activities is to disseminate instruction on the making of sandwiches—an art which in these days lacks skilled practitioners. The noble earl for whom this one-time delicacy was named made it from a slice of cold roast beef between two slices of bread. Since then it has taken many shapes and sizes. To some the club sandwich is the highest development of the original; to others the dainty triangular morsels, once common in American bars, and still found on shipboard in the smoking room or lounge at the cocktail hour, make a more delicate appeal to the palate.

The department advocates very thin slices of bread, with filling only on one slice. Nothing is said of lettuce leaves or mayonnaise, and apparently the use of butter is disapproved. Nor is there a warning against the use of hard rolls, split down the middle, with the ham, cheeses or what you will, frayed and overlapping the edges. Such sandwiches are unworthy of the honored name they bear. Like some other essentially simple articles of diet, a really good sandwich is hard to get even in the most expensive places—perhaps in them least of all. These official instructions from Washington are not likely, alas, to improve the modern product.

PRESS COMMENT.

Makes 'em Think Twice.

Perhaps.

Detroit News: Does the suggested women's bloc mean that eventually Congress will consist of a majority, a minority and a sorority?

They Don't Know.

Cincinnati Enquirer: It's evident that the men of Afghanistan don't know what they're missing when they protest against modern clothes for women.

Evening Up.

Cincinnati Enquirer: England imports all her golf-club hickory from the United States. And, in recent years, America has reciprocated by importing English championships.

Fat Chance!

Springfield News: A machine has been invented that mends runs in silk stockings. An invention of still greater value to the world would be a machine that would mend the ways of much that runs in silk stockings.

Congress a Poor City Manager.

Boston Transcript: Congress is told that it might properly dry up the city of Washington before trying to dry up the country. At the same time complaint is made that the smoke nuisance in the Capital is as great as in Pittsburgh. When it comes to municipal administration Congress does not set a bright and shining light for mayors and city managers.

Opportunity Knocks.

Boston Transcript: The other day it was reported that the wild man from Borneo had just died. Now comes the news that the "automaton" which once played chess in New York's old Eden Musee has passed on in the form of the man who was concealed within its covering of steel. Looks as if opportunity was knocking at the door of a twentieth century Barnum.

Slow but Cheap.

Baltimore Sun: French experimenters have served the academy of sciences with strawberries which they grew without the aid of the sun, and in 40 days as against the 80 which nature requires. This use of electricity in place of sunlight appears as a new triumph for science, until one reads the bill, which puts the cost of the berries at $5 apiece. Then it is transformed into a boost for the sun. That luminary is old-fashioned and perhaps slow, but strawberries at $5, or even 5 cents apiece, show how stupendously great is the worth of its rays when considered as productive of a whole world's crops.

Lighted Pedestrians.

New York World: If a bill introduced in Albany by Senator Wheatley becomes law, a pedestrian venturing on an improved highway after dark will be by law obliged to carry a light. It would be easy to make a joke of this project: the caricaturist could have rare sport depicting the harried Mr. Common Man rigged out with red and green direction lights on either hand, with a tail-light at his rear and a mast-head light slung on a 10-foot pole held nervously erect.

Yet the proposal is no more revolutionary than, a few years ago, was the movement to compel farmers' wagons to carry lights. Nowadays every careful driver would carry lights for his own sake, law or no law. For that matter, some few pedestrians already light lanterns when they venture on much-traveled highways at night. It is difficult for motorists to see an unlighted figure at night, especially when meeting a car whose driver does not dim his lights or passing a car in any conditions whatever.

Senator Wheatley need not be deterred by ridicule from pushing his bill. In a few years the lighted pedestrian may be as much a matter of course as the lighted car.

MARKING A MILESTONE.

The plan of the Barbourville Post of the American Legion to commemorate the site of the first habitation erected by white men in Kentucky is praiseworthy, says the Louisville Courier Journal. The small log hut built by members of the exploration party under Dr. Thomas Walker, of Virginia, 179 years ago this spring, was an important milestone along the route of that inevitable westward march of civilization then begun.

Dr. Walker and five selected men, of proven courage and usefulness, began their surveying trip of Virginia's western possessions March 6, 1750—a quarter of a century before Boone's establishment of his settlement on the Kentucky River. Dr. Walker had been with Col. Washington at Braddock's defeat. He was a surgeon, besides being a surveyor and a woodsman of experience. His chief assistant was Ambrose Powell, for whom several natural phenomena in Tennessee are named. William Tomlinson, later one of the defenders of Bryan's Station near Lexington in 1772; Colby Chew, Henry Lawless and John Hughes, all fearless woodsmen and hunters, were the others.

After a month of adventure and vicissitude, the party reached and named the Cumberland River, at what is now Pineville. Following the Indian road or Warriors' trail along the river valley, on April 23 they decided to build a permanent camp as headquarters for their explorations. On a slight promontory overlooking the river and Swan Pond, so named by Dr. Walker because of the wild birds of this species he found there, Lawless, Tomlinson and Hughes erected an 8 by 12 cabin, while the others pushed on. Returning five days later, Dr. Walker found the building completed, land cleared and broken and corn planted.

This site is now on a farm 6 miles from Barbourville, owned by a family which has agreed to contribute five acres to a park. Stones from the original cabin chimney have been made into a monument. The spot might form a recreation place attractive to tourists.

FORCED FLIGHT IN PLANE DOES JINX TO DEATH

"Scarlet Seas," the new First National Picture starring Richard Barthelmess, which is this week's feature screen attraction at the Earle, marked the destruction of the popular star's airplane jinx.

Six years ago, Barthelmess was on location near Washington, D. C., and took a flight in an airplane from Hampton Roads. The plane made a perfect flight until it neared its destination when something strange seemed to be happening; Barthelmess, however, felt that the pilot was competent and therefore sat tight. When the plane landed, the pilot fell limp across his wheel—dead! It was pronounced a case of heart failure.

This experience left an indelible imprint on Barthelmess' memory and he would never again fly. But when the First National "Scarlet Seas" company went to the isthmus on Catalina Island, the star decided that production must not be held up—the age-old tradition of "the play must go on" prevailed. He chartered a plane and made the flight, thus killing, once for all, the jinx that had haunted him since that fateful day six years ago.

"Scarlet Seas" is a thrilling tale of the open ocean, teeming with the vivid color of the South Seas, trading in smuggled goods, rough-and-tumble fights and an unusual Barthelmess characterization. It was directed by John Francis Dillon, who made such a mark for himself with "The Noose."

A VIVID DRAMA WITH SPLENDID SOUND EFFECTS

"The Redeeming Sin," now at Crandall's Metropolitan, is especially fortunate, possessing, as it does, the most beautiful star of the screen, a leading man who is, without doubt, the supreme talking-picture favorite; a strong story of sustained and thrilling interest and the able direction of Howard Bretherton.

Added to this, "The Redeeming Sin" is the most satisfying of all Vitaphone pictures to date. Voices of the players—all trained voices—are eminently satisfactory in the dialogue—the symphonic accompaniment is splendidly interpretative of all the changing moods of the story, and natural sounds are reproduced with uncanny verity.

Dolores Costello has never had a part which calls for such tempestuous use of her powers of interpretation. She is cast as a dancer in a haunt of the Parisian underworld, in a weird company of women of the streets, thieves, gamblers and all the hodgepodge of the slums. Her deepest love is expended upon a small brother; her hatred on Letteur, a thief, who tries to dominate her life, and on Mitzi, the young woman who is teaching the little brother to be a pickpocket.

The good angels of her life are an aged priest and a young doctor who is called when the child has been accidental'y shot. The conflict between the elements of good and evil for the soul of the dancer is stirring beyond belief and, as we have said, Dolores Costello has never given such high proof of her emotional genius, her wistful loveliness being only heightened by the role's contrasts. Here is a picture said to be worth your while.

A SHOWER GAVE MOVIE EXTRA A CHANCE TO ACT

James Murray, who appears in Warner Bros. Vitaphone talking picture "The Little Wildcat," now at the Fox, as the romantic lead, was discovered by King Vidor after he had for five years tried to escape from the ranks of the "extras."

The fact that Murray was an "extra" and therefore of decidedly meager means caused him to be marooned at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio one night, hoping as the rain poured down that someone would give him a lift to Hollywood.

King Vidor, directing at that studio, happened along, and catching a fleeting view of Murray was so struck by his appearance that he not only gave him a "lift" but induced the studio to do the same. Shortly thereafter Murray played the leading male role in Vidor's "The Crowd."

James Murray was born in New York City on February 9, 1901. He attended the public schools of the city, finally entering Evander Childs High School. In 1922 he began his theatrical career, playing a bit in "The World We Live In," for William A. Brady productions.

He also played John Alden in "The Pilgrims," a film produced by the Yale University Press at Whitestone, Long Island. In 1925 Murray went to Hollywood, playing first as an extra in "Hospitality," a Buster Keaton picture. Most recently he played in "In Old Kentucky," directed by John M. Stahl. Then came the lucky rain.

Murray is six feet tall, weighs 178 pounds and has brown hair and green eyes. He prefers to play comedy-drama, elects athletics as his hobby and enjoys the classics in preference to modern fiction. His ambition is to travel.

VILMA BANKY'S FIRST STELLAR ROLE COLORFUL

Vilma Banky in her first starring picture, "The Awakening," is the screen attraction at Loew's Palace this week. In this latest United Artists synchronized picture Miss Banky is supported by Walter Byron and Louis Wolheim. The story depicts Vilma as the acknowledged beauty and idol of her village. Von Hagen, a calvary officer who is in the village with his troops, decides to capture the girl's love to add to his conquests. Von Hagen is on the verge of success when he discovers that he really does love the girl.

In the meantime, the people of the village, having seen Maria enter the quarters of the officer, assume that she has done wrong and drive her out. Von Hagen has made his discovery too late as the girl can not be found. However, a second meeting does take place. It is during the war in the midst of a heavy bombardment. The girl is in a convent about to become a nun, and she refuses to listen to his pleas to go with him. When he is brought back wounded, she decides she does love him, and with the aid of Louis Wolheim, whose hand she has spurned, her lover is saved.

On the stage Wesley Eddy and the Palace Syncopators are presented in Boris Petroff's latest Loew-Publix production, "Barcelona." BOOTH TO SET DATE OF NEXT ARMY MOVE

High Council Asks General to Appear and Defend Cause Next Week.

DENY AMERICAN ENMITY

London, Feb 1 (A.P.).—Action in the Salvation Army drama halted today until Gen. Bramwell Booth sets the date for the next big scene. The high council today requested him to name some day next week when it would be convenient for him to appear in person or to send a representative to plead his cause.

The resolution to this effect was sent to the general at Southwold tonight. A junior officer from the international headquarters acting as messenger. Members on the council commented on the contrast between this method of notification and the former occasion when a carefully chosen deputation of army leaders journeyed to the bedside of the general, expressed their affection for him and respectfully offered him a chance to retire with honors.

Headquarters of the American delegation broke silence on controversial issues, denying a statement by Catherine Booth that agitation for the removal of her father as commander and for changes in the constitution of the army started in America. William Peart, a commissioner and chief assistant to Evangeline Booth, commander of the American army, was the spokesman. He said:

"It is quite untrue that the present agitation commenced in America. The cause has always been in London and it was a mere accident that it found expression in America.

"For the last ten years Commander Eva has been repeatedly calling the general's attention to some violation of the fundamental principles of the army when they conflicted with his own interests. She was the only person in the army able to do so because of her unique position as a daughter of the founder, a sister of Bramwell, and commander of the army in the United States and its possessions.

"Had any other officer spoken his or her mind on those matters the result would have been prompt disciplins. There are cases on record which confirm this."

Six Killed in Crash Of Trains at Curve

Orders Misread, Louisville, Henderson and St. Louis Officials Believe.

Henderson, Ky., Feb. 1 (A.P.).—Officials of the Louisville, Henderson & St. Louis Railway announced tonight that they are conducting a rigid investigation of the wreck at Posey's Cut, five miles east of here early today, when an east-bound passenger train collided head on with a west-bound freight, resulting in the death of five trainmen and an employe of the American Railway Express. The dead, all of Louisville are:

W. B. Bush, 60, engineer of the passenger train; Clyde Hall, 39, fireman of the passenger train; J. A. Bell, 49, expressman on the passenger train; John P. Harder, 44, engineer of the freight train; Hewitt B. Maysey, 32, fireman of the freight train, and Milton I. Buckley, 29, brakeman of the freight.

Railroad officials said they had not interviewed trainmen, but it is believed that a misreading of orders caused the wreck. It took place on a sharp curve and resulted in the destruction of both locomotives, the telescoping and burning of baggage car in which the expressman was riding, and the derailing and damaging of a number of cars in the freight train. The express car contained a quantity of mail, all of which was destroyed.

Millionaire's Son Gets Four Years in Forgery

New York, Feb. 1 (A.P.).—Jerome Huber, 31-year-old son of a family worth millions, was sentenced to from 4 to 8 years today on his plea of guilty to a forgery charge.

At 5:30 o'clock they were guests at a reception at the Argentine Embassy and last night were entertained by Walter Penfield at a box party at Poli's Theater.

AIR MAIL FLIER DIES AS PLANE HITS PEAK

Eugene Cecil, 35, Had Piloted for U. S. in World War and as Circus Aid.

BECAME CONFUSED IN FOG

Morgantown, W. Va., Feb. 1 (A.P.).—A career that included piloting in the World War, through air circus stunting to air mail flying came to an abrupt end on Tar Mountain early today with the death of Eugene Cecil, 35 years old, Cleveland-Pittsburgh mail plane pilot.

Cecil, it is thought, became lost in the fog hanging over Carnegie, Pa., and, circling the fog, mistook the Monongahela River for the Ohio River, causing him to fly southward toward West Virginia instead of northward to his home port, Bettis Field, McKeesport, a few miles from Carnegie.

The plane was seen over Morgantown shortly before midnight. Next a crash was heard and searching parties started out. Early today the plane, with mail intact and the pilot dead in his cockpit, was found in a clearing atop a mountain peak. In his pocket was found a note: "Failed to stop at Youngstown because of darkness."

Cecil, who piloted a U. S. Army plane on the western front, left the Gate Air Circus December 15 and was employed by Clifford Ball, contractor, for the Cleveland-Pittsburgh route. He was flying a Travelair biplane.

Among the searchers who found the wrecked plane was an Associated Press staff man, and Mrs. C. P. Northrop, wife of the publisher of the Morgantown New Dominion, who went along with newspapermen and police.

Cecil had made a trip from Pittsburgh to Cleveland yesterday afternoon in a snowstorm and was making his return trip when the accident occurred. When found, his head was badly crushed, supposedly by having struck the front of the cockpit.

The body was removed to Morgantown and the mail was taken in charge by State police. Cecil was a native of Villa Grove, Ill., but had resided in McKeesport, his home station, since entering the mail service.

"I am going through the Change of Life. At times I would cry for hours. I got tired of going to the doctor so I tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Before I had taken the first bottle I began to get better. I have taken eight bottles now. I feel that it has saved my life, also doctor's bills. I work for a family of six, washing, cooking and do all my own work. People say I look like 25."—Mrs. Cora Calahan.

MRS. F. C. HELMING

"Lydia E. Pinkham did for me what doctors failed to do. When the Change of Life began I was very poorly. Now at 55 I do all my own work, attend two dances a week and it is hard to make people believe I am over 40. I never see a woman in ill health but I advocate your medicine because I know its value. Every woman should take it, not just for a month or two but until they have passed the critical period."—Mrs. F. C. Helming.

AUTO SHOW CLOSING TO ATTRACT CROWD

Attendance Nears New High Mark; Afternoon Is Held to Provide Leisure.

BIG WIND-UP IS PLANNED

With aggregate attendance crowding the 80,000 mark, the ninth annual automobile show enters its final phase in the Washington Auditorium today with every indication that last-minute visitors will swell the grand total to new high figures. In anticipation of the largest outpouring of motoring enthusiasts today and tonight, the show committee has announced that special preparations have been made to handle the throngs.

The staffs of the exhibiting dealers will be augmented for the closing sessions, so that all who come to inspect the displays will receive adequate attention. Members of the show committee of the Washington Automotive Trade Association, under whose auspices the show has been conducted, are urging as many persons as possible to visit the auditorium this afternoon.

Less Crowded in Afternoon.

It is pointed out that although the arrangements this year have kept congestion in the aisles at a minimum, and all visitors have had ample opportunity to examine the models in which they are particularly interested, nevertheless afternoon attendance offers more leisurely inspection than attendance at night.

A check made by the show committee indicates that there have been many "repeat" visitors at the show during the last two days. It is stated that hundreds of persons who came to the show either on the opening night or on one of the subsequent evenings earlier in the week have returned to give the cars another inspection generally or to confirm an opinion with regard to some particular make or model.

Sales on Repeated Calls.

"Numerous sales are the result of these second and even third visits," asserted Rudolph Jose, chairman of the show committee, in discussing this development.

As the final hour approaches tonight, a general carnival will prevail in conformity with the tradition of past shows. There will be music, horns will be sounded on all notes of the scale and lights will flash as the final chapter is written on what is regarded by the W. A. T. A. as the most successful show in Washington automotive history.

Postmaster Jobs Are Held Political

Walsh, of Massachusetts, Deplores Appointments Under Civil Service.

(Associated Press.)

Appointments to postmasterships under the civil service were described in the Senate yesterday from the Democratic side as "entirely political" and reference was made particularly to the offices at Boston, Mass., and Butte, Mont.

Without protesting against Charles H. Gow, personally, newly named postmaster for Boston, Senator Walsh, Democrat, of that State, condemned the manner in which he was named by President Coolidge over Postmaster Roland M. Baker, who had been there for the last eight years. Later in the day, Gow's nomination was confirmed.

Senator Wheeler (Democrat), Montana, declared that because the Republican State committee of Montana had asked for a new postmaster at Butte, examinations would be held for that office. He said the present postmaster was a Republican and had rendered "efficient" service.

Muscle Shoals Bill To Be Reconsidered

(United Press.)

The House military affairs committee, by a vote of 13 to 7, decided yesterday to reconsider the Madden bill which would lease Muscle Shoals to the American Cynamid Co., primarily for manufacture of fertilizer.

Changes in the forfeiture clause, objected to last year, were suggested by W. S. Bell, president of the company, in a letter to Representative Wright (Democrat), of Georgia.

If the manufacture of fertilizer after fifteen years were found unprofitable, the Government could raise the rental price of power, recapture the fertilizer plant only or recapture all power and fertilizer property by reimbursing the company for its expenditures, according to Bell's new proposals.

Company representatives are expected to appear before the committee tomorrow.

Kellogg Is Suggested For Nobel Peace Prize

(Associated Press.)

A group of leaders in Congress, including Vice President Dawes, have suggested that Secretary Kellogg should be awarded the Nobel prize for the outstanding contribution to world peace last year.

A cablegram has been sent to the Nobel committee at Oslo, Norway, recommending Mr. Kellogg because of his work in negotiating the treaty to renounce war. Those who signed the cablegram, in addition to Mr. Dawes, were Vice President-elect Curtis, Nicholas Longworth, Speaker of the House; Senators Burton and Fess, of Ohio; Shipstead and Schall, of Minnesota; Walsh, of Montana, and Representative Newton, of Minnesota.

Friends Ridicule Report Gen. Butler Will Retire

(United Press.)

Brig. Gen. Smedley D. Butler, clean-up man of the United States Marine Corps, was reported in dispatches from Honolulu yesterday as en route home to retire, but his friends in Marine headquarters here treated the report lightly.

"Gen. Butler quit?" a burly Marine colonel questioned, in amazement. "First I heard of it. He can't quit. When a man has been as active as Gen. Butler in the past 30 years and is still young, the service is in his blood and he can't retire."

ganizations solicited. Many of them have gone 100 per cent for the Chest. Marked among these was the Acacia Mutual Life Insurance Co., which reported 363 subscriptions for a total of $6,191. Riggs Bank was 100 per cent with $2,952 for 245 employes. The passenger department of the Pennsylvania also reported 100 per cent with 25 gifts, totaling $210. Parker Bridget Co., 100 per cent, with 58 employes giving $521. Frank E. Sheiry, 100 per cent, with $161.50 from 8 employes. A. Kahn, Inc., 100 per cent, with $504 from 11 employes. Sol Herzog Co., 100 per cent, with $372 from 13 employes. Many others reported varying amounts up to $1,600 for W. C. & A. N. Miller, incomplete; Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co., $1,440.25, incomplete; Woodward & Lothrop, $1,660.20, incomplete.

Association in Challenge.

The Georgetown Progressive Citizens Association gave $50 from the association treasury and challenged other citizens associations to match it.

Reporting to Ray A. Ilg, vice president of the Liberty Mutual Insurance Co., that he had been "drafted" for the Chest campaign, Claude V. Hyson was told to devote his entire time to it until the drive is over.

Results from letters sent to the 62,500 Government employes through the chairman of the governmental unit, E. W. Libbey, began to be apparent last night, returns of approximately $4,500 being received by mail at Chest headquarters. Daniel E. Garges, with the consent of the Commissioners, is sending similar letters to all District employes.

Disappointment at the progress of the campaign was expressed yesterday by Frederic A. Delano, president of the Chest. "We must have larger gifts if the campaign is to be a success," Mr. Delano said. "The people do not seem to realize as yet that this is not just 'another drive' but is a one-time appeal for the year for 57 different agencies and that they are being relieved of 56 appeals by the concentration of the 57 into one. We are not anxious for cash. The giver has the option of stretching his payments over the entire year, paying quarterly or otherwise as he sees fit, but gifts simply must be larger or we are going to fall short of our goal of $1,343,348.93."

Donations Over $500.

Gifts of $500 or more were announced yesterday as follows:

John Hays Hammond, $5,000 (making his total subscription $10,000); Cleveland Perkins, $4,000; Washington Gas Light Co., $3,500; Dr. Malcolm Gibbs, $3,000; Mrs. W. K. Brownson, $2,500; Mr. and Mrs. Whitman Cross, $2,000; Mary B. Adams, $1,551; Mrs. Herbert Slocum, $1,500; Mrs. John C. Simpson, $1,200.

McCormick, A. C. Moses, National Electrical Supply Co., Mr. and Mrs. Ord Preston, Mrs. C. A. Stedman, Dennis Upson and Weaver Bros. $1,000; Helen Jones, $800; Helen Nicolay, $750; Fred S. Gichner, $650; Southern Dairies, Miss Frances Young, $600.

Jelleff, $500 more, (bringing his pledge to $3,000), E. Lee Jones, Mary S. Lawrence, A. Loffler Co., Inc., Mr. and Mrs. William K. Quinter, W. H. Rapley, Mrs. Margaret L. Reed, Janet Richards, Joseph Sanders, Jacob B. Shapiro, W. A. Simpson, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Waggaman, Dr. and Mrs. Reginald Walker, W. H. Walker, M. and R. B. Warren, John H. Wilkins Co., $500.

Speech, in Record, Hits Willebrandt

(United Press.)

Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, Assistant United Sttaes Attorney General, was attacked by Representative Boylan, New York Democrat, for placing undercover agents in Federal prisons and for her campaign speeches, in an address printed in the Congressional Record yesterday.

Declaring spying was un-American, Boylan said if such a system is continued "America will become a Nation of spies, snoopers and Benedict Arnolds."

He characterized Mrs. Willebrandt's campaign speeches as "intemperate and unchristian" and said fanaticism dictates her attempt to use the conspiracy clauses of Federal laws in prosecution of prohibition violators in New York City.

Dry Funds Backed By Bishop Cannon

Tells New Jersey League $100,000,000 Not Too Much if Needed.

Trenton, N. J., Feb. 1 (A.P.).—Bishop James Cannon, jr., of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, tonight told the Antisaloon League of New Jersey that he "would not hesitate to advocate the appropriation of $100,000,000 annually to carry on an adequate program of prohibition law enforcement were the President-elect to find it necessary to call for that amount to work out his proposed constructive program."

Speaking at the annual State rally of the league here, the bishop said it was "exceedingly significant that in the vote on Thursday in the House of Representatives the "wet" Tammany delegation and its affiliated group in other cities lined up against the $24,000,000 appropriation.

Bishop Cannon criticised Secretary Mellon on the ground that he had stated the prohibition department needs strengthening and had failed to ask for the necessary funds, but he denied that he is opposing Mr. Mellon's retention in the Cabinet.

Papal Organ Takes John D., Jr., to Task

Osservatore Romano Criticizes Words on Faith at University Dedication.

Rome, Feb. 1 (A.P.).—An address by John D. Rockefeller, jr., dedicating the new chapel of the University of Chicago some months ago came in for critical comment tonight in Osservatore Romano.

The newspaper quotes Mr. Rockefeller as saying: "The object of young belief is of little importance; the main thing is adhere to it sincerely and strongly."

Osservatore, which is used by the Vatican frequently for official expression, contends that such a statement puts all religions on the same basis and, "above all, makes religious faith consist in the firm adhesion of the spirit to whatever fantasy pleases. This is truly an original way of preaching religion."

Continuing, the paper says:

"Not to preoccupy oneself with the truth of the object of one's own belief signifies in feeble words pretending to construct a skyscraper without being sure of the solidity of the base."

Thomas W. Lamont, junior partner in the Morgan banking firm, and Thomas Nelson Perkins, a Boston financier, alternate delegates, accompanied them.

Ferdinand Eberstadt, an authority on German finance and industry, and Jeremiah Smith, jr., former commissioner general of the League of Nations to Hungary, also accompanied the party. Mr. Eberstadt and Mr. Smith will advise the delegation on the technical aspects of European politics and finance.

BOSTON MAN HEARD IN CHURCH LECTURE

PRAISES NEW FREEDOM

A lecture on "Christian Science: The Liberator of Mankind," was delivered last evening in First Church of Christ, Scientist, by John Randall Dunn, C. S. B., of Boston, Mass. Mr. Dunn is a member of the board of lectureship of the Mother Church, the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass. He was introduced by William G. Biederman, first reader of First Church under whose auspices the lecture was given. The lecturer said in part:

"The widespread interest in the subject of Christian Science, in this and other lands, is traceable directly to the fact that enslaved mortals are finding in its spiritual teaching that liberator graphically pictured by Isaiah as sent 'to preach good tiding unto the meek; * * * to bind up the broken-hearted to proclaim liberty to the captives, and the opening of the prison to them that are bound.' The attempts of some misinformed critics to prove that Christian Science is not this liberator, that the sick are not healed, the sinning reformed, nor the sorrowing comforted through its ministrations, are of course of little moment in the presence of an ever-increasing host of witnesses testifying to the fact that whereas they were bound physically, mentally, or morally, now they are experiencing through the teachings of Christian Science a greater measure of health, freedom and happiness than they have ever known.

"What would those who fancy themselves opposed to this spiritual teaching have its students do? Would they ask the man who states, and whose family corroborates his statement, that he has been freed from the torments of alcoholism, to go back to his appetite and his bondage? Would they bid the invalid who through Christian Science has become a believer in any love of the Bible, discard that holy volume and tread again his cheerless, godless road? Would they bring back the pain and anguish which in the cases of thousands of men and women and little children have been banished by the touch of this healing evangel? Surely this is no time to oppose the coming to saddened humanity of a spiritual mesage the certain effect of which is the uplift and comfort of mankind.

"There is not a people on the face of the earth that is not yearning for the comfort and healing and joy that follow in the wake of this spiritual teaching. In many countries that one visits today one senses a feeling akin to dismay over the increasing discord, unrest and turmoil. What does it all mean? Christian Science answers in the words of Jesus Christ, 'When these things begin to come to pass, then look up, and life up your heads, for your redemption draweth nigh.'"

Damrosch Program on Air Tonight

Beethoven, Haydn, Massenet and Wagner to Be Heard on WRC at 8 P. M. Barn Dance on WJSV. Colton Orchestra 7:30.

Beethoven, Haydn, Massenet and Wagner are the creators of the music to be heard in the nation-wide concert by the National Orchestra, with Walter Damrosch conducting, which is one of the high lights of WRC's program at 8 o'clock tonight. The program which Mr. Damrosch has arranged follows:

First and second movements from "Pastorale Symphony," No. 6 (Beethoven); theme and variations on "Austrian National Hymn" (Haydn), "Picturesque Scenes" (Massenet), "Prize Song" and "Dance of the Apprentices," from the "Meistersinger" (Wagner).

Beethoven's "Pastorale Symphony," No. 6, composed in the summer of 1808, is a striking example of program music. The music is true to its titles and the impressions are very real. The awakening of joyful impressions on arriving in the country (allegro, ma non troppo). Scene by the brook (andante molto moto). The water actually ripples and shimmers in the string choirs, and the nightingale (flute), the quail (oboe) and the cuckoo (two clarinets) are distinctly heard.

Massenet's "Scenes Pittoresques" are musical sketches by the well known French composer of "Thais" and other works in the larger form. The work consists of: (1) "Marche," (2) "Air de Ballet," (3) "The Angelus," and (4) "Fete Boheme."

From Wagner's grand old opera, "The Meistersingers of Nuremburg," are taken the "Prize Song of Walther," the fine tenor aria, and the "Dance of the Apprentices." These are both heard in the orchestra here, there being no tenors on the program.

A medley of famous compositions by Fritz Kreisler, entitled, "Kreisleriana," will be heard in the recital by Lew White, at 9 o'clock, from WRC. Works by Verdi, Chaminade and Noel Coward will be played in the same program.

The numbers to be heard during the Lucky Strike Dance Hour, at 10 o'clock, are "Doin' the Raccoon," "Annabelle Lee," "Dreaming of the Day," "That's My Weakness Now," "Prince of Pilsen," "Message of Violets," "There's a Rainbow 'Round My Shoulder," "Limehouse Blues," "Mississippi Mud," "Love Tale of Alsace-Lorraine," "Dengoza," "The One Girl," "Charmaine," "Three o'Clock in the Morning," "Down Where the Sun Goes Down," "Ida, Sweet as Apple Cider" and "Where's That Rainbow."

The Wardman Park Dance Orchestra will be the closing feature from the station.

The Foreign Policy Association luncheon will be broadcast through WRC at 1:45 o'clock this afternoon. Another program of interest will be the RCA Demonstration Hour which immediately follows the luncheon.

Another Saturday night program made up entirely of local features will be heard from WMAL during the evening. The Cotton Pickers Orchestra is one of the early features, scheduled for 7:30 o'clock. "The Melody Girl," Edna Moreland, soprano; Sophocles T. Papas, and the Mohawk Quartet are among the shorter features to be heard before the orchestral concert by students of the Institute of Musical Art and the Brunswick Saturday Nighters.

Another barn dance and radio revue will be staged from the studios of WJSV beginning at 9:15 o'clock and lasting into the early morning hours. All of the regular entertainers heard during this program will be on hand. The station will present several short features until time for the barn dance to begin.

WOL has again prepared two hours of late dance music for the radio audience. Early features will include dinner music, a community chest speaker, a request program and "Amos 'n' Andy."

Post's Free Cook School Next Week

Mrs. Northcross Begins Lecture Demonstrations at Ambassador Theater on Tuesday at 2 P. M. Will Answer Questions.

Pies and cakes "like mother used to make" will be at one's command if she attends and learns what there will be to learn at the free cooking school to be conducted by The Washington Post Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of next week at the Ambassador Theater, with Mrs. Frances T. Northcross as lecturer.

By the number of letters that have been received by The Post and by the frequency of telephone calls relating to the subject, it is indicated that the school will be well attended every afternoon. Doors to the theater are to be opened at 1 o'clock. Lectures will be from 2 to 4 o'clock.

Mrs. Northcross is a lecturer whose years of experience have eminently fitted her to bring worth-while suggestions to Washington housewives. Her talks will include timely hints on running the home, with its intricate problems, marketing, budgeting, child feeding, diets for fat and lean, menu planning, time and labor saving appliances.

Then, another important point: You are not going to leave the cooking school with a jumbled plan for refurnishing your kitchen. You will receive many hints on how to get more out of the tools you now have, and real ideas on what to look for in those new appliances you yourself have wanted for a long, long time.

A part of cooking-school procedure especially pleasing to housekeepers is the fact that everything to be discussed will be actually demonstrated on the platform in full view of the audience. There will be nothing left to theory or guesswork, as every principle presented will be proven in its usefulness by Mrs. Northcross. Moreover, the home economics expert believes women have questions all their very own regarding every department of kitchen routine and housework. Blanks will be provided at each session on which you may write your problems, without signing your name, and a very clear reply will be made from the platform on problems involving cookery and home economics.

The Post is making this contribution to the women of Washington and vicinity in the conviction that our womenfolk are interested in ideas on shopping and kitchen methods to effect marketing economies, greater variety in menu planning and to save maximum time for social life and recreation, often neglected by self-sacrificing wives and mothers.

Mrs. Northcross has planned the cooking school to supply every woman present with a copy of the recipes demonstrated. She knows, too, how dry a series of purely educational sessions would become without fun and entertainment. Among other things to provide a jolly time will be the distribution each day of big market baskets filled with valuable food articles. Then, too, the cakes and other appetizing dishes prepared at each lecture will be awarded as gifts to members of the audience.

Finally, would you like to add some really fine article to your home for making it more inviting and efficient? Splendid gifts donated by Washington merchants will be awarded to women in attendance, and every one of these gifts will be an article of value in your cookery laboratory or in adding charm to your dining room or to your living room.

Certainly these sessions will bring to our women folk really helpful and enjoyable afternoons away from the routine of housework. We are sure our readers have been planning to be at all sessions and will come prepared with pencil and notebook as well as questions to make the school your school.

Dare Interprets the Mode

New York, Feb. 1.

HERE it is the first Saturd.., in February and either next Saturday or the Saturday after that you are probably going to either give or attend a Valentine party. When a fete day of any importance comes in the middle of the week, it's always a problem just when to celebrate it!

Costume parties are always great fun, and it is always a problem to know what to wear. A lovely lady always sees in a costume party an opportunity to enhance her loveliness, and our men folk, in spite of all their protesting, do love to dress up and have a good time!

Plan for your Valentine costume today. Even if you are not sure you will attend a costume party, make some tentative preparation in the event that you do. Try to plan a costume that is appropriate to the party and also one that is becoming to yourself. And please do ask yourself that question before you come to any decision. If, for instance, you decide upon a humorous costume, is this appropriate to you? If you decide upon a kiddie costume, are you sure that the anatomical display will react to your advantage?

A lovely lady always dresses appropriately to the occasion, but especially does she dress appropriately to herself.

We don't know about you, but we do know about ourselves, and we do know it is one of our flavor-rite weaknesses to buy yards and yards of things just because they are on sale.

All in all and everything considered what is or was the result? The result was that we became conscience-stricken and made lots of lovely and novel little things out of little hings, and the result is that we have made you a "surprise leaflet" telling you all about making them for yourself. You have but to send your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare department of The Washington Post for it, and it will be yours.

Illustrated today is a Valentine costume suggestion that Clever Fingers can copy. It is made of red sateen and cardboard and worn over red bloomers.

WEE MAMZELLE.

Wee Mamzelle has made so many little friends, and at the moment they are all extremely interested in learning what their respective types are and what colors they can wear. I am afraid I am guilty of having suggested it to them, but we are all having great fun, and, ah-ah-ah, the mothers as well.

You see, all wee mamzelles can be put in six types. When they get any older, they fall into more types. But in the meantime, they and their lovely mammas can just as easily be wearing becoming colors as unbecoming ones—if they know what they are.

So watch for a series of Wee Mamzelle types and colors that we have decided to work on for you. They will be ready in a couple of weeks, and will help you to dress your petite adorable as charmingly and daintily as you would like to dress her!

For Clever Fingers.

Saturday—the day of preparation for tomorrow— — — rest — — — if, and IF you get it. And all the little things to be mended and altered — — a new collar here, a fresh ribbon there—can you BE an Elegant through your own cleverness?

Send your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for this week's leaflet which tells you HOW to be clever with your fingers.

What Today Means to You

FEBRUARY 2

"AQUARIUS."

IF February 2 is your birthday the most propitious hours for you today are from 9 a. m. to 10 a. m., from noon to 2:15 p. m., from 5:15 to 6:15 p. m. and from 11 p. m. to midnight. The danger periods are from 10:15 a. m. to 11:45 a. m. and from 7 p. m. to 9 p. m.

There will be little desire for adventure today and neither the astrological influences or circumstances will carry you far from the well-trodden paths. The old saw, "Nothing ventured, nothing gained" will become "Nothing ventured, nothing lost."

Children born today, like "Saturday's child," will work for a living. To have, they must do, and to be, they must strive. They will live, however, to enjoy the fruits of their toil and strife.

You have much for which to thank Dame Fortune; the gifts that she has bestowed on you are yours to use, enjoy or destroy; if you estimate their value aright and utilize them both you and the world will be blessed thereby. You have an excellent memory for essential details and you also have the power to grasp a subject in its entirety. Coupled with these you have great administrative ability and a personality that will command admiration and respect. The world looks to you for leadership.

There are forces within you, however, which will have the power to destroy that which you will build. Success and honor will have a tendency to turn your head and you will be inclined to live on your past reputations and to diminish your efforts in all directions. Your judgment of character is not very keen and you are in danger of being misled by outward appearances. You should also be more careful in placing your confidences, as many of your downfalls can be traced to the betrayal of your friendship.

You are rather inclined to air your thoughts too freely. Sociability is a very strong trait and you are an interesting and a delightful companion. Catch up the loose ends of your character and do not let them spoil the fine fabric in your life!

Successful people born on February 2:

Sir William Phips, colonial Governor of Massachusetts.

George Loring Brown, landscape painter.

Knute Nelson, lawyer and representative.

Uncle Ray's Corner

A Little Saturday Talk.

YOUR Uncle Ray has been busy the past few months. Besides writing the Corner, I have traveled, spoken in schools and attended to other things. Readers who have written for leaflets, have had their letters promptly handled by my helpers; and I trust that everyone who has asked for a leaflet, has received it.

In addition to the requests or leaflets, there have been hundreds of special letters, asking for answers to questions or for back numbers of the Corner. I have handled as many of these requests as I have been able to handle; but you ought to see the portfolio I carry! It is simply bulging with letters which I must answer. Sooner or later, I try to take care of every request; but often I find myself far behind.

If you ever want back numbers of the Corner, the quickest way to obtain them is to send postage stamps to the circulation manager of the newspaper, telling the dates of the editions you have missed. The postage stamps should cover the selling price of the newspapers.

At Christmas time, I was made glad by cards and presents from members of the Corner family. One little girl, whom I have never seen, sent a silk handkerchief which she had brought back from a trip to Germany. A Corner reader in Georgia mailed a bag of pecans for Christmas, and I received another bag from a resident of Alabama. I am happy that readers who know me only through the newspapers, should think of me as such a close friend. I want every reader to feel like a personal friend of mine. I want you to be with me while we explore the world's wonders together.

Letters are welcome, no matter how high they pile up. I like to know what you are thinking, and I appreciate the words you write. In regard to the answers, roember the hundred of letters I have ahead. Maybe you will write a letter which will not need an answer, a letter which I shall enjoy and shall know that you will not be disappointed about not receiving a reply. Address me, always, in care of the newspaper.

TODAY'S WOMEN

By EARL MINDERMAN

FEBRUARY 2.

NELL GWYNN, the orange girl who rose to be the greatest English actress of her day, was born this day, 1650. She went on the stage at 16 and distinguished herself in light comedy. She owed much of her success as an actress to Dryden, who made a study of her airy, irresponsible personality and then wrote plays for her.

She was a favorite of King Charles. His dying request was "Let not poor Nelly starve." She endeared herself to the people of England by her piquant beauty, frank recklessness, good temper, ready wit and high spirits. There is a moving picture based on her life.

In contrast is the career of Hannah More, English moralist, born this day, 1745. She gave up successful playwriting to write moral and religious works. "The Cheap Repository," a paper begun in 1795, had a circulation of from one to two millions. Her most popular work of fiction, "Coelebs in Search of a Wife," ran through eight editions in a year in England and to thirty in America.

Delia Salter Bacon, the writer and lecturer who gave currency to the Bacon versus Shakespeare controversy, was born this day, 1811, in Ohio. From 1853 on, she devoted herself to proving that Francis Bacon and others wrote Shakespeare's works. She published the results of her investigations on the subject in England in 1857.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

THE FATHER'S PROBLEM.

It is so hard to know the right
And what is best to do,
Whether to hold the youngster tight
And wall him in with you
Or turn him loose, with freer rein
To romp where'er he will
That he may full experience gain
Of every good and ill.

How much to grant, how much deny
Are difficult to gauge.
A father's problems multiply
In such a golden age,
Yet not from pleasure manhood grows
As many parents learn,
But wise, indeed, the man who knows
Just when he must be stern.

Love prompts us to the happier way
Which reason cries: "Refuse!"
And fathers, 'twixt this aye and nay
Immediately must choose.
He asks a joy which we can give
And love the gift would make,
But judgment counsels while we live
The sterner course to take.

Here is the problem fathers all
Must solve the best they can.
Love lavished on a youngster small
Perhaps may spoil the man;
When "yes" so easily is said,
'Tis hard to answer "no."
But in the years which lie ahead
It may be better so.

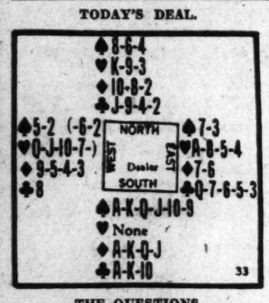
WORK ON BRIDGE

TODAY'S DEAL.



THE QUESTIONS.

What should the bidding of this hand be at Auction and Contract?

What should the play be?

THE ANSWERS.

In Auction, South bids one Spade and obtains the contract. His hand is so strong that there is no object in preempting.

In Contract, South bids six Spades and obtains the Contract. North appreciates that his King of Hearts may furnish the needed trick for a Grand Slam, or (as is actually the case) may not be of the least service. Its value is not sufficiently assured to justify his jumping. It is a great mistake to risk the big score assured by a successful bid for a Small Slam, by trying for a doubtful Grand Slam.

The play should be:

Trick 1. West, Queen of Hearts; North, the King; East, the Ace; South, Nine of Spades.

Tricks 2 and 3: South exhausts the adverse trumps.

Tricks 4 to 6: South leads three Diamonds.

Trick 7. South leads the Ace of Clubs.

Trick 8. South leads his fourth high Diamond and ruffs it with Dummy's last trump so as to enable Dummy to lead for a Club finesse. As the finesse succeeds, Declarer makes a Grand Slam.

At Auction the Grand Slam bonus of 100 would be scored; at Contract, 750 if vulnerable, 500 if not vulnerable, for a Small Slam, and 50 for one extra trick.

Connecticut Rector Has Preached 67 Years

Haddam, Conn., Feb. 1 (A.P.).—For more than three score years the Rev. William C. Knowles, rector of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the countryside village of Ponset, has preached the gospel. For half a century he has worn the same cassock in his services.

Mr. Knowles recently observed he sixty-seventh anniversary of his entrance into the ministry. Among those who worshipped with him were children of early parishoners and descendants of the settlers of Haddam and Killingworth townships, the histories of which he has written.

"Window Shopping"

Frocks of Chiffon.

Unusual frocks made of pastel-colored chiffon are different because the material is treated in such a way that it has considerable more body than the average chiffon; in fact, it strongly resembles organdy in its texture.

New Pewter.

A most entrancing new tea set is made of pewter, which is hammered and treated until it resembles silver. The teapot and other pieces are of most graceful design.

For the Pullman.

A bag of rose silk moire holds all the toilet articles necessary to the feminine traveler. There is a special compartment for sponge and wash-cloth, rubber lined of course, and fitted with a special slide-fastener.

Dotted Swiss for the Baby.

Adorable coats and bonnets for the baby en route for Southern skies are made of dotted swiss. Particularly nice are the white ones dotted in blue.

For Winter Sports.

The very young girl is not forgotten by the designers, and so it is possible to purchase a skiing costume, which has long trousers of dark blue, and cap, scarf, socks and mittens all of the most colorful wool in modern designs.

Church School Teacher At Position 35 Years

Cedar Falls, Iowa, Feb. 1 (A.P.).—Three Sunday school superintendents in 70 years is the record of the Evangelical Church here.

For 25 years the late Joseph Sartori presided. William C. Nuhn, his successor, served 35 years and still teaches a class. Reuben H. Miller has been re-elected superintendent for the fifth time.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

LESSENING THE TOLL OF HEART DISEASE.

IN planning to lessen the toll of heart disease we must not neglect the disorder as it is found in children.

It has not been easy to discover the relative importance of the causes of this important group. So much time passes after the disease starts before the sick person knows he is sick, or before the physician begins to investigate. Just now the trend is toward regarding general wear and tear on the degenerative tendencies of middle life and beyond as of first importance. If we can do anything or discover anything in middle life and beyond which can be done to ward off heart disease, let's have it. If we can eat differently or eat less or drink less or avoid some other excesses; if we can pay more attention to our throats, or to our creaking joints, our rheumatics, or whatnot and, by so doing, lessen the prevalence of heart disease, let's know what it is. Those years beyond 60 are very attractive to most of us and if we can do anything to earn some ten or more of them, most of us would like to get on the job.

But coming back to where we began, let us watch out for the heart disease which develops during childhood. In some of the cases the children with heart disease are gravely sick with the heart disorder from the very beginning. In most of them the fact that the heart is affected is not suspected during the course of the primary disease. In fact, it is generally overlooked until years afterward. It may be that the heart murmur is first discovered in the course of a periodic physical examination or of an examination to enter school or to enter work. Or it may be that some swelling of the feet or some shortness of breath occurring during middle life or beyond is the first notice of a heart disease which started in childhood. The childhood disorders in which heart diseases are most apt to complicate are St. Vitus dance, anemia, rheumatism, growing pains, sore throats, tonsilitis, scarlet fever, diphtheria, measles, whooping cough and pneumonia.

In simple disorders, when the child is not sick enough to have a physician, but is being treated by some home remedies, the intelligent parent not only takes the temperature with a thermometer, but she counts the pulse. If the fever gets high she is accustomed to send for a physician. What she needs to learn is that if the pulse is unduly rapid as compared with the fever, she should send for the physician.

When the physician is examining, it is not enough to take the temperature and look at the skin and throat. He must examine the heart. In case of rheumatism and sore throat this is especially true. In cases of anemia the heart must be examined as well as the blood. In cases of St. Vitus dance, the heart must be watched. This is the greatest need.

CANCRUM ORIS.

Mrs. B. E. W. writes: 1. What is cancrum oris, or ulcerative stomatitis?

2. Is there any cure for the disease?

3. What are the symptoms? Does it come on qquickly or gradually?

4. Could the contributing cause come from a gangrenous, ruptured appendix which was operated on two and a half years ago, apparently a successful operation?

REPLY.

1. A form of gangrene of the mouth known also as noma.

2. Probably not. The cases that get well are said to have been something else.

3. A rapidly developing ulcer of the cheeks which at times spreads to the gums, tongue, and soft palate. It develops in the course of typhoid fever or scarlet fever and appears to be due to a diphtheria-like bacillus.

4. Scarcely possible.

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD

Being Yourself.

DEAR MISS McDONALD: I have been reading your articles about women having personality and expressing it.

Here is my opinion:

I think the reason some girls are not popular is this. They will not, in plain English, be themselves.

Why is it that the minute a man enters a room full of girls that every girl in the room poses and acts silly and looks sillier? Why the change? Why not treat the men the same as the girls? Men are deeper than women, yet a woman will act silly where men are present.

I have never been troubled with men running away from me, and yet I'm not so attractive. But never have I tried to act up to a man or put myself out to please one. I talk the same way to a man as I would to a woman. Men are romantic, more so than they would like to have us believe, and will listen for hours to your dreams of a shack in the rain, a house in the snow, or any castle of dreams. They understand dreams better than we think they do.

Then again, why try too hard to interest some contrary man when there are so many more ready to be interested.

It is not hard to make a man like you, and I still say that if the girls would only be themselves, they would find plenty of men glad of their company, and they would come back for more. Nature has endowed us all with a share of personality, but not all of us know how to use it.

I know a girl, pretty, educated and good, but when I meet her I want to dodge her. Why? Because she is a bore, and is always talking about her trip to Europe and how much it cost her.

The trouble with her is she has no imagination. Why not talk about the heather-clad hills she saw in Scotland, or Westminster Abbey, or a thousand things worth mentioning?

I know as many as three score who would make wonderful wives. But they never will have the chance. Why? Because they are so anxious to please men they simply become performers when a man appears. This is a pity and accounts for the unpopular girl.

First Lady Gives Church $2 Toward New Bible

Harrisburg, Pa., Feb. 1 (A.P.).—The fund for purchasing a new Bible for the Methodist Episcopal Church at Cozeytown, near here, was given a boost in the form of a contribution of $2 by Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, it was revealed here today.

Mrs. Flora Peiffer, of Lucknow, teacher of a boys' Sunday school class which had offered to raise the money to purchase a new Bible for the church, made known the gift. The boys sent out a number of envelopes arranged so that the contributor could insert ten dimes. One of the envelopes was sent to Mrs. Coolidge at the White House in Washington. Mrs. Coolidge's secretary answered the lettter and enclosed the envelope filled with ten new dimes and a check for $1, signed by the wife of the Chief Executive.

Baltimore, Feb. 1 (A.P.).—Booth Tarkington, novelist, left Johns Hopkins Hospital today for his home in Indianapolis. Physicians said he had recuperated sufficiently from a recent eye operation, but he was expected to return for further observation.

MORE STOCKS JOIN NEW BULLISH DRIVE

Industrials and Specialties Become Active on the Buying Side.

CALL MONEY STIFFENS

New York, Feb. 1 (A.P.).—The bull movement in the rails went through its second day under full steam on the stock market today, drawing with it a wide assortment of industrials and specialties. The week's increase of $116,000,000 in Federal Reserve brokers' loans, and a jump in call money to 8 per cent failed to set the block signals.

Call money renewed at 7 per cent, but was stepped up to 8 as banks called $40,000,000 to meet the dividend and interest checks sent out overnight. Six per cent call money is looked for again next week, however, when the payments returns to the banks. The jump in call loans was attributed in part to the underwriting of new bond offerings during the week, which amounted to more than $137,000,000.

The fact that the reserve bank announced no further ear marking of gold to offset the renewed flow from London was cheering to the bull contingent, and an easier undertone in time money was interpreted as auguring some improvement in the credit situation.

Copper Price Advances.

The day's news included a further ¼ cent increase in the price of domestic copper, more orders for railway equipment, a preliminary report that Atlantic Refining's earnings for 1928 will be about five times the 1927 showing, announcement that International Cement earnings gained about 16 per cent last year, reports of January sales by Montgomery W. T and Sears-Roebuck showing gains of 37 and 21 per cent, respectively, over January, 1927. The weekly business reviews reported fair progress with no essential change in the situation.

The Associated Press index of 50 industrials reached a new high at 217.2, and of 20 rails, at 140.6, nearly 5 and 6 points, respectively, above their levels at the beginning of January. The utilities sagged slightly on profit-taking.

Radio, having been some time in retirement, made one of its spectacular appearances. It shot up about 28 points to 398, fell back to 386 in a short-lived reaction caused by the advance in the call loan rate in the afternoon, then rebounded again to 403, or 17 points under its record price.

Gains of 7 to 15 Points Shown.

Allied Chemical, Advance Rumely, Johns Manville Du Pont (new), National Bellas Hess, Western Union and Wright Aero made extreme gains of 7 to 15 points. Some of the coppers moved up on announcement of the higher red metal price, but this appeared to have been largely discounted yesterday. United States Steel mounted 2 points.

In the rails, Canadian Pacific shot up more than 10 points, while Atlantic Coast Line, Central of New Jersey, Chesapeake & Ohio, Illinois Central, Pere Marquette, and New Haven mounted 4 to 9 points, mostly to record prices. New York Central touched 204, the highest ever.

Motors turned heavy, Packard and Chrysler losing about 3 points each, and General Motors closing about a point lower. Union Carbide fell nearly 6 points in profit taking.

Commodity markets were steady to firm. Wheat mounted nearly 2 cents a bushel on further reports of unsatisfactory weather for the winter crop, and corn improved as result of its good export position. Cotton was dull in the foreign exchanges. Sterling sagged to a new low for 1929, the demand rate touching $4.84 7-16.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Feb. 1 (A.P.).—Swift upturns in wheat values took place today toward the last, influenced largely by fears expressed that winter killing of wheat is to prove heavy in many extensive Nebraska and Kansas fields in particular were reported to be bare of snow covering and already either damaged or in danger.

Closing quotations on wheat were strong, 1½c to 2c net higher, with corn ⅝@½c to 3c up, oats showing ⅛c to ½c gain, and provisions varying from 12c decline to a rise of 2c.

Much of the buying of wheat future deliveries today appeared to be based on a statement from one of the foremost crop reporting agencies in the country. He said complaints of damage to United States winter wheat were coming from too many sources and too persistently to be ignored, and that the injury was most feared in ice-smothering in soft-wheat regions and the numerous zero spells with high winds on the bare and dry surface in shallow-rooted sections of considerable hard winter-wheat territory.

Anxiety over the present domestic wheat crop situation, it was added, grows out of conditions different from those of last winter, when the damage was brought about mostly by abnormal growth during warm weather in December, rendering the wheat plant susceptible to freezing temperatures which followed and which caused havoc over a wide range of the soft wheat belt. Under such circumstances and with Liverpool quotations relatively firm, wheat in Chicago today was bought, and especially near the finish a majority of previous sellers were hurrying to change to the buying side of the market.

Corn price gains today were largely owing to sympathy with the action of wheat. Buyers of May at around $1 a bushel was a feature. Country offerings to arrive were rather scanty, and shipping demand here was fair. Latest estimates of the probable export surplus of the 1929 Argentine corn crop ran from 138,000,000 bushels to 196,000,000 bushels against 255,000,000 bushels the past year. Oats were responsive to firmness of wheat and corn.

Provisions were influenced by correct general belief that a big decrease of Chicago warehouse stocks during January would be announced this afternoon.

TECH FIVE WINS SCHOOL TITLE IN EXTRA PERIOD; SCHMELING BEATS RISKO BY KNOCKOUT IN NINTH

Referee Halts Fight After Slaughter

Dempsey-like Rushes Floor Foe 4 Times for 9-Count.

By EDWARD J. NEIL
(Associated Press Sports Writer).

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, New York, Feb. 1 (A.P.).—The ghost of the Jack Dempsey, of Toledo days, bobbing and weaving, pouring deadly leather from both fists as of old, stalked through the ring of a crowded garden tonight in the person of Max Schmeling, black-visaged German youth.

It was the same old panther crouch, the mad, fighting fury of the old champion, the whistle of flying gloves, smash of leather on flesh—and the thud of a falling body. In the end, Johnny Risko, the rubber man of Cleveland, suffered the first real knockout of a career that has taken in battles with the best men of his time.

Risko passed out of the heavyweight picture for the time being, at least, in the ninth round of one of the best battles the garden ever witnessed at any weight. Four times before Referee Arthur Donovan, half carried the Cleveland baker boy to his corner, after one minute and five seconds of the ninth, Risko was on the floor for counts of nine.

Schmeling Rips Right to Risko's Jaw in First.

In the very first round, Schmeling ripped a right to Johnny's head and for the first time in all of the Garden bouts Risko hit the floor. He bounced to his feet without a count, a half smile on his face, and whaled back at the head and body of the scowling invader. Johnny whaled with success until the seventh session, when Max floored him again with a sizzling right.

By this time Johnny had forgotten how to smile. His face was smeared with blood, his eyes were glassy, legs wobbly. He barely lasted the round and was down again in the ninth under the fury of Schmeling's attack before Donovan called a halt.

Risko Unconscious on Feet As Bout Is Stopped.

While the defeat will go down in Risko's record as a technical knockout, Johnny was unconscious on his feet at the end. He reeled and wavered under the storm of short smashes Schmeling poured into his head and body. His legs folded, then pulled straight again. His weak attempts to punch waved at no one in particular and he hadn't the faintest idea where to find Schmeling in that ring. Johnny's eyes were half open but he could see nothing but great lights, dazzling the brain.

Only once before in a career that has brought battles with Jack Sharkey, Tom Heeney, Paulino Uzcudun, and all of the other contemporary greats was Risko ever defeated by a technical knockout. Chuck Wiggins cut Johnny's eye so badly once that the fight had to be stopped. He has never had the ten count sounded above him.

But tonight the rubber man met the image of Dempsey at his best, fighting in a cruel, ruthless style that awed the crowd of close to 20,000 jammed in the big arena. From the time of the first knockdown, Risko's stay was measured only by his ability to take punishment, his cagey fighting brain and the weight of experience he held constantly over the youngster.

The scowling German rocked Risko to his heels in every round, but not until the eighth did Johnny collapse entirely from the punishment. The German battered Risko in the first two rounds, but Johnny came in the third to solve Schmeling's style by holding

COURT GIVES GALLAGHER VERDICT

Blick Restrained From Enforcing Contract With Fighter.

MARTY GALLAGHER, Washington heavyweight boxer, won yesterday's round of his battle with John S. Blick, his manager, in the District Supreme Court, but he has failed to wipe out entirely the advantage that Blick compiled early in the contest to break his contract.

Gallagher obtained a permanent restraining order preventing Blick from enforcing the terms of his managerial contract when Justice Jennings Bailey ruled that the boxer had repudiated his agreement with Blick when he became of legal age. Attorney E. Gwynn Gardiner, acting for Gallagher, was ordered to post a $3,000 bond before the decree becomes final.

It was Gallagher's round decisively yesterday, with Blick on the receiving end of the judiciary punch, but it was by no means conclusive. Blick has not yet brought into play his reserve strength, which consists of a powerful ally in the Maryland State Boxing Commission, which has recognized his claim. It is with this method of attack that ultimate victory for Blick is foreseen.

Maryland State Boxing Body Is Blick's Ace-in-Hole.

The Maryland State Boxing Commission is bound by no court decision affecting relations between fighter and manager, but is absolute in authority as to the licensing of fighters. It has gone on record in favor of Blick in the controversy which was aired in Baltimore a month ago. As a member of the National Boxing Association, with working agreements with commissions in 27 other States, the Maryland ruling will bar Gallagher from fighting in any of these States except under the management of Blick.

The Gallagher-Blick battle gained its inception three years ago, when the Washington coal and ice magnate assumed the managership of the former plumbers' helper after the latter had made a local reputation as a boxer and won the South Atlantic light heavyweight amateur title. Gallagher fought with varying success under Blick's management and then bolted to Chicago, where he campaigned for a year. Returning to this city last year, Gallagher announced that he had repudiated his agreement with his manager upon becoming of legal age. He charged that Blick had not complied with the terms of the contract.

Foes at Miami In Pleasant Meeting

Dempsey Is at Ease With Both Principals Now on Scene.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 1 (A.P.).—Jack Sharkey arrived here tonight to pitch his camp around the corner from that of W. L. Stribling in preparation for their heavyweight elimination bout here the night of February 27. Sharkey was accorded an enthusiastic welcome when he and Johnny Buckley, his manager, and their respective wives stepped from the train in Miami at 6:50 o'clock, and the ovation was repeated at the Miami Beach Kennel Club and later at the Miami fight between Rush Heise and Texas Ranger, which the Boston sailor refereed.

The first meeting of the pair of heavies who will enter the Flamingo Park ring occurred tonight at the Heise-Ranger fight, where Sharkey, Stribling and Jack Dempsey were guests.

They exchanged pleasantries but their meeting was brief. Sharkey thanked Stribling for the wire of welcome which the latter's family had sent his party today.

Sharkey Inspects His Training Quarters With Trainer.

Sharkey does not plan to get down to intensive training for about ten days, he said tonight. He will inspect the training quarters selected for him by his trainer, Tony Polozzolo, tomorrow morning, but will not take them seriously at once.

Around the corner from Sharkey's working quarters, Stribling has already established himself in the seaside Hardie's Casino, where he went through his paces yesterday and where his light training for the bout will be undertaken.

Jack Dempsey, promoter of the show for Madison Square Garden, breathed more easily tonight with the knowledge that both of his attractions were on the ground.

"The boys both tell me that they're glad to be here in the neighborhood of the arena," he said. "I am just as glad as they are that they are here."

The presence of the two contenders will do more than anything else to quiet rumors that the fight will not be held in Miami Beach, Dempsey said.

Stribling walked 2½ miles with "Pa" today as a part of his light training for the match.

Ray Miller Again Wins From Tommy Grogan

Detroit, Feb. 1 (United Press).—Ray Miller, Detroit lightweight, tonight won a ten-round decision over Tommy Grogan, of Omaha, who essayed the role of the man who attempts to "come back." Miller only three weeks ago had knocked out the Omahan and tonight proved he was the master of Grogan.

House Action Urged On Amateur Boxing Bill

H. J. Odenthal, executive secretary of the City Club, yesterday wrote Hon. Frederick Zihlman, chairman of the District of Columbia committee of the House, urging favorable and immediate action on the Watson-Updike bill, which would permit the charging of admission fees to amateur boxing bouts and the offering of prizes valued at not more than $35.

This bill unanimously passed the Senate last year and is now before the House District of Columbia committee. If no action is taken prior to March 3, when the present session of Congress ends, the bill will automatically die.

Wilmot, Star of 90s, Dies at 66; Played Here

Stevens Point, Wis., Feb. 1 (A.P.).—Walter R. Wilmot, of Minneapolis, former major league baseball star and promoter of various amusement enterprises, died here today after a lingering illness. He was 66 years old.

As a baseball player Wilmot performed at various times with the New York Giants, Chicago White Stockings and Washington, the latter two clubs at that time being members of the National League, and with Minneapolis, St. Paul and Louisville in the old Western League. He always played the outfield.

He was paid the highest salary of any player in the National League from 1890 until 1895, drawing down $4,250 a season while with the Chicago White Stockings. The late Adrian C. (Pop) Anson was manager and first baseman of the White Stockings in those years and $3,000 was all he received.

Keep Coach Off Sideline, Lafayette Head Urges

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, Feb. 1. — "Football should be played by teams, and not coaches," President William Mather Lewis of Lafayette College told members of the New York Alumni Association last night at their fifty-fifth annual dinner at the Hotel Commodore.

President Lewis made a plea for greater student initiative in football by having the football captain chosen by his teammates and not the coach, and letting the captain run the team, keeping the coach off the sidelines, if necessary. He said: "When college teams are played by robots whose every mchanical move is dictated from the bench the zest of the sport will disappear."

Canada's Olympic Heroes Race Best in U. S. Tonight

BOSTON, Feb. 1 (A.P.).—A field, international in character, with such stars as Paavo Nurmi, Percy Williams, Jimmy Ball and Vick Pickard competing against the cream of America's track athletes, makes notable the Boston Athletic Association's fortieth annual meet tomorrow. Nurmi, the "Phantom Finn," will attempt to better his world's record of 8 minutes 58 1-5 seconds in a special 2-mile race. Williams, the Canadian who won both of the Olympic sprints at Amsterdam last summer, has entered the Briggs 40-yard dash, a distance he has never attempted in competition. It will be his American debut. His 27 opponents include Jimmy Daley, of Holy Cross; Karl Wildermuth, Georgetown; Ernest Morrill, of the Boston A. A., and Chester Bowman, of the Newark A. C.

Nurmi's opponents will be Ove Anderson, his countryman, Julius Gilbert, of the Boston A. A.; Leslie Flaksman, of Harvard, and Irving Totten, Millrose A. C., among others.

Nurmi to Be Making Third Start in a 2-Mile Race.

The Finn will be making his third 2-mile start of his present American invasion. He ran that distance in 9 minutes 12 seconds here last week in the Prout Memorial meet and 9 minutes 19 3-5 seconds last night in Newark.

Jimmy Ball the other Canadian Olympic hero, who finished second to Ray Barbuti in the 400 meters, has entered the B. A. A.'s special 600-yard race. Ball has never done more than a quarter-mile in competition. He will have stiff competition from such American stars as Pincus Sober, New York A. C.; Oliver Proudlock, Newark A. C.; Bernie McCafferty, Holy Cross; Frankie Burns, of the B. A. A., and Gerald Swope, of Dartmouth.

Ray Conger, of the Illinois A. C., appeared to be the best bet in the famous Hunter mile event, competing against Leo Lermond, Boston A. A.; Willie Goodwin, New York A. C.; Jimmy Reid, Harvard; R. F. Brown, Brooklyn; Ralph Luttman, New York A. C., and Charley Sansone, the former Colby star.

KARL WILDERMUTH, the Georgetown University wizard of sprinting, is regarded as at least an even choice to win the 40 yard dash in which Percy Williams, Canadian Olympic sprint champion also is entered tonight in the Boston Athletic Association games at Boston.

Victory for the Hilltop flash is seen in the fact that he gets away from the starting mark remarkably fast, possibly as fast as any sprinter in history. It is believed that Williams can not match this early burst of speed, it being known that his main strength is in a powerful finish.

Wildermuth has specialized in shorter distances than has Williams. The Georgetown ace is best at from 50 to 70 yards, while Williams' supremacy usually has exerted itself in distances of from 100 yards to 200 meters. The Canadian won Olympic championships in the 100 and 200 meters events last summer.

Race to Mark First Test Of Williams in America.

Tonight's race will mark the first United States appearance of Williams. He has been training for two months in his home country and is reported to be in as good shape as he was at the last Olympiad.

The Wildermuth-Williams race will be one of two feature events in which Georgetown colors will be borne, the Hilltop mile relay team also being scheduled to race the New York U quartet in a dual affair.

Coach John D. O'Reilly, who headed the Georgetow party for Boston last night, frankly admitted that his relay team will have a mighty tough job on its hands. The Violet four, with Phil Edwards, negro Canadian luminary, is one of the best mile teams in the country, O'Reilly declared, adding, and if Georgetown does not have a lead of 25 or 30 yards at the beginning of the fourth lap, which Edwards will run, the local team likely will be defeated.

Hoctor Not in Best Condition To Oppose N. Y. U. Ace.

Eddie Hoctor, Georgetown's anchor man, who will face Edwards in the fourth lap, is not in the best physical condition, according to O'Reilly. Were Hoctor in "the pink," he pointed out, the dusky N. Y. U. star would be given an even race.

Capt. Eddie O'Shea will start the relay for Georgetown, with Ray Whelan and Jerry Gorman running the second and third laps.

Jimmy Maloney Gains Decision Over O'Kelly

Maloney clearly outpointed his Irish heavyweight opponent. It was a hard, bruising battle from the start. Maloney was the aggressor. He forced O'Kelly around the ring. O'Kelly's left hooks—his best blows—only temporarily stopped the constant boring in of the Boston boy, who was the harder puncher.

Billy Barton Rounding To Form in England

London, Feb. 1 (A.P.).—No horse could look better than Billy Barton, American jumper, which will compete for the second time in the famous Grand National, was the word which came today from the Wiltshire training establishment.

Billy was said to have become thoroughly acclimatized and is expected to show improvement this year over his last year's performance. In the last Grand National Billy finished second to Tipperary Tim after leading to the last fence, where he stumbled.

Like most of the horses trained in the Wiltshire district, Billy Barton has not been able to get much more than good road exercise on rough grass, but with a break in the severe weather this week he has had several fine workouts.

The slender youngster, winner of the Catalina Island and Oklahoma City tournaments of the winter stretch, was but a stroke ahead of Wild Bill Mehlhorn, whose sensational pace has featured late meets; Al Espinosa, Chicago veteran; Al Watrous, of Detroit, and Johnny Golden, the consistent Paterson (N. J.) player, each bringing home a 72.

He had birdies at 11, 17 and 18 and played around par all the way in, after being out in 2 over.

Nor were the 72s of Mehlhorn, Espinosa, Watrous and Golden safe with Billy Burke, North and South champion; Ed Dudley, of California; Joe Kirkwood, of trick-shot fame, and Dick Grout, of Oklahoma, posting a 73 each. Tommy Armour had 39-37—76.

SPORTS GOVERNING BODIES' "Imperial Majesty" Is CALLED A STATE OF MIND

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Special to The Washington Post.

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—There is an amusing parallel between the birthday celebration of Kaiser Wilhelm and the deliberations of some of the great American athletic governing bodies, such as the A. A. U. and the boxing commissions. On the occasion of his seventieth birthday Wilhelm held a mock court, attended by many of his old nobles, who would be called yes-men in the American language and amused himself by going through imperial motions and uttering imperial decrees which, with certain alteration of text might be the official pronouncements of an athletic court in the U. S. A.

Nobody pays any attention to the Kaiser's edicts but that does not deter him from issuing more of them. The Illinois Boxing commission commands all champion prize fighters to defend their championships within a certain time and the prize fighters make haste to do precisely as they please about it.

Commission's "Imperial Majesty" Purely a State of Mind.

All this would be very distressing to Wilhelm the A. A. U. and the Illinois Boxing commission but for the fact that they still think they are imperial and get just as pleasant a kick out of their mock-sovereignty as they would if they were able to command absolute obedience. It all suggests the happy state of the patient in the upside-down

Virginia Rally At End Beats Maryland

Evans Only Terrapin Not Guilty of Many Errors.

UNLOOSENING a flurry of baskets in the last six minutes, the Virginia Cavaliers overhauled Maryland in a thrilling finish at College Park last night and scored a 25 to 22 triumph in the first of their two-game Washington invasion.

While the last few minutes were highly exciting the previous minutes were not dull by any means, for from the very start the lead was stubbornly contested and neither team was ahead by more than 4 points at any stage.

Virginia presented a trio of veritable ball hawks in Jack Vogel, Bob Millen and Harty Harrison who between them collected all but two of the Cavaliers' tallies. Vogel kept Virginia always in the running during the first 20 minutes and Millen and Harrison rose to great heights in the visitors' driving finish.

Vogel's Basket Puts Virginia On Even Terms With Foes.

Vogel's only score of the second half brought Virginia on even terms with Maryland at 20-20 Millen then inserted a foul toss to gain the lead which Virginia never relinquished. Harrison followed him closely with a goal from a difficult side-court position, while Millen made a Virginia victory certain with a two-pointer from under in the last 30 seconds.

Poor aim cost Maryland many points when likely scoring chances were at hand. This fault was exhibited by every one of the Terrapins except "Country" Evans, who registered 10 points and won high scoring honors for the game. Evans made his points in clusters, twice sinking floor goals as he was fouled and dropping in the resulting free toss.

Evans Dominates Maryland's Scoring in Both Halves.

Evans dominated the scoring for Maryland in both halves, getting half of his team's 12 points in the first session. Radice, Gaylor and Madigan, usually dependables on attack for the Terrapins, had off nights. Hetzel, new center, displayed a nice eye, bagging a trio of goals from scrimmage.

Virginia got away in the van on a goal from under by Vogel on the first play of the game. It was the play Virginia tried mostly—Millen tapping the ball to one of the guards, who passed to Vogel who sneaked down to the basket—but after the early minutes Maryland solved this scoring medium and the Cavaliers had to rely on long shots or follows.

A foul by Radice, the only point the former Eastern High star scored, and a scrimmage goal by Hetzel gave Maryland the lead at 3 to 2, but Virginia regained it on a long heave by Vogel and stayed ahead until ten minutes had passed.

Evans Makes Shot Over His Head to Regain the Lead.

Evans then flipped in a beauty backward over his head and added two foul points to bring the lead back to Maryland. The Terrapins held it only momentarily, as soon after Harrison sank the sphere from beneath the rim, while Millen twice made good from the white stripe.

Madigan tossed in a foul to knot the count and from there until the close of the half Maryland kept in front, the score at intermission being 12 to 11.

The lead seesawed for most of the second half until Madigan broke loose to score a close shot and Evans repeated his four-point splurge of the first half, this attack putting Maryland on top by 20 to 16.

The Cavaliers awoke to the seriousness of the situation with six minutes to go and battled their way to victory, as told above. Maryland made one bid to snatch the game out of the fire in the final minute, when Hetzel whipped the ball through from midcourt.

Roberto Roberti Set For Delfino Tonight

Buenos Aires, Feb. 1 (United Press).—Roberto Roberti, Italian heavyweight, completed training today for his Argentine ring debut Saturday night, when he meets the Argentine, Roberto Delfino, in a twelve-round bout.

It has been reported that Luis Firpo will meet Roberti here in April if the latter wins from Delfino.

Croson, D. C. Boy, Stars In Debut on Duke Five

Durham, Feb. 1 (A.P.).—The Blue Devils, aided and abetted by their new sophomore star, Joe Croson, of Washington, D. C., who plays center, walked away with Virginia Tech here tonight, 44 to 27. The winners jumped into an early lead and had 8 points before Poly scored.

The new basket sensation Duke offered seemed to weld Cameron's Team into an offensive unit. He also played fine ball defensively, and time and again reached out and broke up Tech's passing attack. Croson got the tip-off nine-tenths of the time and gave Duke that much start. He scored 14 points.

Two other Washington boys—Werber and Councilor—figured in the victory.

Almost the Naked Truth

—By JAMES S. COLLINS

NEW YORK, Feb. 1 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The A. A. U. is pretty certain to have the support of lovers of amateur boxing in its opposition to the plan to vest complete control of the sport in the New York State Athletic Commission. It remains to be seen, however, if that support is effectively articulate when a bill embodying the plan comes up before the legislature at Albany. The plan to take jurisdiction from the A. A. U. and affiliated organizations and hand it over to a commission handpicked by politicians has two features to commend it, if not very far. It would appropriate 5 per cent of the receipts from amateur contests to help defray the considerable operating expenses of the commission, and it would give employment to a host of politically deserving referees, judges, deputy boxing commissioners and the like who could use the money.

Among its disadvantages is the fact that it would deprive every boxer in this State of his amateur status in every other State and country, since the regulations the bill provides run counter to the regulations in force everywhere else. Politicians new feeding fat at the trough of professional boxing should let the amateur sport alone. The present boxing commission has its hands more than full trying to keep them from miring pro boxing.

If the commission feels that it wants to do something in a big way to nurture amateur sport, why does the bill omit all mention of amateur wrestling? The commission now controls professional wrestling, but the amateur game, a financial dud, it leaves to the A. A. U. or any one else not primarily in sport for pelf. That's the tip-off on this measure, and you can tell your assemblyman so when you send him that valentine.

Both Upright at End of Bout Enough Cause for Fans to Shout.

Upsets in the ring are becoming so frequent of late that the fans will soon be expecting the unexpected as a matter of course. The farthest North, ne plus ultra, ultimate upset of the current cauliflower season occurred Thursday night in Yonkers, N. Y. When Italian Jack Herman and Pietro Corri went the limit of a six-round bout the spectators were so astonished that not one even had the presence of mind to mutter, "I told you so." Herman and Corri fighting each other were generally known to present the converse of the proposition involved in bringing together the irresistible force and the immovable object.

Each has done enough sleeping in boxing rings to make Rip Van Winkle seem like a hopeless insomnia sufferer. So the fans were fully prepared to see the somewhat novel sight of a double knockout. That one of the heavy-

Jackie Fields to Fight Baby Joe Gans Feb. 15

New York, Feb. 1 (United Press).—Jackie Fields, Pacific Coast welterweight contender, and Baby Joe Gans, California negro, were matched today for a ten-round bout in Madison Square Garden February 15. The winner may be matched with Joe Dundee, 147-pound title holder, in a welterweight title match in March.

Miss Killilea to Control Milwaukee Ball Club

Milwaukee, Wis., Feb. 1 (A.P.).—For the third time since its inception, the Milwaukee Baseball Club will be under the direction of a woman. Under the terms of a will left by Henry J. Killilea, the club is bequeathed to his daughter, Florence.

The will, filed in probate today, provides that all property, real, personal and mixed, with the exception of a farm, be left to Miss Killilea. Her brother, Harold F. Killilea, was cut off without a penny. Difficulties growing out of his son's marriage are believed to have caused the baseball magnate to cut his son from any portion of the estate.

Leaders' Game Rally Beats Business, 34-29, in Overtime.

MacCartee Ties Score; Western Also Bows in Extra Period.

By WALTER HAIGHT.

TECH'S Basket Ball Team won the interhigh school championship yesterday. That was the net result of two of the most gripping games ever played in local high school circles, extra periods being necessary to decide both contests. Tech assured itself of at least a tie for the title in the opening game by defeating Business, 34-29, and clinched the championship when Western "had its chance for a tie by bowing to Eastern, 29-17. The games were played before some 5,000 series followers whipped into a frenzy by the excitement of the contests.

That Tech is a worthy champion can not be denied. Yesterday's game proved the mettle of the Manual Trainers. Trailing by 11 points just after the last period started, the Tech players went about their work with a coolness and sureness which, coupled with accurate shooting, put them within 4 points of Business. Tech called time out at this point and Farhood, a player who has figured little in the series before, was substituted. Forty seconds remained to play.

Tech Overcomes 4-Point Lead to Knot Count in Last 40 Seconds.

Tech got the tap-off and the ball was fired to Farhood, who twisted it through the rim. Business still had a 2-point margin, and when the Stenographers gained possession of the ball they tried to "freeze" something they had failed to do successfully earlier in the period. An outside ball resulted, and MacCartee, throwing the ball into play for Tech, seemed to throw time to the winds in looking over the floor before he tossed a pass to Brown, who returned to MacCartee under the basket, and the latter pushed the ball up in the air and it dropped squarely through the rim to tie the score. The gun ended regulation time before the players could line up.

Tech had discarded its zone defense before the extra period had begun. Talburtt was first to score in the overtime, putting Tech ahead with an easy shot after he had worked himself loose under the basket, but Lucas, Business' star guard, matched it with a spectacular one-hand shot from the extreme side of the court. Brown again put Tech ahead with a field goal and MacCartee followed with another to clinch the game. Brown was fouled just as the gun ended action, and amidst the Tech fans' celebration, made good one of his two tries.

Hunt Ties Score for Western, Prolonging Game in Vain.

The closing minutes of the Western-Eastern game were equally exciting. Eastern was a point ahead with four seconds to play when Capt. Hunt, of Western, tied the score, 16 to 16, with a foul shot. Eastern, however, dominated the play in the extra period, Phillips and Wood making field goals and Cappelli and Zahn making foul shots. Western was held to 1 point, a foul shot by Herbie Thompson, in the extra five minutes.

As an exhibition of good basket ball the Western-Eastern game outclassed the first contest. The teams were evenly matched and the passing and guarding was the best seen in the series. It took a sensational shot or clever passing to produce every basket.

Western was without an important member of its regular team, Bob Freeman, the outstanding center of the series, was suffering from a heavy cold. Western missed him and his work

VERMAJO WINS $25,000 NEW ORLEANS HANDICAP

Solace Beaten In Rousing Finish

10,000 Crowd Braves Cold Weather to Witness Race.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 1 (A.P.).—Vermajo, a 3-year-old son of Peter Pan, from the Three D.s Stock Farm, won the $25,000 added New Orleans Handicap here today over a field of fifteen.

Racing down the mile and sixteenth in 1:46 2-5, he won $35,000 for his owner. He finished a half length in front of Solace, from the Seagram stable, while W. L. Brodie's Wellet was third. Marshal Ney finished fourth.

The winning horse was ridden by Jockey Tony Pascuma, who rode to victory in the handicap last year on Justice P.

Getting away well, Pascuma took Vermajo to the front right after the start and was never headed. He was followed closely by Edisto, Pigeon Hole and Helen's Babe in the first half mile, and it was not until the turn into the stretch that Jockey McGinnis brought Solace among the leaders.

Vermajo paid $15.38 to $2 to win, $7.76 to place and $5.17 to show. Solace paid $5.78 to place and $5.72 to show while Wellet paid $5.96 to show.

The Headley entry of Pigeon Hole and Helen's Babe went to the post favorite and both raced well in the early stages of the mile and sixteenth contest, but dropped out of the picture in the stretch.

Flowers presented Jockey Pascuma were placed on the grave of Black Gold, Kentucky Derby winner one year, who was put to death here last winter when he broke a leg.

The day was anything but ideal for a big race. The weather was cold and raw, but a crowd estimated at 10,000 turned out to witness the sixteen thoroughbreds contest for the rich prize. There were 23 named overnight, but seven of them were withdrawn by their owners.

Race Is Delayed By Horses Refusing to Enter Gates.

There was a nine-minute delay caused by several of the horses refusing to go into the box. Finally they were all straight and the words, "Come on!" were shouted and they were on their way. Vermajo was the quickest to get into his stride and Pascuma hustled him right along to get his position in front where he would be clear of interference. Edisto was next to him around the turn, with Pigeon Hole right after them and Helen's Babe next. Wellet was away back and being bumped like a football.

Vermajo held his advantage under pressure while Solace moved into second place as they came to the half-mile pole. Vermajo, however, was in great form and was not to be denied. In the final furlong the race resolved itself into a two-horse race. The crowd was shouting and both boys were riding hard with hands and heels. Solace slowly reduced the distance on Vermajo, but at the sixteenth pole in the stretch Pascuma used the whip on Vermajo. The colt responded gamely to punishment and flashed home a winner by half a length. Solace took the place by three lengths from Wellet, who came from a long way back to take third money.

REGULAR BROOM, away fast, opened up a winning lead entering stretch under a hustling ride, but finished with something in reserve. DUNLINETTA, a forward contender throughout, closed gamely through stretch and outlasted RAINCROW. The latter, nearest in pursuit of the leader the first quarter mile, weakened in the closing strides. FLORENCE MAY and FLOR DEL MAL raced evenly.

PRIG, in close quarters when the start came, was rated behind the leaders the first half mile. He moved forwardly with a rush on the outside thereafter and disposed of TROJIS the final sixteenth to win going away. TROJIS, under steadying restraint the early running, slipped through on the inside the final quarter mile and made a game effort, but could not keep pace with the winner. JUNIOR'S NURSE, outrun for five furlongs, responded stoutly when called on, but was carried wide on the stretch turn.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily. Went to post at 3:36. Off at 3:36. Winner, Kenton Farm Stable's ch. c. FULL CARD TODAY FOR CAPITAL COLLEGE ATHLETES

ColonialsPlay Gallaudet; 5 Games

Maryland Courtmen in Contest With Washington-Lee.

DISTRICT college athletes today offer fans one of the largest cards of the winter season. Five basket ball games, one swimming meet and one boxing match are listed.

All but two of the events will be held in local gymnasiums. The American University Quintet will travel to Annapolis to engage Navy. Georgetown's boxers will encounter the Army mittmen at West Point; Gallaudet will meet George Washington in the latter's gymnasium; Maryland will be host to Washington and Lee at College Park, and the Catholic U. Varsity and Freshmen Fives will entertain Virginia and Maryland Freshmen, respectively, at Brookland.

The swimming meet between Catholic and Virginia will open the day's program at 3 o'clock in the former's pool. It will be the first meet of the year for the Cardinal natators and their first under the regime of Coach Paul Peter. Recent improvement under Peter indicates that the Brookland "fish" should perform creditably.

Probably the closest contest of the basket ball games will be the Gallaudet-George Washington struggle, which will start at 8 o'clock on the Colonials' floor 2010 H street northwest. The Silents have had more experience in 1929 competition than have the hosts, but dopesters look for an evenly fought match. George Washington has improved rapidly since starting its season three weeks ago.

Frosh teams will start the preliminary game at 6:30 with the Colonial cubs, who have won four of their five previous starts, lining up as follows: Forwards, Leverton and Jeweller; guards, Lessler and Perry, and center, Hoover or Ginberg.

Maryland Host to Unbeaten Team in Generals.

Two teams employing the same style of play will be seen at College Park. Maryland and Washington and Lee both use the five-man zone defense. Past performances form the basis for the prediction that the visiting club will carry off the decision. The Generals have not yet met defeat and have won all their games by convincing scores. Maryland has split even in six contests thus far. This clash also will commence at 8 o'clock.

The fare at Brookland is appetizing. In the preliminary game, starting at 7:45, between the yearling quintets of Catholic and Maryland, the fans will likely see a furious battle. The Maryland Cubs are unbeaten while the Cardinal youngsters have lost but one game in ten starts, that lone defeat having been by only one point. Four former Washington High School players will be in the Maryland line-up.

Little Chance for American At Annapolis Is Seen

Coach Fred Rice's varsity five will be out to score its second triumph of the campaign in the engagement with Virginia. Rice will name the same starting army which ended Catholic's long losing streak last Monday night at the expense of American U.

This line up includes Bill Reilly and Jim Manley, forwards; Capt. Tut Amann, center, and Joe Walsh and Jerry Mullaney, guards. McCabe, Fitzgerald, Martin, Papalis, Champs and Ogden will be available for emergency duty.

American U. is conceded only the slimmest kind of chance for victory at Annapolis. Two of the Eagles' best players, Burgess and Lichliter, will not be able to play. The Navy rule barring freshmen on Annapolis or visiting teams keeps this pair idle.

The Eagles will use Elliott in place of Burgess and Field for Lichliter, with the other positions being filled by the regulars, Capt. LaFavre, Kessler and Schloss. The game will start at 3 o'clock.

In addtion to its boxers, Georgetown will send five runners into action in the Boston A. A. games.

PRESS CARDS SCORE.

National Press Building Cardinals scored their fourth consecutive victory last night, 30 to 16, over the Monroe Five in the Wilson Normal Gymnasium. The Cards play the Sandy Spring High Five tonight at Sandy Spring.

NAVAL ACADEMY BOXERS IN ACTION TODAY HOPE TO MAINTAIN RECORD

Outfielder Tom Clark Signs With Providence

The Providence club of the Eastern League will have on its roster this season another member of the Clark family of Washington. Earl Clark, who is at present a member of the Boston Braves, was farmed to Providence by Boston for seasoning, and now Earl's brother, Tom, has signed a contract with the Rhode Island team.

Tom played with Richmond in the Virginia League last year until that circuit gave up the ghost in midseason. He batted well over .300 and fielded with the best in the league. Tom is 19 years of age, and, like Earl, is an outfielder.

Emerson Five Defeats Alexandria High, 24-15

Special to The Washington Post.

Alexandria, Va., Feb. 1.—The Emerson Institute Five defeated the Alexandria High School Basketers in the Alexandria Armory here tonight by a 24 to 15 score.

The game was very hard and evenly fought, with the teams deadlocked, 11-11, at the half. Emerson drew away in the final quarter, led by Buscher and Gordon, who totaled 12 and 8 points respectively.

West was the Alexandria tossers' best player. West sank five baskets and one foul toss for 11 points.

ANACOSTIA EAGLES TRIUMPH.

Displaying the same vicious attack and whirlwind passing that has characterized their recent games, Bus Scanlon's Original Anacostia Eagles ran their winning streak up to five last night when they overwhelmed the highly touted Kanawha Scholastics in the Congress Heights Gymnasium, 41 to 24.

The Kanawhas, who boasted many stars from Business High School and other institutions, took a short-lived lead at the outset, but were soon left in the running in the face of the Eagle passwork.

Seven Courses "Light Repast" To Babe Ruth

By AL DEMAREE
(Former Pitcher New York Giants).

Although the rat boys may keep warmer than the skinny ones do, the winter is really tougher on the corpulent ball players because they have to fight so hard to keep down their weight.

Ball players like Hack Wilson, Gob Buckeye, Dazzy Vance, Babe Ruth and many others have to put on a regular diet campaign all winter to keep from getting too far out of condition. Most ball players, even those of a mediumly plump torso, are extremely sensitive about being rated as fat when they report for spring training.

Ruth has a trainer to keep him in shape, but it's a full-time job, as you may judge from this little anecdote.

A friend of Ruth's, Eugene Conley, a newspaper syndicate owner, invited him out to dinner at a big hotel one evening. The menu card showed about seven courses, "enough to feed an army," as Conley said afterward.

Ruth took the whole seven courses in stride, and then remarked, "It's a good thing it's only a light repast. You see, I got to keep my weight down. I shouldn't eat heavily!"

NAVY BOXERS MEET M. I. T. TODAY

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 1.—Boxers of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, who will oppose the Midshipmen in the inaugural meet of the intercollegiate season at Annapolis tomorrow night, arrived this afternoon and immediately began final training for the bouts. The squad is accompanied by Coach "Tom" Lawson. They are quartered at the Naval Academy, as guests of the Midshipmen.

The Engineers probably will be compelled to forfeit to the Middies in the middleweight class, as Claude Franks, who fights in that division, missed the boat out of Fall River and has not advised whether he will get here tomorrow.

Coach Lawson states that his team is composed practically of green material with the exception of Capt. Belonos, star lightweight, who was runner-up in last year's intercollegiates. Lawson, nevertheless, expects his pupils to make a good showing against the more experienced Tars.

Entire Navy Array Boasts Season of Experience.

As the result of the final elimination bouts held last night, "Spike" Webb, Navy mentor, announced the following team for the milling with the Engineers: Bantam, Fry; feather, Long or Ballinger; light, Foley; welter, Williams; middle, Capt. Richetts; light-heavy, Moret or Swann, and unlimited, Chapple.

All the above are veterans of one or more seasons. The team is stronger than last year, according to Webb, which augurs well for a ninth season without defeat, under Webb's coaching. Of noteworthy interest is the fact that Williams has moved to the welterweight class, because of greater poundage. The Middies will have a tremendous weight advantage in the unlimited weight, as Chapple carries more than 200 pounds, while his Tech opponent scarcely scales 179. Scheurin, however, is said to be a nifty lad with the mitts.

While the Middies will contest in only three other events Saturday, the program will be highly interesting. The varsity basketers will entertain American University, of Washington, while the Plebes will entertain Georgetown Freshmen. Lehigh wrestlers, who won the intercollegiate championship last year, will invade Annapolis and some fine bouts are anticipated.

S. Atlantic Tourney Blanks Now Available

Blanks for the South Atlantic A. A. U. basket ball tournament, the Washington games of which are being sponsored by The Washington Post, are now available at the sports department of The Post. From the number of teams applying for entrance, those in charge of the tournament expect the number of entries to exceed the 71 teams which set a new record here last year.

The tournament starts on March 11, and competition will be held in the 100, 115, 130, 145 pound and unlimited classes for boys and men, and in the senior and unlimited classes for girls and women. Members of The Post sports staff will answer any questions regarding the tournament.

CENTRAL FIVE WINS THIRD IN ROW

THE Central High School Five won its third straight game yesterday afternoon when it defeated the John Marshall Quintet of Richmond, Va., 32 to 25, in a rough and tumble encounter in the Central gymnasium.

Wilbur Cross and Ken Fisher led the attack for the Mount Pleasanters with 14 and 7 points, respectively. The visitors used the zone defense for three quarters, but resorted to the man-for-man style of play in the final quarter to stage a rally which fell short.

Baker and Taylor were high scorers for the Virginians, Baker with 13 points and Taylor with 8 points.

Central led 15 to 7 at the half and 26 to 14 at the end of the third quarter, being pressed only on the occasion of the visitors' spurt, when the Virginians got as close as 28 to 21.

DIS

Aims and Purposes.

Instruction in manual training aims to give a knowledge of those manipulative processes that every boy and every man should have.

Its purposes are:

First—To have the boy acquire a knowledge of common material, plans and methods that are used in the construction of simple projects.

Second—To teach the boy how to read simple mechanical drawings.

Third—To create in him an appreciation of and admiration for good work.

Fourth—To bring to him the realization of the necessity for a high standard of skill and intelligence required for success in productive industry.

The main purpose, however, is to prepare the pupil for the solution of some of the problems of adult life, irrespective of the specialized calling into which he may go.

Methods of Instruction.

Formal instruction begins in the sixth year, with classes of fifteen to twenty boys. The ground to be covered is organized in sections and a group of projects assigned to each. The first or "key" project of a group embodies the essential principles and processes and the tool technique of its group, and is the minimum requirement. It is presented and demonstrated to the class as a whole. There is a definite unit of related information assigned to each such presentation and an opportunity for a reasonable amount of research by the pupil to supplement and broaden that given by the teacher. There is also a drawing problem developed in each case. Following the completion of the key project by the more rapid workers, they have a choice of which they shall make of other projects meeting the requirements of the same group. This recognizes individual interest and ability and enriches the course. It enables the teacher to care for the maximum number and to devote most of his attention to those most in need of it. It is believed that this plan provides for the maximum of individual choice consistent with formal instruction under class conditions. It recognizes the fact that while manipulative skill is not the sole aim it is a necessary factor

Time.

The time assigned to shop work in the sixth grade is 90 minutes a week in one period. The plan is that the lesson be long enough for the demonstration of a definite unit of instruction, a brief consideration of the drawing involved, attention to an outline of related information, and for the boy to begin the execution of his project. As a whole, there is not time during the semester or the year to develop any great degree of skill on the part of the boys, even of those who have an aptitude for the work, but the effort is made to enable each boy to complete a progressive series of simple projects with reasonable satisfaction to his teacher and to himself.

Results.

First—An intelligent feeling toward industry as a life work.

Second—Realization that definite plans and orderly procedure are necessary to achieve success.

Third—Respect for the truth, self-confidence, initiative and the realization that whatever success is achieved depends on the individual's own efforts.

Fourth—A new understanding of arithmetic, science and geography as applied to materials.

Fifth—Manipulative skill, realization of the need of good care of equipment, economy in use of materials, and appreciation for good design, construction and finish.

A New Market for Soap.

MANY a mother works to pound into the youngster's mind the use of soap over, under and behind the ears. But here, as told at a meeting of a Child Welfare League, is where the 2-year-old does the soap pounding himself. But in more interesting ways.

"My little boy loves to pound, and so I gave him a hammer and big bars of yellow laundry soap in which to pound the nails."

We can picture father skidding over the crumbled bits and mother keeping little Willie away from the pretty, pretty toilet soap toward which his manual activities will eventually lead him.

Anyhow, paps on the slippery floor and baby hammering on the sliding soap will practice motor coordination, and that is what this well-intentioned mother was after, whether she knew it by that name or not.

Baby is getting at his mind through his hands and father is learning how to maintain his balance on an over-polished floor.

We are not a bit unlike babies in the ways that outside ideas get into our minds. We see on the stage a mechanical robot. We hear the demonstrator explain it. After the meeting we rush to the stage and proceed to handle the robot. We feel his aluminum skin. We lift his arm. We ask if we may see his mysterious set of teeth facilitating a speech which can last for four hours.

And we go away knowing more.

Let's not forget that it's the same with a little fellow. We must put his toy robot into his mouth; must break its neck; must try to make it walk; must ask questions and express his pleasure in his da-da-da language.

He's growing through experience, just as his dad who buys a cigar for the first time in an automatic sales robot.

A tremendous amount of our education comes in the first two years. Capacity for mental growth is partly an inherited quality. And partly the chance to acquire when supplied by the proper stimuli.

Two Vienna psychologists, Dr. and Mrs. Karl Buhler, took two groups of very small children, one from orphanages, the other from superior homes with superior parents. The first group tested low. The second high. In six weeks under a system stimulating mental growth the orphans stood as high as the supposedly superior group.

A child's intelligence is as much the product of opportunities for growth in its environment as the product of its heredity.

End of Party.

When the rest of the crowd stays at a party until 2 a. m. don't you think it hurts my standing with the group when mother makes me leave at 12 o'clock sharp? FIFTEEN.

Answer—This is a hard question to answer, because I do not want to oppose you mother unnecessarily. Talk it over with her from this angle. "It is awfully hard to leave a party before it ends. If I can stay until the end I will go to fewer parties."

Another plan would be to have the mothers get together to see that parties started earlier and therefore did not last until 2 in the morning. We have United Parents Associations, why not have United Party Associations?

Give the Child a Chance.

My 12 year-old daughter wants to write a book. Isn't it foolish? MOTHER.

Answer—No, mother, or your child will entertain herself, satisfy an ambition, discover whether or not she has interest in writing, and will be kept busy and out of mischief. Why must we parents sit down upon everything under the heavens that our children propose! Encourage the child.

Coal Hods and Day Dreams.

I have to speak two or three times to my boy before he comes out of his day dreams. Is there anything wrong with him? DAD.

Answer—Day dreams between the ages of 14 and 16 usually concern the future and are directed by wishes and desires. As a boy I wanted to be captain of a sailing vessel, and many a world trip I took—in my day dreams. But the rattling of an empty coal hod by my mother brought me to terra firma. I hope that your boy is achieving success in school, in games and is getting lots of exercise. Otherwise this day dreaming may be harmful.

BOND PRICES REACT WITH PROFIT TAKING

Newly Listed Issues Dominate Day's Trading; Anaconda 7s Again Lead.

U. S. GROUP IMPROVES

New York, Feb. 1. (A.P.).—Newly listed issues dominated the trading in today's bond market, with Alleghany Corporation 5s and American International 5½s accounting for more than a sixth of the day's total dealings. Prices worked irregularly lower in the afternoon under profit-taking influenced by tightening of call money rates. Sales totaled $11,693,000 against $11,213,000 yesterday.

American International Convertible 5½s, traded in for the first time, sold as high as 111 and closed at 110. The offering price was 105. Alleghany Corporation 5s closed at 106 3-8, a point under yesterday's close. They were issued yesterday at 100.

Anaconda Copper 7s again resumed leadership of the irregular industrials, fluctuating between 104½ and 102½ and closing for a net gain of 2 5-8. Victor Fuel 8s were an outstanding strong spot, soaring 4½ points to a new high at 40. Illinois Steel debenture 4½s slumped to 4¾ to a new low. Other issues to decline a point or more were International Agriculture 5s, International Mercantile Marine 6s, and Lorillard 5½s.

Short line railroads were again a feature of the mixed rail group. Ulster & Delaware 4s shooting up 3⅝ and Peoria & Eastern 4s dropping 2¼. Minneapolis & St. Louis 4s advanced 3 points in face of reports of further dissension among bondholders over sale of the company. New Haven Convertible 6s advanced 2 points to a new high. Other high grade rails, however, were generally lower, Katy 4½s slumping to a new low.

Utilities displayed a firmer tone, although International Telephone convertible 4½s closed fractionally lower on profit-taking after touching a new peak. Duquesne Light 4½s were strong on a heavy turnover in anticipation of increased business through a reduction in industrial rates.

Pirelli 7s fluctuated widely in the full foreign list, closing fractionally under Thursday's close at 147¾, after selling down as low as 143½. Japan Government 6½s dropped 2¾ points. U. S. Government obligations improved.

"KIDNAPING" HEARD IN $7,000,000 SUIT

DRINKING IS MENTIONED

Greenwich, Conn., Feb. 1 (A.P.).—The word "kidnaping" was mentioned today at the hearing on the contest of the will of Mrs. James McCarthy, who left $7,000,000 of her large estate to her husband, a physician. The will is being contested on behalf of Mrs. McCarthy's young daughter, Margaret Gowen, and by Western Reserve University.

Miss Elizabeth Conroy, a registered nurse who cared for Mrs. Margaret Smith, of Cleveland, Mrs. McCarthy's wealthy mother, during the elder woman's illness last February, testified that after Mrs. Smith had been brought East Dr. McCarthy had told the witness of plans to put the patient in a sanitarium under circumstances which amounted to kidnaping.

"He told me," said Miss Conroy, "that Mrs. Smith wasn't capable of managing her affairs, 'so we are going to help her.'"

Questioned about the "kidnaping," Miss Conroy said that Dr. McCarthy had explained how he would pretend Mrs. Smith was going to a family hotel in New York.

"He would take her there," the nurse continued, "and after she was in she would have two nurses and she could not get out. The McCarthys would pay the expenses. Of course, it was Mrs. Smith's money."

Mrs. Smith, however, objected to this plan and it was not carried out. Miss Conroy said she had taken care of Mrs. McCarthy when she (Mrs. McCarthy) had become ill.

"Well, I think she had a little too much to drink," the nurse replied.

She said Dr. McCarthy told her to watch Mrs. McCarthy and not let her communicate with any one, for he did not want her to have any liquor. She also asserted that McCarthy had once threatened to send his wife to a sanitarium unless "she straightened herself out."

Miss Conroy asserted that Mrs. McCarthy had expressed, in her hearing, affection for her daughter Peggy, who was bequeathed $200,000 by the will under contest.

Husband, Missing In Slaying, Found

Wife Killed Less Than Week After Wedding; Mate in Florida Hospital.

Weymouth, Mass., Feb. 1 (A.P.).—A telegram from the Miami, Fla., police today said that Christopher E. Cullen, who has been sought for questioning in connection with the killing of his wife, was in a Miami hospital in a critical condition.

The telegram said that Cullen, in the Jackson Memorial Hospital, had "positively been identified by two Weymouth men." They did not say what had caused Cullen to become a patient at the institution. The message said Cullen would be held pending further word from the Weymouth police.

Cullen was sought after the body of his wife, who was Cora Jacques, of Lowell, had been found with three bullet wounds in the head, in a Hingham field last Saturday afternoon. They had been married less than a week before in Lowell.

Poland Accepts Russian Kellogg Pact Protocol

Warsaw Poland, Feb. 1 (A.P.).—Poland has agreed to a proposal by Soviet Russia to sign a protocol for immediate enforcement of the Kellogg renunciation of war pact in eastern Europe in Moscow on February 7.

It is stated here that Roumania, Latvia and Esthonia also will sign but that Finland and Lithuania will not.

Railroad Builder Leaves Only $1,000

Arthur E. Stillwell Constructed Kansas City Belt Line.

New York, Feb. 1. (A.P.).—Arthur E. Stilwell, retired railroad builder, and former president of the Kansas City, Pittsburgh, and Gulf Railroad, left an estate of only $1,000, his will showed today when it was filed for probate. The estate is divided between two sisters and a sister-in-law.

Stillwell, who built the Kansas City Belt Railroad and attempted to build a line from Kansas City to the Gulf of Mexico, said he was always "guided by spirits." This guidance, he said, had prevented him from building his line through Galveston, Tex., before the flood in that city in 1900.

Two sisters, Florence Hobb, 3 Berkeley place, and Annie P. Moore, 242 Knowlton avenue, both of Buffalo, and a sister-in-law, Mary Ferris, 6 North street, Binghamton, will divide the estate.

After-Effects More Dangerous Than Flu Itself

AVOID TOO MUCH DOSING

One of the peculiarities of influenza is that its toxins leave the digestive system upset. Constant "dosing" for the colds which come so frequently after a flu attack still further disturbs the digestion and lessens the appetite, just when the body needs nourishment more than ever.

And yet these colds are so apt to develop into bronchitis or pneumonia that they must be treated at the first sign.

Vicks VapoRub is especially valuable here, because it is applied externally and so can be used freely with no risk of upsetting a delicate digestion. Just rub it on the throat and chest at bedtime.

Vicks acts two ways at once to check the cold and avoid serious complications: (1) through the skin like a poultice, and (2) direct to the air-passages by means of its medicated vapors, released by the body-warmth.

CLARK CONFIRMATION IS UPHELD BY SENATE

Undersecretary of State's Explanation of Acts as Attorney Accepted.

BORAH ACCEPTS DECISION

(Associated Press.)

The nomination of J. Reuben Clark, Undersecretary of State, was reconsidered yesterday by the Senate on motion of Chairman Borah of the foreign relations committee, but the confirmation voted earlier in the week was allowed to stand.

Senator Borah asked reconsideration of the vote by which Clark, a Utah man, was confirmed upon receipt of a protest involving his conduct in an old law case. A letter from Clark explaining his position was read yesterday and accepted by the Senate.

The unusual procedure of reconsidering a nomination was guarded by the customary closed doors behind which the Senate takes up executive appointments, but it was learned the case is now considered closed.

Clark was appointed last fall, but his nomination was held up in the Senate several days pending a consideration of the protest against him. The protest was lodged by a person who had a claim in which Clark was an opposing attorney. The complaint was that Clark had an undue advantage in the case by virtue of his dealing with it when it was before him many years ago when he was solicitor of the State Department.

Senator Moses (Republican), of New Hampshire, chairman of a subcommittee named to inquire into the protest, placed the nomination before the Senate early this week. There were indications that some members of the foreign relations committee felt the nomination should have been returned to the whole committee before final action was taken. However, Senator Borah is understood to be satisfied with disposition of the case.

Ormison Testimony Sought in Inquiry

Aimee McPherson's Radio Operator to Be Called in Hardy Case.

Los Angeles, Feb. 11 (A.P.).—Kenneth G. Ormison, former Angelus Temple radio operator, whose name was linked with that of Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson during an investigation of her story of alleged kidnaping and reappearance in 1926, will be called to testify at the State legislative committee inquiry here.

This announcement was made today by members of the committee which is to determine whether impeachment action shall be taken against Superior Judge Carlos Hardy in connection with the $2,500 "love offering" check given him by Mrs. McPherson.

Leonard Hammer, an attorney representing the evangelist and Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, her mother, in the purported kidnaping investigation, was employed at $50 a day and expenses, upon recommendation of Judge Hardy, Hammer testified.

Hammer said Mrs. Kennedy told him to "respect Judge Hardy's judgment and consult with him on policies, since he was an old friend."

Nine in Family Burned As Flames Sweep Home

Buckhannon, W. Va., Saturday, Feb. 2 (A.P.).—Nine persons were burned to death here this morning when fire razed their dwelling. All were members of one family. They included Pete Fines, 52; his wife, their married daughter, Mrs. Troy Gibson and her three months infant, and five children of the Fines.

Troy Gibson, husband of Mrs. Gibson, escaped, but was badly burned.

U. S. APPROVES SALE OF STEAMSHIP LINES

3-WAY MERGER RUMORED

New York, Feb. 1 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—It was learned tonight that the United States Shipping Board has adopted a favorable attitude on the sale of the United States Lines and the American Merchant Line to the banking firm of P. W. Chapman & Co.

With President Coolidge's statement yesterday indicating his approval of the sale of the Government fleets to private owners, the Shipping Board, it is believed, will accept this declaration as their policy, and will probably announce the acceptance of the Chapman bid of $16,082,000 early next week.

T. V. O'Connor, chairman of the Shipping Board, paid a brief visit to New York City today. He arrived in the morning, attended several conferences, and returned to Washington in the afternoon. His visit was interpreted by shipping men as a final step in completing the arrangements for the sale of the two lines.

The purchase of the ships by the Chapman interests may mean the formation of a large American shipping company that will rival the powerful European lines.

The Chapman House, identified principally with Chicago, has been frequently associated with Harris, Forbes & Co., in floating securities, usually of public utilities. Harris, Forbes & Co., were the underwriters for the Munson Steamship Co., when the strong Munson fleet, running to South America, was purchased from the Shipping Board several years ago.

The connection between the two banking houses, has caused shipping men to regard the merger of the three lines as a strong possibility. It would provide a large fleet, better-balanced for various trades than the fleets of the three lines as they exist today.

The ships for which Chapman is bidding, and which will probably be sold to him, are the United States liners Leviathan, George Washington, America, Republic, President Roosevelt and President Harding, and the American merchant liners American Merchant, American Banker, American Farmer, American Shipper and American Trader.

Illa Jilts Prince For His Brother

Regensburg, Bavaria, Feb. 1 (A.P.).—Princess Illa, of the Bohemian branch of the Thurn und Taxis family, who left Prince Raphael Ranier, of the Bavarian branch of the same family waiting at the altar yesterday, changed her mind about the wedding because she had fallen in love with her fiance's youngest brother, Prince Philippe Ernst.

Princess Illa, who is just past 20, sprang the new surprise today by confessing that her heart belonged to Prince Philippe Ernst, who will be 21 next May. It is now generally expected that the two will be married later. The families of the princess all declare that they credit her with the sincerest motives springing from a deep religious conviction that it would be wrong for her to marry Prince Raphael when she really loved Prince Philippe.

It was learned today that Princess Illa met Philippe about the same time that she met Raphael, who is 23. She was not sure of her feelings, however, until she saw him daily while staying at his paternal home for the week preceding the date set for her marriage to Raphael.

Special Export Rates On Grain Are Demanded

(Associated Press.)

Immediate consideration by the Interstate Commerce Commission of the freight rate structure with a view to declaring special export rates on grain, was demanded before the Senate interstate commerce committee yesterday by Gov. Clyde M. Reed of Kansas and officials of a number of State and national farm organizations.

Contending that Canadian growers enjoy more favorable rates than do the American wheat producers, the Kansas Governor asked for early passage of a special resolution sponsored by Senator Capper (Republican), Kansas directing the commission to undertake the work, although, he said, the Hoke Smith resolution adopted three years ago fully empowered the commission to carry on this task.

Two Legislators Hurt When Auto Overturns

Hagerstown, Md., Feb. 1.—Two members of the Maryland House of Delegates were slightly hurt and two other delegates and the wife of one escaped injury, when the automobile in which they were riding turned over after skidding on the National highway near New Market, Md., late yesterday, while they were returning from Annapolis.

The injured are Martin L. Ingram and Scott Corbett, severely cut by glass. George D. Hicks, driver of the car, John Strite and Mrs. Ingram escaped injury. The four delegates are from Washington County. The Hicks car first hit the rear of another machine while trying to pass it and went into a ditch.

Electric Track Developed To Guide Ships and Planes

Its Use Will Avert All Harbor Collisions and Guard Airmen in Foul Weather, Federal Radio Commission Official Declares.

New York, Feb. 1 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—An electric track has been developed over which steamships, dirigibles and airplanes could "run" and be absolutely indifferent to the dangers of fog, thick weather and perilous harbor channels, Robert H. Marriott, newly appointed consulting engineer to the Federal Radio Commission, today told electrical engineers who have come from all parts of the United States to attend the winter convention of their society at the Engineering Societies Building.

"By the device a blindfolded helmsman could follow the channel," said Mr. Marriott.

The "track," which would keep steamers and aircraft from going astray in thick weather consists of a cable, laid down the middle of a harbor channel, or in the case of aircraft, stretched on poles like a telegraph line from one city to another, under the regular airway.

Through this cable is sent a continuous high frequency current of small value, which induces a similar frequency in a coil carried by steamer or airplane. The helmsman hears a high-pitched buzz, like a wireless signal, which tells him when he is over the cable or "track."

"Although the practicability of the device has been proved," said the engineer, "it is not yet used in such an important channel as that leading to New York.

"Its lack of use seems to stand as a criticism of the traditions and principles of water navigation."

Adoption of such an arrangement for the harbors of the world would probably spell the passing of the pilot system. Every harbor would have two cables, one carrying a signal for the incoming ships, the other a differently pitched signal for outgoing ships. On reaching port the helmsman would simply switch on his coil, put on head phones and steer by the sound. Outgoing ships would do likewise, and fog would not hinder them, for there could be no possible collisions, save dead ahead with vessels bound in the same direction.

Mr. Marriott reported that already in France such a "track" had been installed on a pole line to guide aircraft.

Book Lender Recovers Volumes Through Ads

Kansas City, Feb. 1. (A.P.).—If you want friends to return borrowed books—advertise.

When Lyle A. Stephenson, insurance man, decided it was time borrowers returned his volumes, so he could have his library catalogued, he advertised.

The books actually are coming back and Stephenson for several days has been busy accepting apologies from persons who had been delinquent for as long as four or five years.

A newspaper advertisement today was directed to an unnamed Boy Scout who borrowed an expensive volume on entomology two years ago.

SUZANNE BARS SHIP DOORS TO NEWS MEN

MIXED IN BALDWIN CASE

Havre, France, Feb. 1 (A.P.).—Suzanne Lenglen, international tennis star, locked her cabin door against newspaper reporters and photographers when the steamer Paris docked here today. The vessel brought her from the United States, where she figured in newspapers because of her sudden departure from the home of Mrs. Anita Baldwin in California. The local reporters wished to ask her about this, and also reports that she would marry Baldwin M. Baldwin, son of her former hostess, and who accompanied her back to France, provided he obtained a divorce from his present wife.

Mlle. Lenglen eluded the reporters completely by leaving the Paris over a little gangplank reserved for members of the crew. She leaped into a big automobile and hurried away after yelling acquaintances that she was going to Nice.

Mr. Baldwin was even more elusive, the reporters not even catching a glimpse of him.

Battle Over $35,000,000 McCormick Estate Ends

Chicago, Feb. 1 (A.P.).—The lengthy court fight over control of the $35,000,000 estate of Stanley McCormick ended today when both Harold McCormick, Stanley's brother, and Mrs. Katherine Dexter McCormick, Stanley's wife, were appointed joint conservators of the estate.

The brother and the wife had opposed each other in the litigation to determine a conservator and the action of Judge Henry Horner in naming both as a joint conservator was regarded as a compromise.

Son Has Preacher Held for Mind Test

Oakland, Calif., Feb. 1 (A.P.).—A complaint charging the Rev. Frederick R. (Kid) Wedge, former boxer, with insanity and signed at his own request by his 17-year-old son, Hugh, high school student and amateur boxer, was filed here today. The pastor was removed to the psychopathic ward.

He had been held for observation by alienists following his admission that he had been obsessed by a desire to strangle his bride of a week, or to throw her out a window of the hotel where they have been honeymooning.

Wedge attributed his obsession to a skull fracture suffered years ago in the ring, and said the trouble had been aggravated by publicity which followed his marriage to a woman divorced on grounds not recognized by the Presbyterian Church of which he was a member.

On his wedding day, Wedge declared he had decided to leave the church, and the ceremony was performed by the Rev. C. D. Norris, pastor of the Berkeley Church of the Nazarene.

Threat to Hero's Mother Held Hoax

No One Is Caught in Trap; Letter Received by Kin of America Officer.

New York, Feb. 1. (A.P.).—Convinced that the $7,000 blackmail letter sent to Mrs. Anna Manning, mother of Chief Officer Harry Manning, of the rescue liner America, was a hoax, police today removed the guard which had been placed at her apartment.

Mrs. Manning concurred in the opinion of the police and it was at her suggestion that the two patrolmen were relieved of their vigil at her Riverside drive apartment.

Receipt of the lettr by Mrs. Manning was disclosed last night when detectives reported no one appeared at the Bronx apartment house given as the place where the money was to have been delivered. Police prepared a trap, but none went to seek the money demanded in the note, which threatened death to the hero of the rescue of the freighter Florida if the money was not paid by Friday.

Art Dealer Acquires Antique Wall Paper

Lexington, Ky., Feb. 1 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The French block wall paper which has adorned a room in Woodlawn, the colonial home of the late Col. J. W. Caperton, near here, since 1822, has been sold to a New York art dealer.

The paper was printed in 1810, according to C. T. Wall, decorator for J. B. Wilson, of New York, who has begun the work of removing it. It is very rare, he said, and one of several specimens in the possession of the Metropolitan Museum of Art is an exact duplicate and brought $15,000.

The Caperton specimen contains a panorama of a hunting scene from the beginning of the chase to the kill. No announcement was made of the sale price.

W. R. & E. COMMON SOARS TO NEW HIGH

Gain of 85 Points Sends Stock Up to 610; Lanston Also at New Top Level.

WHOLESALE TRADE EASES

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

Soaring 85 points to 610 a share, the closely held Washington Railway & Electric common stock yesterday established a new high level in trading on the Washington Stock Exchange.

The jump was the second the stock has taken in the last month, the last sale at 525 having represented a gain of 100 points over the former level. The issue opened yesterday at 600, in a 20-share turnover. The 610 level was reached after call, when 10 more shares changed hands.

Lanston Monotype also reached a new mark yesterday, rising another point to a high of 123. Although 124 was afterward bid for the stock, it was held for 125. The issue opened at 122, 10 shares changing hands at that figure.

A gain of 5 points was noted yesterday in American Security & Trust Co., which reached 475 in a single transaction. Potomac Electric 5½ per cent preferred moved up to 109½; Washington Railway & Electric preferred to 99¾; Capital Traction to 106¾; and Mergenthaler Linotype to 104½.

Washington Gas Light again came out at 125, in a turnover of 30 shares. National Mortgage & Investment preferred held at 5⅛. There was a 6 point recession in Peoples Drug Stores preferred, which sold yesterday at 128.

Washington Gas 6s, Series A, led the trading in the bond division, $3,300 trading at 103½ to 105; while $1,000 Chesapeake & Potomac 5s sold at 100; Georgetown Gas 5s, at 101½; $1,000 Washington Railway & Electric general 6s, at 102¼; Washington Gas 6s, Series B, at 104. In the unlisted department, Metropolitan Club 4½s sold at 93.

Wholesale Distribution Drops.

Wholesale distribution decreased in December more than is usual at that season, according to reports received from firms in the nine lines of trade included in the Federal Reserve Board's index. The volume of sales during the month was slightly smaller than during the corresponding month a year ago. Of the individual lines, women's clothing and boots and shoes showed the largest decreases in comparison with December, 1927, while the largest increases were in the sales of drugs and furniture.

Figures for the year as a whole show that sales of wholesalers in 1928 were 6-10 of 1 per cent smaller than in 1927. All lines of trade reported decreases, except groceries, meats and drugs.

Stocks of goods held by reporting wholesale firms were smaller at the end of December than a month earlier in three lines of trade—groceries, dry goods and drugs. Stocks of boots and shoes, hardware and furniture were larger than in the preceding month. As compared with December, 1927, large inventories of merchandise were reported by wholesalers in each of the lines mentioned, except dry goods, which showed a large decrease.

Bank in New Quarters.

Housed in new and spacious quarters in the Brookings Building, 16 Jackson place northwest, which will henceforth be known as the International Bank Building, the official staff of the International Bank, which formerly maintained offices in the Southern Building, yesterday were receiving the congratulations of clients and friends in the new quarters.

The bank occupies the entire street floor and mezzanine of the new structure. The offices were decked with flowers when the doors were thrown open to the public for the first time. One of the features of the new office equipment is a ticker carrying the day's leading financial news in condensed form.

John R. Waller, president of the bank, and his brother, Austin C. Waller, vice president, received their early financial training in Iowa, where they organized the Federal Bank & Trust Co. at Dubuque.

Other officers and directors are William L. Symons, J. A. M. Adair and J. R. Guthrie, vice presidents; Thomas B. Lowler, secretary-treasurer; William T. Brown, Edmund D. Campbell, Charles A. Douglas, George B. Furman, K. J. Farrell, J. R. Guthrie, W. E. Harman, Dr. B. L. Jarman, Frank Kenna, Thomas B. Lawler, W. F. Milligan, S. A. Nelson, Charles M. Pepper, Eugene A. Smith, Benjamin W. Steele, John R. Wallis and George D. Wybrant, directors.

Check Payments Shrink.

Check payments during the week ended January 26 were smaller than in the preceding week, but showed a considerable gain over the same period of 1928, according to the weekly statement of the Department of Commerce, summarizing the business situation.

Steel plants were more active during the week than in either the preceding week or the corresponding period of the year previous. Activity in the automobile industry, as indicated by factory employment in Detroit, showed substantial expansion as compared with the preceding week and the same period of 1928. The output of crude petroleum, lumber and bituminous coal, covering the latest reported week, was greater than during either the previous week or the same period of last year.

The general index of wholesale prices showed a further gain as compared with both the previous week and the same period a year earlier. Prices for copper and iron and steel averaged higher than in either prior period, while prices for cotton, though showing a decline from the preceding week, were higher than a year ago.

Loans and discounts of Federal Reserve member banks showed a further contraction from the preceding week but were larger than a year ago. Interest rates on call loans averaged lower than in the previous week, but were higher than a year ago. Time money rates showed no change from the preceding week, but averaged higher than in the same period of 1928. Bond prices showed no change from the week prior, but were lower than in the same period of 1928. Prices for stocks reached a new high record during the week.

Convertibles in Demand.

Greater demand by investors for securities with conversion privilege is evidenced in the present market, although opinions vary as to the exact value added to a security by the conversion right, according to Schluter & Co.

"The public is giving considerable intangible value to call or conversion rights, even though such rights may be of varying worth," the banking house states. "Bankers and security dealers agree that a conversion privilege attached to a bond or preferred stock is worth from five to ten points above the appraisal value of such securities on a strictly investment basis without the conversion rights attached."

Curb Review

New York, Feb. 1 (A.P.).—Profit-taking took much of the steam out of the bull drive on the Curb Market today after many issues, especially aviation, utility and mining stocks, had invaded new high ground. The closing was steady, but selling which broke out on the advance of call money to 8 per cent caused many recessions.

Airplane and allied issues held the group leadership throughout most of the day. Aviation Corporation, Douglas, Keystone, Boeing, Travelair, Sikorsky and Niles Bement Pond attracted much of the buying and some established new peaks.

Utilities again gave the airplane issues a close race for popular favor, but here again profit-taking wiped out many gains. American Light & Traction, Central States Electric, Standard Power & Light, Utility Shares, Sierra Pacific Electric and Mountain States Power preferred reached new high levels. Electric Bond & Share, Electric Investors, American Gas & Electric, Southeastern Power & Light and American Superpower A closed 1 to 5 points lower.

Oils showed a decided improvement. Standard of Indiana joined Standard of Ohio, Imperial, Continental, Gulf and Penn Mex Fuel in an advance which carried some of them up 7 points or more.

Mines generally were strong, led by Kennecott, Newmont, St. Anthony Gold and Ohio Copper.

A few radio issues were in demand, notably Grigsby Grunow, which reached another new top at 170½ and closed up nearly 10 points net at 165, and Marconi International. Food products issues also attracted buying, with Hygrade Food Products and United Biscuit A at new highs. Chain store issues extended their gains, wide advances being made by National Family Stores, Trunz Pork Stores, Southern Grocery Stores, Spiegel May Stern preferred and Walgreen.

Among industrials to reach new tops were Aluminum preferred, Transamerica, Hiram Walker, Hercules Powder, Nehi first preferred, Procter & Gamble, Dow Chemical, Crocker Wheeler Electric, Davenport Hosiery, Deere and International Cigar Machinery. Automotives turned weak, Checker Cab breaking to close at 80 after reaching a new high at above 87.

Lincoln Motor Decision Victory for Henry Ford

Lansing, Mich., Feb. 1 (A.P.).—Henry Ford and his son, Edsel B. Ford, won at least a temporary verdict today in their litigation with Wilfred C. Leland and stockholders of the Lincoln Motor Co., when the State Supreme Court ordered a suit in Oakland County Court dismissed. Leland and his associates charged stockholders of the old Lincoln company were defrauded by failure of Ford to carry out a contract agreement they said was made when the Fords purchased the company.

The Supreme Court found the stockholders did not lose and said that, on the contrary, the agreement Leland was trying to enforce was contrary to public policy. The court stipulated, however, that Leland and other stockholders might file an amended bill of complaint.

FIGHT IS FORECAST ON APPROPRIATION BILL FOR DISTRICT

CITES FIGURES TO SHOW CITY IS TREATED FAIRLY

Refers to Revenues Derived From Visitors Attracted to the Capital.

Another Senate and House battle over the District appropriation bill was forecast yesterday when Representative Simmons, of Nebraska, issued a statement challenging the views of Senator Bingham, of Connecticut, with regard to whether $9,000,000 is a fair contribution for the Federal Government to make toward the cost of running the city.

Bingham, who is handling the District appropriations bill on his side of the Capitol, holds that the Federal Government ought to contribute at least $9,000,000.

Simmons, who has charge of the bill in the House, declared in his statement yesterday that Bingham does not give the Federal Government sufficient credit for the economic benefits that accrue to Washington by reason of the thousands of visitors who are attracted here by the national monuments and great public buildings

Differ on Tax Liability.

Simmons also differs with Bingham on the tax liability of the Federal Government and toward the District government, and cites a lengthy array of figures to sustain his argument. He declares that Bingham, by accepting $1,336,315 as the sum the Federal Government would have to pay on tangible personal property, would charge the United States with 51 per cent of the tangible personal property in the city.

"I submit," said Simmons, "as I did in my previous statement, that that is an absurd charge against the United States. Either it is too high as a 'charge' against the United States or it means the District citizen is not paying his full share of District tangible taxes."

Loss in Taxes Disputed.

Simmons also challenges Bingham's statement with regard to the loss in revenue to the District through tax-exempt property and with regard to the question of public parks. The United States, he said, not only is paying a fair tax on its park property, but over and above that is paying $1,000,000 for parks in the city.

Senator Bingham's subcommittee is approaching the end of its hearing on the District appropriation bill and soon will be ready to introduce the measure in the Senate.

Masked Pair Robs Grocer in Store

$32 Loot Obtained When Victim Mistakes Thugs for Customers.

Two masked colored robbers early yesterday evening held up and robbed Benjamin Cohen, grocer, of approximately $32 in his store at 1001 First street southwest, according to a report he made to the police.

Cohen told Detective Sergt. Oscar W. Mansfield, who investigated the report, that the two men entered his store while it was vacant and while he and his wife were in a back room. Thinking that they were customers, Cohen went to the front, and one of the men covered him with a revolver while the other ransacked his clothes and the cash register.

55-Day Term in Jail Given "Charity" Driver

Driving an automobile "for charity" yesterday landed Jackson Hunter, colored, in the District Jail for 55 days in lieu of a $75 fine imposed by Judge Isaac R. Hitt in Traffic Court.

Hunter was arrested by Motorcycle Policeman Raymond V. Sinclair on charges of reckless driving and operating without a permit. The patrolman said that Hunter displayed a permit made out to Walter H. Maxfield and explained he was driving the car for his friend just "for charity." Questioned by the policeman, the negro admitted that he found the permit on the street. He was arrested following a collision at Vermont avenue and Fourteenth street northwest.

Samuel G. Mawson, left, commander, Department of Potomac, G. A. R., and Judge Hosea B. Moulton, who will serve with eight other veterans of the G. A. R. as escort of honor for President Coolidge and President-elect Hoover on March 4.

$10,000 Is Already Received for Inaugural Grandstand Seats.

The names of nine of the ten veterans of the Grand Army of the Republic who will compose the escort of honor for President Coolidge and President-elect Hoover during the ceremonies and parade on March 4 were announced yesterday by the inaugural committee.

The veterans have accepted an invitation to ride in two automobiles directly behind the presidential parties in the inaugural parade. They are:

Judge Hosea B. Moulton, of Washington, who made the selections for the committee; Maj. Gen. John L. Clem, of the District; Capt. E. L. Hawk, past commander in chief, Sacramento, Calif.; Francis A. Walsh, Milwaukee, Wis., also a past commander in chief; Samuel G. Mawson, commander, Department of the Potomac; E. D. Godfrey, quartermaster, Department of the Potomac; Henry A. Johnson, assistant adjutant general, Department of the Potomac; former Gov. Samuel R. Van Sant, past commander in chief, Minneapolis, Minn.; Dr. Charles V. Petteys, surgeon, Department of the Potomac.

The inaugural committee expects that about 32 governors of States will participate in the parade, along with escorts averaging eight persons. Automobiles for them will be furnished by the committee.

Receipts of the week for reservations in parade grandstands went well over $10,000 yesterday. The ticket committee maintains offices at Room 302, Transportation Building, Seventeenth and H streets northwest, and expects to begin delivery of tickets February 11.

Miss Sybil Baker, of the entertainment committee, has been advised that the Corcoran Art Gallery will be kept open Saturday evening, March 2, for the benefit of inauguration visitors. The nominal fee of 25 cents will be charged.

BUILDER SENTENCED ON PERJURY CHARGE

Bankruptcy Case Testimony False, Harry A. Bramow Admits to Court.

GETS 2 YEARS IN PRISON

A two-year penitentiary sentence was imposed on Harry A. Bramow, 36 years old, widely known apartment house builder, yesterday by Chief Justice Walter I. McCoy in criminal division of the District Supreme Court. Bramow pleaded guilty to one of four counts in an indictment charging him with perjury during a bankruptcy proceeding.

The indictment charged that the builder appeared before Ralph D. Quinter, bankrupt referee, and gave false testimony regarding payment of a debt to a creditor at a meeting of other creditors, who had brought the bankruptcy proceedings against him. Chief Justice McCoy classed the debt in question as a "gambling obligation" and the builder was accused of paying less than he swore he had.

Change in Plea Refused.

Counsel for the builder sought to have his plea changed, and permission to allow him to be tried on all four counts of the charge, but Chief Justice McCoy refused. After sentence had been pronounced District Attorney Leo A. Rover entered a nolle prosse to the other counts of the indictment.

Austin E. Gibson and his wife, Mrs. Bernice Gibson, pleaded guilty to a charge of concealing assets when Gibson, a former plumber, went into bankruptcy January 6, 1927. The case was referred to probation authorities. Gibson and his wife, according to the charge, failed to account for assets totaling $7,826.

Credit Men Laud Fight.

The plea of Bramow and Gibson and his wife were classed by the Washington Association of Credit Men as the first result of their year-and-a-half campaign against alleged fraudulent bankruptcies.

A committee of the association, consisting of W. C. Hanson, H. E. Stringer, Eugene Rurark, Joshua Evans and C. W. Clayton, was appointed in August, 1927, to look into activities of an alleged bankruptcy ring that had cost Washington wholesalers more than a half million dollars in 1926 and the first part of 1927.

The committee, in commenting on the sentencing of Bramow and the guilty pleas of Gibson and his wife, thanked District Attorney Leo Rover and Attorney G. C. Shinn, committee lawyer, for their cooperation.

CAPITAL PASTOR'S SON IS CONVICTED

FATHER REMAINS SILENT

Robert Eveler, 17-year-old son of the Rev. George Eveler, pastor of St. John's Lutheran Church, found yesterday that a lifelong desire to be "on the go" had taken him only as far as the Chicago House of Correction.

Young Eveler, who is a former student at McKinley High School, was arrested about six weeks ago on charges of attempted extortion brought by his former employer, Nathan Ritholz. Yesterday, according to Associated Press dispatches from the Western metropolis he was fined $200 and costs in the Chicago Boys Court, and, unable to pay the fine, is to be sent to the house of correction until the money is forthcoming from his father.

Telephone calls to the home of the boy's father, 435 Quincy street southwest, brought the information that the latter "had nothing to say" and "didn't want to hear about" his son's case.

According to the boy's confession shortly after his arrest a few days before Christmas, he had sent letters to Ritholz demanding money. The letters, which purported to come from the "Crooks Investigation Syndicate," threatened to expose certain vague happenings in the former employer's past unless $3,000 were delivered to Eveler.

Ritholz insisted that the youth receive punishment when Judge William Helander appeared disposed to heed his father's plea that he be released. A report from the Psychopathic Hospital had indicated that he is sane.

Argument on Teachers' Pay to Be Heard Tuesday

Cases involving the pay of District school teachers have been ordered for reargument before the District Court of Appeals beginning on Tuesday. The District government obtained a writ of error from a decision of Judge James A. Cobb, of the District Municipal Court, which favored pay increases claimed by the teachers.

Arguments were heard in the cases last month, but in view of the circumstances the appellate tribunal desired further presentation of questions involved. The teachers are represented by Attorney Paul E. Leith, and Assistant Corporation Counsel Francis H. Stephens appears for the District.

Couple's Marriage Is Kept Secret Nearly 15 Months

Love, which, as everyone knows, has a laugh up its sleeve for locksmiths, may also steal a smile now and then at Father Time, it was demonstrated yesterday.

Almost 15 months ago L. Keith Kloman, of Clarendon, Va., and Miss Clara Mae Mason, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Isam Mason, 1400 Holly street northwest, were married at Annapolis. Yesterday formal announcement was made of the marriage by the parents of Mrs. Kloman.

The bride and bridegroom are both employes of the Southern Railway. When that company began moving its offices to Atlanta, Ga., it became evident that Miss Mason would be sent South. They were engaged, but they felt they should both work until they could afford to have their own home. So they were quietly married, and Mrs. Kloman went to Atlanta, while her husband remained here.

Possibly the marriage would have remained secret longer had not the mother of the bridegroom chanced to discover the marriage certificates among his effects.

Mrs. Kloman will return to Washington in March, it was learned last night, but beyond that their plans were not divulged.

Five Year Sentence Imposed.

Convicted of housebreaking, Fred Curley, colored, was sentenced to serve five years in prison by Chief Justice Walter I. McCoy yesterday in criminal division of the District Supreme Court. He was arrested on November 4, 1927 and admitted removing fixtures from a vacant house and breaking into a junk yard with the intention of making off with a quantity of copper.

CITIZENRY DEMANDS CLEAN-UP AS RESULT OF GAMBLERS' FETE

Emig Suggests Gen. Butler for Job in Letter to Senator Capper.

NO LAWS WERE BROKEN, COMMISSIONER ASSERTS

Representative Gibson Will Confer With Police Chief Regarding Action.

A suggestion that Gen Smedley Butler, of the Marine Corps, be employed to clean up "lawlessness" here was made by Maj. Clayton E. Emig, of the Dupont Citizens Association, in a letter to Senator Arthur Capper, chairman of the Senate District committee.

Clinton N. Howard, chairman of the National United Committee for Law Enforcement, sent a letter to Washington pastors in which he said that it "behooves the moral forces of the city to rally in defense of law and order."

No Laws Violated.

Commissioner Proctor L. Dougherty submitted a report to Senator Capper in which he said that no law or regulation had been violated by those who gave the performance for four men who went to jail because they would not "squeal."

Dougherty forwarded the further information that the company that owns the Gayety Theater is headed by Joshua Evans, prominent in local banking circles.

Representative Ernest W. Gibson, of Vermont, chairman of a House subcommittee that is investigating police affairs here, announced that he was going to confer with Maj. Edwin B. Hesse, superintendent of police, about the benefit show. Gibson said he realized that no law had been broken, but he felt that the performance was proof positive that there is a large underworld element in Washington, and therefore pertinent to the study he and his colleagues are making of the crime situation here.

Charity Aspect.

"As for the charity aspect of it," Gibson said, "I would be the last one in the world to keep the necessities of life away from the wives and children of the four men. What interests me is how a performance like that could attract such a crowd when no public announcement of it was made. It seems to me that it would have been a good chance for the police to have arrested gamblers and others for whom warrants have been issued."

Senator Capper asked Commissioner Dougherty for a report on the benefit performance when the two met at the hearing on the District appropriation bill Tuesday morning. In his letter to Capper yesterday, Dougherty inclosed a report from Capt. T. A. Bean, of the First Precinct, in whose territory the Gayety lies.

Theater Was Gratis.

Bean reported that the show was promoted by Joe Freeman, that the talent and the theater were provided gratis, and that, contrary to reports that the proceeds would be used as a defense fund for the four men, all the money went to their families.

The manager of the Gayety, he said, was Benjamin Jacobsen, and the house is owned by the Washington Theater Corporation, of which Joshua Evans is president.

"I presented the facts to Mr. Thomas, assistant corporation counsel," Bean said, "and he positively stated that there had been no violation of the regulations or laws in force in the District of Columbia."

Theaters are permitted to operate 24 hours on week days, and from 2 p. m. to 11 p. m. on Sunday.

Maj. Emig praised Senator Capper for his denunciation of the benefit. While he did not want to criticize Washington, he said, he believes that there is "developing here an underworld movement which many of our well-meaning citizens not only make light of but take no part to prevent."

Lawlessness on Increase.

"Having a high personal regard for our local guardians of the law" Emig wrote, "I do feel that lawlessness is on the increase in the District. I therefore suggest that perhaps one of the experience of Gen. Smedley Butler, who is soon to return from China, be given the opportunity to study the local situation, and, if necessary, be given authority to aid in correcting it."

Gen. Butler's last tilt with lawlessness in Philadelphia was reported to have ended somewhat disastrously.

Clinton Howard, in his letter to the local pastors, said:

"When the underworld is so organized as to fill a theater in defense of lawlessness without a single prior press announcement or advertisement, and crowd it to capacity until 4 o'clock in the morning with gamblers, prizefighters, rum runners, bootleggers and underworld patrons at $5 admission as a benefit for convicted criminals 'who would not squeal' it behooves the moral forces of the city to rally in defense of law and order."

ALTERATION PLANS FOR CAPITAL WILL PROVIDE AMPLE AIR

COLONNADE TO PARK IS ONE IMPROVEMENT

$832,000 Is Cost of Great Change to Better Both Houses of Congress.

A Senate chamber "in the form of an amphitheater with direct light in the north end of the Capitol" is included in the enlargement and alteration plans made public in New York yesterday by Thomas Hastings, of Carrere & Hastings, architects.

The Government is spending $832,000 to improve the light and air of both houses of Congress. Of that amount $500,000 represents the cost of alterations in the Senate chamber and $332,000 the cost of ventilation systems for the Senate and House.

Colonnade at North End

At the north end of the Capitol, according to the architect's plans, "large windows will open out on a colonnade, where the senators can come out and look out on the park. Around the amphitheater will be a circulation, somewhat like a foyre, where the Senators may congregate.

"The room will be made similar in character and architecture to the present old Supreme Court room, which was the original Senate room before the Capitol was enlarged, and also somewhat similar in design to the Statuary Hall, built in the time of Jefferson, and the Hall of Representatives. The design will be late Colonial, sometimes spoken of as classic revival, and very much in line with the old original building.

Columns Are Specified

"In the Senate chamber on one side with the rostrum there will be an Ionic order of columns, rather Greek in character, but larger than those in the Supreme Court. Around the curved surface will be a smaller order of Doric columns supporting the balcony railings and in character with the larger order.

"The room will be very serious in its general design, and it has been our endeavor to keep it absolutely in character with the old building, especially that part designed by Thornton and Latrobe.

"The present old chamber, designed in the character of the early Victorian, is really not worthy. It is a very dreary and formidable room. The room as now contemplated will make a beautiful room with galleries around it, and with rooms and retiring rooms for the press which are much more ample than those at present in use."

Man Faces Two Charges Of Assault After Fight

George Haig, 27 years old, of 1738 Church street northwest, was arrested by Third Precinct police yesterday and charged with assault on two counts as the result of an altercation in a store at 1739 Connecticut avenue northwest.

Haig is alleged by police to have mixed it with George A. Mazalian, 30 years old, and Jack Mazalian, 27 years old, both of the Connecticut avenue address. Police said Haig struck both men and bit the elder on the left arm.

Foe of Churches Sentenced To Year in Jail for Fraud

Pleading guilty to charges of obtaining $281 through false pretenses from a local church organization, David Albert Stuckey, 26 years old, of Carlisle, Pa., was sentenced yesterday by Judge Ralph Given in Police Court to serve a year in the District Jail and to pay a fine of $400 or serve another year.

The dapper dressed defendant, who declared revenge against all churches had motivated his crime, was nonchalant when the court decreed his fate, and remarked, "I guess I got a pretty good break at that. It could be worse."

In passing sentence Judge Given denounced Stuckey's act as "one of the meanest of confidence [illegible]mes."

Stuckey, who said he had been a student at Georgia Tech, was arrested Sunday by Detectives Charles P. Weber and Howard E. Ogle on four charges of false pretenses. He is alleged to have aroused the sympathies of representatives of local church societies in obtaining the money. He is said to have told a pathetic story of being a paroled convict trying "to go straight."

In his youth, Stuckey said, a pastor in his home town pressed a charge of joy riding against him and as a result he was sent to jail. Since that time, he declared, he has held a bitter feeling toward all churches and church people and has given them "dirty deals" whenever he could.

"The only decent thing in my life has been my love for a girl right here in Washington," Stuckey said. He refused to reveal her identity. "She knows me by another name and I hope she never finds out about me. We were to have been married this week, but when the cops arrested me last Sunday that changed all our plans."

Aid to U. S. Attorney Quits After 10 Years

James J. O'Leary Plans to Resume Practice; Will Help Own School.

James J. O'Leary, assistant United States attorney for the District since 1918, yesterday tendered his resignation, to be effective February 28.

O'Leary advised District Attorney Leo Rover that he will resume the private practice of law and devote more of his time to the James J. O'Leary Law School, at 1510 H street northwest, which he founded.

Appointed assistant United States attorney in May, 1918, by John E. Laskey, O'Leary has been active in a number of cases of prominence, including the Story-O'Connor case, wherein an indictment for first-degree murder was upheld where death was caused by an automobile; the Sinclair-Burns criminal contempt case now before the Court of Appeals, and the Frank Dane prize fight case. For the last year O'Leary has devoted his time mostly to condemnation cases in cooperation with Henry H. Glassie and A. Leftwich Sinclair, special assistants to the Attorney General.

Several recommendations were made by O'Leary in his letter of resignation.

"Some study of the matter of 'crime waves' leads to the conclusion that two possible preventatives of crime are (1) reasonable yet strict parental discipline of youth, and (2) certainty of apprehension, speedy trial, and adequate punishment of the guilty." * * *

"Attempts to change mortal man into an angel by legislative fiat imposing punishment altogether out of proportion to the wrongfulness of the prohibited act, and efforts to enforce such fiat by an army of snoops, sneaks and snitches do not seem to be protecting the people from crimes of violence," O'Leary wrote.

"A decent investigation by the prosecutor of the honesty of cases emanating from the sneak-snoop-snitch source takes times—time that might otherwise be employed in prosecutions * * * Moreover, I believe that in many indictments is much unnecessary verbiage which confuses juries as well as affording clever defenders a fruitful field for technical variances with resulting motions for directed verdicts as well as motions to quash and demurrers based upon the claim of alleged lack of certainty in fact-averments."

Leniency for Philip Shirley Cockrell, sentenced to 30 years in the penitentiary in 1920 for murder of his wife, was proposed by O'Leary as his "final official recommendation." Stating that it was the opinion of the late Justice Gould, who presided over the Cockrell trial, that Cockrell should be released on parole when eligible and discharged after service of two-thirds of the sentence, O'Leary wrote that he concurred, and pointed out that Cockrell was released on parole November 15, last.

"If application for a presidential pardon be submitted to the office regarding Cockrell, my recommendation, as prosecutor of the case, is that such executive clemency be extended; if not, that he be discharged upon completion of service of two-thirds of his sentence," O'Leary wrote.

O'Leary, who is 42 years old has a voting resident in Philadelphia and is a native of West Virginia. He was an honor graduate at Georgetown University Law School in 1911 and at one time was employed as an assistant to Gov. Joseph W. Chief counsel of the Interstate Commerce Commission. During the World War he was employed at the Department of Justice.

DISTRICT HEADS HIT TAX EXEMPTION BILL

"SPECIAL" LAW DECRIED

The District Commissioners yesterday emphatically disapproved the Senate bill providing for exempting from taxation the property occupied by the National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution at 1227 Sixteenth street northwest.

Their disapproval was expressed in a letter to Senator Reed Smoot, chairman of the Senate finance committee, who had referred the bill to the Secretary of the Treasury, who, in turn, had referred it to the District Commissioners because, the Commissioners informed Smoot, "the subject matter relates to the administration of the District of Columbia."

The property which it is sought to exempt is erroneously described by lot and square number in the bill. The Commissioners gave Smoot the correct designation. The property is valued at $127,000, for taxation purposes, they said.

"The Commissioners are very firm in their opinion that special laws of this character should not be enacted and that general laws exempting property from taxation should be strictly construed in favor of the public as against the individual organization," the Commissioners said. Organizations whose property does not come within the scope of the general exemption law, they said, "should pay taxes for such property and recognize such an obligation in the founding of their institutions and the calculations of their budgets."

Steel Hull Is Ordered For U. S. Dredge Talcott

A new steel hull for the United State's dredge Talcott, of the local United States engineer's office, is provided by an allotment of $57,000 for the division of the Potomac River at Washington, was announced yesterday by the office of the chief of engineers.

The steel hull will replace the old wooden one, which is deteriorating, and the appropriation will also provide a new first story for its superstructure. The local Federal engineer's office is preparing plans and specifications for transfer of the dredge's machinery into the new hull and construction of quarters for the operating crew on the second deck, at an estimated cost of $40,000. These will be ready in a month.

D. A. R. HALL READY IN APRIL, IS CLAIM

LAUDS PATRIOTIC PARLEY

Constitution Hall, the new $2,000,000 auditorium of the Daughters of the American Revolution, now under construction, will be finished in time for dedication at the thirty-eighth Continental Congress during the week of April 19, Mrs. Alfred J. Brosseau, president general of the organization, announced yesterday at a meeting of the national board in Memorial Continental Hall.

The building has been under construction since August and progress has been rapid, due to the fact that finances have always been available during the various stages of construction.

Consideration was given by the board to resolutions passed by the women's fourth patriotic conference, which met here recently and which was participated in by the D. A. R. The organization's participation in the cruiser conference also was reported.

Mrs. Brosseau, in speaking of her satisfaction at the decisions of these two conferences, declared "the time has come when we should fight for American standards, for we are confronted with forces that are trying to obstruct the Government, disarm it and deliver it to the enemy without."

Death of Brother Ends Suicide Pact

John E. Dorsey Succumbs at Casualty Hospital; Blood Transfusion Fruitless.

A suicide pact between two brothers was concluded yesterday when John E. Dorsey, 45 years old, died at Casualty Hospital after a blood transfusion had proved fruitless.

He and his brother, Lawrence R. Dorsey, 42 years old, were found lying together on the floor of their apartment at 65 M street northwest, Wednesday by neighbors who broke down the door. Gas was flowing from the burners of a stove, and the younger brother was already dead.

Dr. W. C. Duddenhausen, of Evansville, Ind., their brother-in-law, is expected here this morning to take care of the bodies. The brothers had left a note to Mrs. Duddenhausen, their sister, apologizing for committing suicide Thursday night.

LEHLBACH PAY BILL OPPOSED BY CIVIL SERVICE EMPLOYES

Resolution Adopted by League Asserts That Needs Are Not Met.

SUBSTITUTE MEASURE SOUGHT BY WORKERS

Demands for Higher Salary Must Be Made, Speaker Tells U. S. Clerks.

Passage of the Lehlbach bill raising the salaries of the Government employes was opposed in a resolution adopted last night at a meeting of the League of American Civil Service in the Powhatan Hotel.

The resolution charged that the legislation "fails to meet the needs of the employes" and expressed a belief that "suitable legislation can not be enacted at the present session of Congress."

The resolution closed by petitioning "Congress to postpone action on the said Lehlbach bill until such time as a more equitable bill may be prepared and presented for the consideration and action of the Congress."

The members present emphatically said that they had rather have nothing at all than the $60 a year raise that the Lehlbach bill would give them.

The league advocates a $300 flat raise for all of the lower grade employes.

Mrs. Margaret Hopkins Worrell, president of the league, upheld the Comptroller General's interpretation of the Welch pay raise bill and placed the blame for its failure to benefit the lower salaried clerks upon Representative Lehlbach.

Lehlbach and others have denounced McCarl for the manner in which he construed the bill, she said, but he would not have done otherwise in following the "language of the act."

Mrs. Worrell then called upon all Government employes to fight for their rights. "Many of the clerks have been cowered so long by the chiefs until they are afraid to stand up and say what they want," she said.

The members of the league would abolish the efficiency rating system, described as the "most terrible thing," and would place the Classification Board under the Civil Service Commission.

She was taken to Casualty Hospital in Davis' car, where an examination showed her to be suffering from internal injuries. Her skull is held probably to have been fractured.

Blackmer Served On Contempt Rule

Witness in Paris Must Answer by February 25 in Sinclair Case.

Harry M. Blackmer, former president of the Midwest Refining Co., has been personally served on the contempt of court rule recently issued against him by Justice William Hitz in the District Supreme Court for failure to appear as a witness for the Government at the conspiracy trial of Harry F. Sinclair last year, American Consul George Orr, at Paris, notified United States Marshal Edgar C. Snyder yesterday.

The notification stated that the consul personally handed a certified copy of the rule to Blackmer, in the presence of Henri Gadd, attorney for Blackmer, in Paris on January 21.

The rule requires Blackmer to make answer why he should not be adjudged in contempt of court by February 25. Acting on the rule, Marshal Snyder recently made a second levy on $100,000 worth of bonds posted by local counsel for Blackmer in a local bank. The bonds, said to be the only property possessed by Blackmer in this jurisdiction, were seized after a previous rule had been made by Justice Hitz, but this rule was allowed to expire uncontested. The levy was made under the Walsh act.
